

GREAT STRUGGLE IN CHICAGO IS FAIRLY ON ORESTES PIERCE IS DEAD PROF. SYLE DIES OF A BROKEN HEART

ORESTES PIERCE
PASSES AWAY
AT HIS HOME.

THE LATE ORESTES PIERCE.

He Was Well Known in the State and Had a Host of Friends in Oakland.

The many friends of Orestes Pierce will regret to learn of his death, which occurred this morning, at his residence in this city.

Mr. Pierce was born in Maine, educated at Bowdoin College in the class of 1875, and at Harvard Law School. He spent several years in the practice of law in the office of Judge E. R. Hoar at Boston, Mass., but, on account of his health, gave up the law for farming, and engaged in the breeding of thoroughbred Jersey cattle, acquiring within a short time, one of the prize winning herds of New England. He was one of the best expert judges of Jerseys in the country.

In 1888 Mr. Pierce came to California. Since then he has pursued a business career with uniform success. At the time of his death, he was president of the Willamette Pulp and Paper Company, and a director in the San Francisco National Bank.

Mr. Pierce was one of the most versatile, best read and best informed men in the community. He was an authority on a wide range of subjects, a most entertaining conversationalist, and of charming, yet vigorous and keen personality. He was a gentleman of the best type, honorable and loyal in all his dealings, high minded and always thoughtful of the feelings and comfort of those about him. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

He leaves a widow, Sally McKee Pierce, daughter of the late Judge McKee.

The funeral will take place Monday, November 16 at 2 p. m. from the late residence. Interment will be private.

COUNTRY CLUB HAS BOUGHT ROCKRIDGE PARK.

The Claremont Country Club is to have its permanent home at Rockridge Park, commonly known as the "Livermore place." At a meeting last night arrangements were perfected with the Realty Syndicate for the purchase of ninety-four acres of land and lease of thirty more, with the privilege of purchase.

With the 120 acres there is room for golf links and all manner of out-of-door sports. There is at present a four-story building upon the land that cost nearly $50,000 to erect. The whole is to be remodeled and beautified.

The present officers and directors of the club are: President, Edwin Goodall; vice-president, Frank M. Wilson; secretary, Sam Bell McKee; treasurer, William Pierce Johnson. The other directors are: F. W. Van Sicken, George P. McNear Jr. and P. E. Bowles.

The papers are now being prepared by Attorney George De Golia.

GREAT SURPRISE OVER MRS.
OELRICH'S ACTION.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Great surprise was occasioned in New York by the rich wife of Herman Oelrichs, has re-riches, wife of Herman Oelrichs, has revoked the general power of attorney, which she gave to her husband in 1897. For years Mr. and Mrs. Oelrichs were prominent in New York society, but they have not taken as prominent a part as usual in social affairs this season.

MAYOR HARRISON OF CHICAGO.

Strike of the Chicago Street Car Men Promises to be Bitter Affair.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Talk of arbitration caused no relaxation in the efforts of the Chicago City Railway officials today to provide for a prolonged struggle. In anticipation of a sympathetic strike of teamsters, every effort was being made today by the officials to get in an adequate supply of coal for the company's huge blw.

Furthermore preparations were in progress on a large scale for sleeping and restaurant accommodations for the non-union men whom the officials announce will operate cars. Officials of the company were kept busy rushing in cots to the barns and power houses and buying cooking utensils and provisions.

NO ANSWER.

President W. D. Mahan, of the Employers' Association, said definitely this morning that the street car men would not wait upon Mayor McCulloch for an answer to their demands today. He said:

"The proposition of Mr. McCulloch to answer us at 11 o'clock today was answered fully and completely by the executive board of the union at its meeting Monday night. When the board gave Mr. McCulloch forty-eight hours to consider its ultimatum. The action of the board has since been indorsed by the union and in so far as we are concerned, the incident is closed. Anything in the way of conciliation, must come by way of new negotiations to which we are opposed. If Mr. McCulloch wishes to meet us we are willing to arbitrate as we have been and will continue to be."

A NEW MOVE.

A new method of preventing street blockades was put into effect today by the police. Whenever cars were passing from the strike district, the thoroughfare used was temporarily closed to all wagon traffic. The result was to practically eliminate attempts at interference by teamsters friendly to the strikers. Under practically the same police tactics as were employed yesterday, four cars left the Westworth avenue barns in the southern outskirts of the city at 10 a. m., and headed toward the business district, nine miles distant. Police at ended the cars in patrol wagons, and a most cordoning each side of the avenue, made interference an undertaking of difficulty.

HOOTED THE POLICE.

A large crowd about the Seventy-seventh street car barns jeered and hooted at the police and car men as the cars moved out, but offered no violence. One hundred policemen massed at that point kept the crowd at a safe distance. Eight

BRAKEMAN IS KILLED IN THE DARK.

In the dark and the rain last night, Jesse Taylor, a brakeman on the narrow gauge railroad, met a horrible death at Newark about 9:30 o'clock. He was 28 years of age, the only support of his mother and was to have been married next month to a young lady at Frank's station, on the road upon which he worked.

Taylor's death was due to the carelessness of the men in the same work as himself. A car left standing on the track, against the rules of the company, was struck by the engine upon which he was riding and he was crushed and run over and his trunk severed of all its members. Arms, head and legs were cut off by the wheels of the engine and a jack-screw was used to lift the tank in order to release the body from under it.

Taylor was head brakeman on what is known as the Valley Freight. It runs from San Jose to the mole every night and picks up cars along its route. Last night it stopped at Newark to get some cars on a spur track that runs down to the foundry. The engine backed down on the siding, with Taylor standing on the narrow stop at the rear of the engine, ready to make the coupling when the cars were reached. The head-light at that end of the engine was out of order and neither engineer or brakeman saw an empty car standing on the track that had been shunted off to the siding from the main line.

Suddenly the engine struck the obstruction. The bumper on the car struck Taylor and jammed him against the engine. The force of the contact sent the empty car down the track, and Taylor's body released, fell in front of the engine. Engineer Wilson put on the air-brakes at the instant of the impact, but the engine did not go far enough to clear the body. Death must have been instantaneous, as he could never have survived the shock of the engine with the car it struck.

According to the statement of railway employees the empty car could not have been left standing where it was. Even with its rear headlight in proper working order, at the rate the engine goes down the switches, it would have been almost impossible to have seen the car in time to avert the collision. Taylor's body was placed in car and taken into Alameda. His mother lives at Laurel, a station between San Jose and Santa Cruz. He was a member of the Railway Employees' Association and it is said will receive about $1200 insurance.

S. T. ALEXANDER IS SUED
FOR HEAVY DAMAGES

A suit for $25,000 damages was filed in the Superior Court of this county today by A. J. Fulmer against S. T. Alexander, the Hawaiian sugar king and millionaire resident of this city.

The cause of action is based upon an arrest of Fulmer by the alleged connivance of the defendant, Alexander, on the 30th day of November 1902.

The parties had business relations in the management of a ranch in Shasta county. The defendant leased the property to the plaintiff and agreed to sell him the land for $13,000. Afterwards, it is charged, he backed out of his agreement and sought to have the plaintiff ousted. The judgment of the court was for defendant, but the plaintiff appealed.

In the meantime, G. W. Burnier, foreman for Alexander, called upon Fulmer and started to quarrel with him. Fulmer saw his attorney, who instructed him to hold the fort. The next time Burnier called he showed hostilities. Fulmer resisted his attack on him and drove Burnier off of the place. Burnier then swore out a warrant for Fulmer's arrest. When Fulmer came into town, which happened on a Sunday, and while on his way to church, he was seized by the constable and humiliated by being carried through the streets to the Anderson jail. He then gave bail and was released. The case came up before the Justice of the Peace, but the prosecution, relenting of its action, failed to appear and the defendant was discharged. Fulmer now seeks to recover damages in the sum mentioned, for false imprisonment. Hiram A. Lundtrel is attorney for the plaintiff.

DIED OF A BROKEN HEART.

Prof. L. Du Pont Syle Passed Away This Morning.

Never Recovered From Shock Caused by His Dismissal.

Professor Louis Du Pont Syle, connected for some time with the University at Berkeley, died in this city this morning at the age of 45 years, leaving a widow, Edith, and one daughter, Elizabeth.

The funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10:30 o'clock a. m.

His friends say Professor Syle died of a broken heart. They allege that President Wheeler had him removed from his position in the State University by misrepresentation, and subsequently hounded him, wherever he went to seek employment in other universities.

The story goes that President Wheeler imputed to Professor Syle the authorship of an anonymous political screed entitled "Ben, Jim and Ide," and in revenge had him dismissed from the University and wrote letters to the heads of other educational institutions decrying Syle.

Professor Syle had a host of friends among the students of the University, to whom he had endeared himself by kindly manner and his helpful assistance in their work.

He was a man of rare literary attainments and had established for himself an enviable reputation, both as an author and a dramatic critic. His text-books are monuments that will spread his fame and endure long after those who knew him personally shall have become but mouldering dust.

ENGINEER DIES IN WRECK.

DANGER SIGNAL WAS THROWN ON TOO LATE TO STOP.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 14.—One person was killed, four severely injured and a number of others slightly bruised in a wreck of the East Aurora accommodation train on the Pennsylvania railroad near this city. The engineer, Alonzo Cole, was burned under his engine and killed. It was said that the danger signal was thrown against the train when it was on the bridge. The engineer stuck to his post and tried to check the train but the distance was too short.

TWO MEN DELAY VERDICT.

JURY UNABLE TO AGREE ON VERDICT IN FRAUD CASE.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 14.—The jury before which were tried the combined cases of Thomas E. Barrett, Thomas E. Dolan and Policeman Frank P. Garrett, charged with naturalization frauds, announced to Judge Adams in the United States District Court this morning that they had not yet agreed on a verdict. Judge Adams sent the jury back to continue its deliberations. It is said that two men are responsible for the delay on reaching a verdict, the remaining being in favor of conviction.

WILL NOT ALLOW COLUMBIAN TROOPS
TO GIVE BATTLE.

REED SMOOT, APOSTLE OF THE MORMON CHURCH AND UNITED STATES SENATOR FROM UTAH. HIS CASE IS NOW BEING INVESTIGATED BY THE SENATE.

State Department Will Keep an Eye on the Soldiers From Colombia.

WASHINGTON, November 14.—The State Department has no knowledge of the march of any army from Colombia upon the Isthmus and the officials state that were any such movement made, it certainly would be informed by its agents in the South, cables being still open. These officials scout the idea that any such march is in progress as the president of Colombia is reported to have described to the president of Ecuador.

ONLY A FEW MEN.

It is assumed here that the "army" said to be marching on Panama was nothing more than a few men, perhaps 500 at all, who were about to embark at Buena Ventura a few days ago, when they were turned back from the isthmus by notice of the determination of the United States naval commanders to allow no landings in that quarter. These troops can not reach the isthmus by water and the officials here are positive that they can not do so by land. The character of the country is such that there is no subsistence for an army on the route of the wild mountain trails and the passages through the morasses that lie between Colombia proper and the Isthmus. Even if there were substance, the trails are so rough that it would require many weeks or even months for even a small army to make the journey.

OBSTACLES IN WAY.

But there are more than physical obstacles in the way of the approach of an army upon Panama. The officials do not care to express publicly their plans but enough has been gleaned from the instructions given to our naval commanders to make it evident that never again will the Isthmus become the seat of war so long as the United States Government can prevent it. The difference between the situation and that which existed last year when Commander McLean prevented the troops from crossing the isthmus by rail, is just this: The authorities have now determined to extend the lines of protection to the railroad.

They will not allow hostile forces, no matter whether they are Colombian or Panama troops, to come into collision anywhere near the railroad and to prevent such collisions, it will be necessary to extend the neutral zone clear to the derly and easily handled. They were kept moving constantly by policemen. With the aid of the entire force of patrolmen in Chicago, cars were even more safely taken to and from than was the case yesterday.

A few passengers availed themselves of the privilege of riding. Meanwhile peace proceedings talked earlier in the day failed to materialize. General Manager McCulloch waited at his office until after the specified time for the giving of the company's answer to the demand for a reason, but no representatives of the strikers appeared. Instead, the completeness of the strike was accentuated by the engineers and firemen at the power houses failing to report for work. Their places were announced by the railway officials to have been filled by non-union help. The immediate shutting down of the State street and Cottage Grove avenue cables was regarded by the strikers as significant.

LONG SIEGE.

In anticipation of a long siege the railway company is rushing preparations for the feeding and housing of its men. Its coal bunkers are also receiving attention, on account of the possibility of a sympathetic strike of teamsters.

Both sides appeared this afternoon to have settled down to a determined struggle for supremacy.

COMPANY'S ANSWER.

When the hour arrived today which Manager McCulloch, prior to the strike, fixed for giving the company's answer to the employees demand for arbitration, Mr. McCulloch, President Hamilton, Counsel Bliss and two directors were waiting at the company's office, but no committee of the strikers appeared. Soon however a note was dispatched from the union headquarters to Manager McCulloch inquiring his attitude toward the men and his views with reference to meeting the men in the light of events since the question of arbitration was raised.

Plans for the moving of cars on Wentworth avenue during the afternoon provided for better service than during the last two days. Twenty cars left the city limits at 1 o'clock for the business center. Ten of the cars turned back at Twenty-second street, playing between that point and the limits while the other ten remained in the stretch between the center and Twenty-second street.

The message from the employees headquarters was delivered by a district messenger boy to a clerk in the general offices of the railway company. The clerk took it to Mr. McCulloch and presented it and returned, saying to the boy: "Mr. McCulloch says there is no answer to the message."

NO PEACE CONFERENCE.

It was learned later that Mr. McCulloch and Counsel Bliss considered the note for some time and then returned the above answer.

Secretary Bland, of the union, declared upon receiving Mr. McCulloch's reply that no further peace overtures would be made by the union.

The note sent to Mr. McCulloch was signed by President Buckley, of the strikers union. It was sent for the asserted purpose of ascertaining definitely the sentiment of the company with regard to meeting the men. It read as follows:

"Robert McCulloch, general manager Chicago City Railway Company. Dear Sir: The morning papers report that you are ready and willing to meet our committee. Now, we have not received any notification or information from you that such a meeting is desired, but if you desire to meet our committee, we are ready to meet you at any time or place you may designate, to take up negotiations looking to a settlement."

LECTURE TOMORROW.

W. J. Colville will lecture on Sunday in Theosophical Hall, Flood building, 809 Market street, San Francisco, at 3 p. m. and in Loring Hall, 531 Eleventh street, Oakland, 7:30 p. m. The subject is "The Twentieth Century Paul on His Way to the Modern Damascus." A collection will be taken at the door.

STERN WARNING. Stern warning given that every person on the sidewalk or street who shouted abuse at the police or carmen would be treated as enemies of public order, the crowds in the strike district today were for the most part orderly and easily handled.

With the alleged refusal of the street railway officials to answer a request for a "peace conference" sent by the striking employees, the latter asserted late today that no further overture looking to an amicable settlement of the strike would be made by the men. The situation has resolved itself into a test of endurance with no disposition on the part of either side to yield. Rumors that union teamsters would refuse to deliver coal to the power houses and the linemen in the company's employ contemplate a walk-out tonight, confirmed the strikers in their defiant attitude.

SHE DEMANDED PROTECTION

STRANGE STORY TOLD BY A WOMAN AT CITY PRISON.

Miss Margaret Ward, of that uncertain age when a woman cannot say she is sixteen and won't admit she is fifty, came into the police receiving station this afternoon, saying she was afraid to stay at her home at 220 Hiven street, and had been away from it one day, stopping with a friend on some other street, whose name or number she could not remember, and that she wanted protection from a "gang of men" who were trying to find her to kill her. She asserted that word had been brought her this morning that the men had burned down her house because they could not find her.

This "gang" comes from San Mateo, and continually pursues her because they had trouble with an uncle some time ago and drove him to his death. Now they want to serve her the same way. Last night, she said, they could have not her, but for a lot of soldiers "and other boys" who protected her.

She says she has a brother, Edward, who lives next door to her at 224 Haven street and works for the railroad company, but that she can not go to him because he will not protect her from the crowd that is constantly pursuing her.

The fire department has no word of any building being burned in the neighborhood Margaret alleges her property is in and as she was evidently "frighty" she was detained, while an officer should investigate the brother story.

THEY WOULD NOT DELIVER COAL.

CHICAGO, November 14.—Coal wagons were halted at the doors of the power houses by the union teamsters and delivery refused to non-union firemen. This was declared by union leaders to foreshadow a strike of teamsters, and to allow the city to compel the teamsters to make the deliveries.

The police guard south of Twenty-second street to the city limits were materially reduced during the afternoon. Little disorder was reported.

BASEBALL GAME IS POSTPONED

The game between the Seattle and San Francisco baseball teams, which was scheduled to be played at the Oakland grounds tomorrow morning, will not take place for the reason that the grounds are in too muddy a condition. The afternoon game, however, will be played in San Francisco.

THE RAINFALL.

The rain fall for the twenty-four hours ending 1 p. m. today was .52 of an inch, making 2.88 inches for the season, as compared with 4.58 inches for the corresponding period last year.

THREE MONTHS FOR GERTIE.

JUDGE SMITH WAS TIRED OF GIVING HER TRIALS.

For the next three months it will be no trouble to ascertain the whereabouts of wayward Gertie Coffin, who has been giving her mother, the police and the court so much trouble, because she will be boarded at the county jail for that length of time.

The judge told her that he was inclined to give her the limit, on her conviction for vagrancy, but would cut it in half and see if that would have the desired effect. If it did not he would send her back.

Gertie was out on probation but could not behave herself and last Sunday night was having a wild time with male companions for which she is paying the penalty.

Night before last she became despondent, or pretended to be, and attempted suicide in the city prison by the gas route. She was discovered in time to save her after the city physician had worked over her a time.

The mother, Mrs. C. D. Coffin this morning requested the judge by letter to release Gertie but it was not done.

HELD TO ANSWER FOR BURGLARY.

On the 5th inst. Mrs. Martha O'Brien of 881 Cedar street thought she would take a trip over to San Francisco, so she locked up her house and went.

During her absence George Brown came prowling around the neighborhood, drunk he says, forced an entrance to the house, rummaged through it, packed the things he thought he would like to possess in a basket and wandered away with them. In his collection he had clothing, cutlery, a watch and other things.

Mrs. O'Brien's little son saw Brown leaving the place and followed him, finally meeting Detective Kyte, to whom he told the story. Kyte overhauled Brown and placed him under arrest.

This morning the burglar was held to answer in the Superior Court in the sum of $2000.

THE LATEST NEWS.

SAYINGS OF THE CHRIST

An Important Discovery is Made in Egypt.

LONDON, November 14.—Many hitherto unknown sayings of Jesus Christ have been discovered in Egypt by archaeologists, who have dug up papyrus buried since the second century 100 miles south of Cairo.

Dr. Bernard P. Grenfell, who has been engaged in Egyptian excavations since 1894, at the general meeting of the Egypt Exploration fund held here yesterday, gave the following details:

"Accompanied by Dr. Hunt, Dr. Grenfell found a rich papyrus necropolis at El Hihel. The bulk of the documents from the one mound consisted of a collection of sayings of Jesus. They are all introduced with the words 'Jesus saith' and for the most part are new. The ends of the lines, unfortunately, are often obliterated. Apparently all the sayings were addressed to Saint Thomas. One of the most remarkable is:

"Let not him that seeketh cease from his search until he finds, and when he finds he shall wonder; wondering he shall reach the Kingdom, I. e., the Kingdom of Heaven, and when he reaches the Kingdom he shall have rest."

Dr. Grenfell remarked that enormous interest would also be aroused by the discovery, on account of the variations they disclosed from accepted texts.

According to Grenfell these sayings formed the new gospel which is traditionally associated with St. Thomas. An interesting episode of the Gospel according to St. Luke, eleventh chapter and fifty-second verse: "Woe unto you lawyers, for ye have taken away the key of knowledge; yet entered not in yourselves, and them that were entering ye hindered, saying: 'Ye have hidden the key of knowledge; ye entered not yourselves, and to them that were entering ye did not open.'"

Another fragment contained a discourse of Christ closely related to passages of the Sermon on the Mount and a conversation between Christ and his disciples, in which Christ answers a question as to when his kingdom will be realized, saying:

"When ye return to the state of innocence which existed before the fall."

A valuable find was found written in Latin, giving the text of the Epistles to the Hebrews and portions of Luke's six last books. This, with other papyrus covering the period 150-127 B. C., threw much new and valuable history on the history of the world and marked the recovery of hitherto classical literature of Egypt.

FOOTBALL GAMES IN THE EAST.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 14.—Final score—Princeton, 11; Yale, 6. Princeton's victory over Yale today was the first since 1899, when the score was Princeton, 11; Yale, 10.

BARON STABBED BY ENEMY IN SOUTH

NEW ORLEANS, Louisiana, Nov.—Picked up in the street before daylight his clothing covered with blood, Waldemar Sorokoumoki, better known as Baron von Friesen, is in the hospital fatally wounded.

He had been stabbed twice. Frederick Haynes, a collector, who says he is from Georgia, and Tim Spickens, formerly of Thomasville, Georgia, are in jail.

Haynes is charged with having done the cutting. Von Friesen is a Russian and claims to have come of a noble family. He receives remittances weekly and is well known in cotton circles.

TEPPER IS IN TROUBLE

Some time ago the place kept by Captain Charles Tepper over in the Fruitvale district was closed by action of the Board of Supervisors. The captain has now gone into business in this city and Captain Petersen has advised the chief that liquor is being sold there without license to do so.

Tepper says that he expected to go into partnership with N. Benovich, former owner of the place, who had an unexpired license, but that Benovich "backed out" and that he had today filed an application in his own name.

The ordinance requires the endorsement of the Auditor and not of a deputy and Tepper is likely to butt against police hard if he continues to sell intoxicants before receiving the proper authority for doing so.

LIGHT RAIN IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, November 14.—A light rain that was barely more than a mist fell before daylight this morning, the indications promising a down-pour later in the day.

The sky is heavily overcast and rain is expected. In the country conditions are ripe for a wetting. The summer crops are harvested and a rain at this time would be beneficial to all sections.

THEY CAN INSPECT THE RECORDS.

Machen Wins His Point to Look at the Department's Books.

WASHINGTON, November 14.—The defendants in the postal cases who requested, and were refused, authority to inspect the official records of the postoffice department for data for their defense, have won their point and today began going over the records. August W. Machen, the former general superintendent of the postal free delivery service, appeared at the department today with his counsel and in the presence of Postoffice Inspector Mayer made extracts from the papers on file bearing on the cases. Samuel A. and Diller B. Groff, of this city, and Dr. and Mrs. George E. Lorenz, of Toledo, Ohio, co-defendants in the cases, also were represented in the inspection proceedings.

ROOSEVELT TALKS WITH THE STATESMEN.

Important Matters Discussed at the Meeting at the White House.

WASHINGTON, November 14.—President Roosevelt embraced the opportunity offered by the call on him of a large representation of both the Senate and House to discuss with members of the majority and the minority the situation which has arisen out of the establishment of the Republic of Panama. The nature of the action, if any, to be taken by Congress during the approaching session on the Panama canal situation has not been determined definitely, but it is known that it is constantly the subject of conferences between the President and members of Congress. A difference of opinion exists regarding the authority conferred by the Spooner act upon the President. It is known that the administration holds that the Spooner act furnishes ample warrant for the President to negotiate a treaty with Panama and to pay the money made available for canal purposes by the law to Panama instead of to Colombia. Senator Hanna of Ohio had a long conference with the President today. He remained with the President more than an hour. After he left the executive offices, Senator Hanna, while admitting that the Panama situation had been under discussion, declined to go into particulars. It can be said that the Senate Committee on Commerce has decided that Mr. Hanna shall succeed Senator Morgan of Alabama as chairman of the Committee on Inter-Oceanic Canals. The decision of the committee has not yet been announced, but will probably be next week.

LOOK FOR RAIN IN SOUTH

NO DAMAGE WILL RESULT FROM A DOWN-POUR.

SAN DIEGO, November 14.—A heavy overcast sky and damp wind indicates that the local prediction of rain today and tomorrow is about to be fulfilled.

No damage will result from a down-pour. The raisin crop matured slowly, fog interfering with the drying, but the yield is large and of excellent quality.

A larger crop of olives than ever before is promised and the demand is brisk. The prospect for early oranges is good and the fruit is ripening rapidly.

An unusually large yield is in sight and large orders have been placed with growers.

CONFESSION OF TALKING ABOUT DELRICHS.

EX-CITY ATTORNEY TELLS ALL ABOUT WATER SCANDAL.

GRAND RAPIDS, Michigan, Nov. 14. Lant K. Salisbury formerly City Attorney, has confessed to the whole of his connection with the famous water scandal of two years ago in this city, to prosecute Ward, and that arrests of former aldermen and city officials are to follow.

This announcement was made in the Superior Court today when Salisbury appeared for sentence for accepting a bribe. Sentence was deferred until the December term, the respondent having promised to become a witness in other cases which are to be brought.

A prominent official who is in close touch with the prosecution stated today that the development in the water scandal cases were to be of so sensational a nature that they would make this case the worst of the kind in the history of the nation, not even excepting the St. Louis scandal.

GUARDING THE INTERESTS OF THE U. S.

WASHINGTON, November 14.—It is said at the navy department that the only news received over night of the isthmus of Panama was a brief dispatch from Rear Admiral Glass announcing the arrival at Panama yesterday of the Monitor Wyoming. There are now seven vessels guarding the interests of the United States on the isthmus. Of these, four are on the Pacific side, the cruisers Boston and Marblehead, gunboat Concord and Monitor Wyoming. So far as known no other vessels except possibly colliers and supply boats will be sent to the west side of the isthmus for the present. On the Atlantic side are the cruiser Atlantic, the gunboat Nashville and the training ship Dixie. This fleet will be reinforced in a day or two by the battleship Maine and the President's yacht Mayflower.

ST. LOUIS, November 14.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Dallas, Tex., says: President Charles N. Alexander of the Dallas, Brazos and Northern Railway, reported to the city hall officials that thieves last night stole a value from his buggy containing $250,000 worth of securities of the railroad. The stolen police force of the city is at work on the case. The buggy from which the property was stolen was hitched on one of the most prominent corners of the business district while President Alexander was in an office consulting with other persons.

STORM IN THE NORTH

REDDING, Cal., November 14.—A severe rain and wind storm prevailed here last night. Four inches of rain fell within a few hours. Trees, fences and telegraph wires were prostrated. A landslide in the Siskiyou mountains will delay the passenger train from Portland at least five hours.

While attempting to ford Salt Creek early this morning with a horse and buggy, two young colored men were washed into the Sacramento River. One swam ashore and the other remained on a rock until daylight.

The horse and buggy were lost.

TEACHERS FORM A UNION.

NEW YORK, November 14.—Practically all the teachers in the public schools of Greater New York have been brought together in a powerful organization comparing in a favorable light numerically with any trades union in the city. The organization will be known as the Inter-Borough Council of Teachers.

Overtures recently received from the central federation of unions to have teachers form a regular trades union, affiliated with union workmen throughout the United States were rejected but the Inter-Borough Council possesses all attributes of a trades union, although the teachers insist that there is a wide difference in their organization.

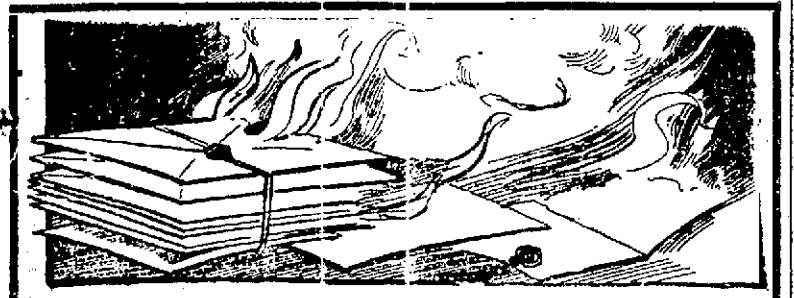

Nearly 13,000 employees of the Board of Education are members of the council, which will be the governing body for all the old associations.

The latter therefore are practically antagonized after many years of independence. The organization has as its direct object the betterment of teachers and a more perfect co-operation with the board of Education.

FATHER HESLIN IN AN ACCIDENT.

GOLDEN GATE, November 14.—Last night, about 5 o'clock, Rev. Father P. Heslin, rector of St. Columba's Church of this place, met with a painful accident. In attempting to leap over a small gate while doing some work about the parochial gardens Father Heslin was thrown to the ground, sustaining a fracture of his left ankle. He is now resting easily, but it is not expected that he will be able to walk about for three weeks. He is under the care of Drs. Maher and Crowley.

SPORTS

RACING SEASON OPENS AT THE EMERYVILLE TRACK.

WINTER RACING SEASON IS FORMALLY OPENED.

Six Splendid Races Are Run This Afternoon.—Mud Larks Have Everything Their Own Way.

After several months of absolute quiet extending over the summer and autumn months, the Emeryville race track is once more the scene of the greatest activity because of the opening of the winter season of racing under the auspices of the California Jockey Club this afternoon.

The officials of the Jockey Club had hoped for a pleasant day for the opening of the winter season but they are doomed to disappointment for the day opened up dark and forbidding and the rain fell almost incessantly. This did not stop the thousands of spectators who found their way to the race course.

Because of the fresh rains today the track was a sea of mud and decidedly sloppy. It was the ideal condition of mud larks and they just revelled in the going. In some places there were pools of water. The jockeys came out on the track gaily bedecked in gay colors but left soaked with water and bespattered with mud so that they were unrecognizable.

Early this afternoon the crowds commenced to pour into the grounds, and they came from all directions. The Southern Pacific Company related the race track specials, which were running last winter, and each trip brought hundreds of racing enthusiasts, many coming for the express purpose of witnessing the great inaugural Handicap, which brought some of the fastest horses in the country together in competition.

It did not take long to fill the large and spacious grand stand to overflowing, and the space between the stand and the rail was packed with people. Under the grand stand, where the betting ring is located, the crowd surged forward and back and it was almost impossible to get through to reach any of the bookmakers.

Full eighteen or twenty pencils were on hand for the opening day, and there were more than kept busy laying odds on the various candidates for the various events. In pursuance of the policy adopted by the Jockey Club last year, the betting ring was kept open and above board, and good odds were always obtainable.

Over at the various stables and paddocks there were scenes of the greatest activity. Horsemen and trainers, as well as the exercise boys and jockeys, were hurrying to and fro, and the horses that were to face the barrier were gotten ready to make their appearance on the track. Many of the spectators wandered over to the various stalls, between races, to get a glimpse of their favorites. All in all, the opening day presented a very animated scene.

The opening of the season of 1903 was an auspicious one and it will prove to be one of the greatest in the history of racing in California. Never before has there been so many fast horses quartered at the tracks about the bay as this year. The accommodations at Emeryville were exhausted some time ago, and now there is very little stable room left at Ingleside and Tanforan. All the barns within several blocks of the track and in every direction, are filled to their capacity with horses that will run during the winter.

Among the horsemen and horses seen at the track today, there were many strangers. They are all prominent and well known on the Eastern tracks, and heretofore they have not considered California meets as worthy of their attention. Things have changed greatly within the past few years, and the California Jockey Club has offered increased inducements, the purses are larger, the stakes, events bigger, and the racing game elevated to a rank equal to any in the country.

The result is that the largest owners of horseflesh have been attracted westward, and with them comes their fine stables, crack jockeys, and all of the well-known book-makers. Nearly all of them are already here and put in appearance about the track to-day. There were six splendid races on the program for this afternoon, at distances ranging from the Futurity course to a mile and a sixteenth, including the opening handicap at one mile. There were runners of all ages, from the maiden two-year-olds upwards, and the sport furnished the vast throng of spectators was far above the ordinary.

The starters in the different events were numerous and included some of the best horses at the track. In the first race there were such capable runners of El Pilotto, Sterling Towers, Canejo, Grand Sachem, and others. The two-year-old event had Don Domo and Military Man, and in the big opening event was such cracks as Kenilworth, Horton, Yellowtail, Wartie Nicht, Claude, The Fretter, Schwalbe, and other equally as well known performers. Epicure, Fossil, Mr. Dingie and I. O. U. were starters in other races. These horses have ranked as top notchers throughout the East during the past summer.

Richard Dwyer officiated as starter in lieu of Jacob Holtman, who is not due to arrive for four weeks. It has been arranged to have these two alternate between here and Los Angeles during the winter months. All of the other officials were on hand by the time the first race was called, and everything, except the newcomers, had a familiar look to the devotees of racing, who frequented the track last season.

The condition of the track after the soaking rains of the past several days was such as to make good time out of the question, but no one seemed to notice this at all so long as the sport was good and the finishes close and exciting. The track has a good base and is never what might be called heavy.

BROWNS WIN AT LOS ANGELES.

LEAGUE STANDING.

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Los Angeles	123	74	.623
Seattle	95	92	.509
San Francisco	101	105	.491
Sacramento	87	100	.460
Portland	90	98	.477
Oakland	85	122	.409

Portland succeeded in turning the tables on Los Angeles yesterday and won the game by the score of 6 to 2. It was the first victory of the series for the Browns and came rather easily. Gray pitched for the Angels but he was by no means as effective as he was in Tuesday's game and he was hit hard and often.

Los Angeles found McFarlan in the first inning for two hits and as many runs but after that the northern pitcher was invincible. He pitched a fast ball and the best that the leaders could do was to pop flies into the hands of waiting fielders. McFarlan's support was the best to be had. Nadeau had seven chances in left field and handled all without an error.

It was announced yesterday that Oscar Jones, who pitched for Los Angeles last year, and for the Brooklyn National League team this season, would pitch for Portland tomorrow and opposed to him will be Newton for Los Angeles. Score:

NEW PASTOR FOR ST. ANDREW'S PARISH

The Rev. O. St. John Scott, of Red Bluff, will be with St. Andrew's Church after the first of December.

The vestry has extended a call to him to become rector of St. Andrew's Parish which has been accepted.

Rev. Mr. De Gama and Rev. Mr. Benham have supplied the church during November and there will be services as usual Sunday the 15, morning and evening.

The arch-deacon, Rev. J. A. Emery, it is anticipated, will be present next Sunday at both services.

It is expected that the vestry will have the Guild Hall completed during the coming week. It was thought that the work would be done in time for the next social but it could not be finished and the hope will be to have the social in Alcatraz Masonic Hall on Friday evening, the 20.

WANTED IT LIKE PAPA'S.

Josephine was having her hair cut at a real barber's. It was hot, and her father sat fanning his bald head near the window, and wishing for once that his Josephine had been a boy so that it would not take so long. Finally the barber lifted the little girl down from her chair and pronounced his work done.

But I want to see it again," said Josephine.

The barber lifted her up and let her look in the glass. She wagged her head vigorously from side to side, and forward and backward. "Oh-h-h!" she wailed.

"Why, what's the matter?" asked the barber, while the father jumped up nervously from his corner.

"Oh-h-h!" she repeated lustily. "I wanted a little round, smooth place on top of my head like papa's," and she burst into tears.

THE SECRET OF HARMONY.

Young Mrs. Mead, whose experience of married life had been brief and happy, had just engaged two servants, a man and his wife, for work at her summer place.

"I am so glad you are married!" she said to the man, with whom she had made terms. "I hope you are very, very happy, and that you and your wife never have any difference of opinion."

"Faith, ma'am, I couldn't say that," replied the new servant, "for we have a good many, but I don't let Bridget know of them, and so we do be getting along well."

GROUNDS TOO WET.

There was no game at San Francisco yesterday owing to the condition of the grounds. As it was not raining, many went to the park in expectation of seeing a game but the gates were closed. At Sacramento rain prevented the Oakland-Sacramento game.

"Is he parsimonious?" "Well," was the guarded reply, "you might say that he carries his money in a purse, that shuts a good deal easier than it opens."

PLAYERS LEAGUE FORMED.

FOUR CLUBS WILL PLAY BASEBALL DURING THE WINTER.

The California Players' League has been organized, and the season will be opened on the same day that the Pacific Coast League closes.

Frank Herman was elected president of the new organization, and James Gartland was elected secretary and treasurer. The league will comprise four clubs, as follows: Reliance, Jesse Moores, Gantner-Matterson and the Joaquina. These are four of the most popular clubs around the bay, and they ought to make an interesting fight for the championship.

The Jesse Moores will be managed by the ever-popular "Bill" Curtin, who is one of the most successful minor league managers on the coast. The Reliance team, which won last year's mid-winter championship, will be guided by Frank Woods. Manager Nicholson will be at the helm for the Gantner-Matterson, and "Kid" Berevich will guide the destinies of the popular Joaquina, which will represent Oakland.

Every effort will be made to furnish the people with clean and gentlemanly baseball, and to make the race as close and interesting as possible no team will be permitted to sign more than three major league artists. This rule was adopted because there are quite a number of "big leaguers" wintering here, who are very anxious to keep in shape, so they can be in the condition when the different leagues open. Among some of the performers at Oakland will be Van Halton, Schib, Juletsky, Shay, Schwanitz, "Duke" Williams, Raymond, Cliff Ireland, and a score of other good ones.

No major league pitcher will be allowed to pitch, because there would be very little hitting unless such a rule was passed and the baseball-loving public likes to see hitting. The first ball fouled by the batter will be called a strike, except when the batter already has two strikes called on him. The foul strike rule was thus amended in order not to give the pitcher too much of an advantage.

All of the games of this league will be played at Freeman's Park, the first game to commence at 1:30 and the second to start at 3:45. But one admission will be charged for both games, and tickets will be admitted free.

There were no games in San Francisco, the California Players' League ought to experience a very profitable season. The games will be witnessed by Cal. Ewing, Henry Harris, "Doc" Loman and Parke Wilson, and they will keep their eyes open for clever pitching and fast batting.

They were discovered in last year's mid-winter league, and new "phenoms" may grow in this new league.

"Bill" Bertine is one of the most active pitchers in Oakland. If he is going to play ball on a Sunday afternoon, he will get up about 6 o'clock in the morning and run about four miles in order to have a good sweat, and then he calls for his "valet," who gives him a good rub-down, after which he again goes to sleep, and, like it, he appears on the ball field, he looks as lively as a two-year-old.

Jerry Denney uplured a game last Sunday and had good control over the players. One player kicked a bit and Jerry fined him $5, and that player was as quiet as a lamb for the rest of the game.

"Billy" Dunleavy, who played with the Joaquina last Sunday, showed that he has lost none of his speed. He stole five bases.

The Presidios beat the Heeseemans last Sunday to the tune of 11-10.

"Demon" Klein, who jumped the Joaquina, played with the Heeseemans, and succeeded in getting three hits out of as many trips to the plate. His hits were all line drives and one of them was a two-bagger.

Jack Hammond murdered the ball at Hayward last Sunday, as did "Moose" Baxter.

Beach Deane did not hit the ball last Sunday when there were no men out bases, but once there were three men at the three stations, and the fleet-footed shortstop of the Joaquina faced out a two-bagger. That's what they call timely hitting.

"Frisco" Lind was an interested spectator at the game last Sunday.

Cliff Ireland lost a valuable package at the grounds last Sunday. The finder returning it to him will be amply rewarded.

Henry Spencer held down the first bag for the Old Legits in clever style. Jack Donovan also played a nice game in centerfield. Jack stole third while the opposing first baseman held the ball in his hand. Frank was gazing blankly at the ground with the ball in his hand, and Donovan suspected that he was dreaming, and he took advantage of it.

Perine says that left field is a very strenuous position. Any body that saw him play last Sunday would certainly think so.

THOMAS H. WILLIAMS, PRESIDENT CALIFORNIA JOCKEY CLUB.

Cal Ewing will give "Looty" (a Bantam) a trial when Oakland returns from Sacramento.

BRavery IMMORTALIZED.

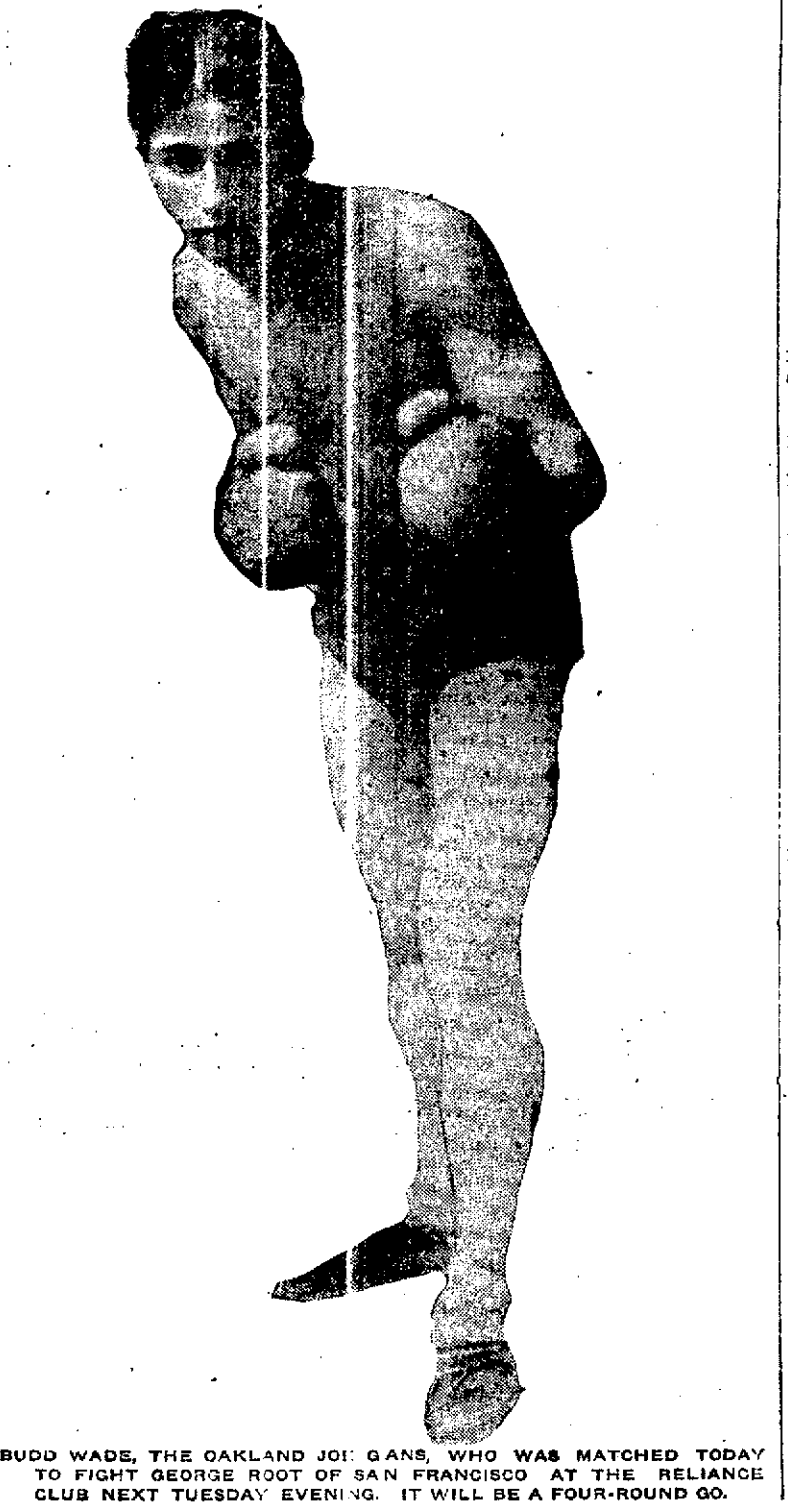

At an entertainment at which Nelson met Benjamin West just before he went to sea for the last time he remarked to the artist: "If never, once a print shop where your picture of the 'Death of Wolfe' is in the window without being stamped by the West of course, acknowledged the compliment, and Nelson went on to ask why he had painted no more like it. "Because, my Lord," answered the artist, "there are no more subjects."

"Damn it!" said Nelson. "I didn't think of that," and asked him to make a copy of champagne. "But, my Lord, I fear your intemperately will yet furnish me with another scene, and if it should I shall certainly avail myself of it," the painter observed.

"Will you," said Nelson, "pardon me for touching his glass and making West's 'will you, my West? Then I hope I shall die in the next battle.' He smiled a few days before and West painted 'The Death of Nelson.' London Chronicle.

FOOTBALL MEN STRUGGLE FOR SUPREMACY.

Countless Thousands Brave the Weather to See the Thirteenth Annual Intercollegiate Game.

This afternoon twenty-two stalwart young athletes, the pick of the two great universities in California, met on the Richmond field in San Francisco for the thirteenth annual intercollegiate football struggle and it was a game long to be remembered. Never before has there been such a crowd in attendance as witnessed the game this afternoon. The gridiron was almost completely surrounded by tier after tier of seats and these were filled to overflowing with thousands of people who seemed to be football mad.

Along the side lines there was a great surging mob, which followed the teams up and down the field. A large part of these were students and rooters from the rival universities and from early in the afternoon until long after the game was over, their enthusiasm knew no bounds. Every play of any consequence was a signal for renewed outbursts from the students, who were there to cheer their team to victory and they did it with a will.

Almost incessantly, throughout the afternoon, the Oski woe of California was mingled with the Rah, Rah, Rah of Stanford. Not for a minute was there a lull in the noise. The enthusiasm was epidemic and everybody, one and all, shouted themselves hoarse and many wended their way home unable to speak above a whisper. There were no regrets, however, for they had just seen one of the best football games ever witnessed on the Pacific coast.

The tiers of seats, where the fair sex predominated, were just one mass of color, evenly divided between the blue and gold of California and crimson of Stanford. The women waved their colors fanatically throughout the entire game, and at critical periods they would stand up, wave their colors and add their voices to those of the men in cheering their favorites on. The men threw their hats into the air and yelled their encouragement to the fullest extent of their lungs. To the disinterested spectator, if there was such a person on the grounds it looked as if an insane asylum had been turned loose and those assembled there were the inmates instead of sane people.

The weather conditions were far from ideal for a football game, especially in California. It rained nearly all day and the gridiron resembled a muddy lake more than it did a football field, but this the turnstiles and there was a steady stream pouring in continually until it began to look as if they would have to be turned away for lack of room. The advance sale amounted to over $12,000, which is larger by several thousand than any previous year.

California had the slight advantage over her opponents, according to the fact that the majority of the team were members of last year's varsity team, and therefore they were more experienced than the Cardinal team, which was composed principally of new players, several of whom are in their freshman year. That advantage was slight, however, and the two teams were very evenly matched. In weight, California again had a slight advantage, but not enough to affect the score one way or another.

ALL FIGHTS LOOK ALIKE.

MAYOR SAYS HE WISHES THEY WERE ALL FAKES.

At their meeting yesterday afternoon the Board of Police and Fire Commissioners granted the Reliance Athletic Club a permit to hold a professional boxing contest on the evening of December 8.

During the discussion of the matter Mayor Olney stated that all fights were like to him and that he would rather see them "fakes" than otherwise. The statement was provoked by criticism that had been passed because he voted to give the Sequoia Club a license.

ENTERTAINED AT CARDS.

Mrs. Edwin Goodall entertained a few intimate friends at her home on Jackson street yesterday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Lafayette de Frise. The popular game of "Five Hundred" was played, the prizes being won by Mrs. Eugene Beck and Mrs. Frankland. Another prize was given to the one who proved herself the best guesser as to the number of violets contained in a bunch carried by de Frise, which prize Mrs. Charles Palmer carried off.

REQUIEM.

In molding grave or vault of stone
Bury my body, blood and bone,
Since like the wind upon the hill
My soul is unimprisonable.

And when I make the final change,
My glad, undying soul shall range,
Plains, mountains, oceans, ocean-shores—
All God Almighty's out-of-doors—
And range it shouting over space,
Or rest in some untrodden place.
—Gouverneur Morris, in Obituary.

IS THIS YOU?

There was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise;
He planted shade trees on his street
Of a convenient size.
And when his neighbors noticed the Improved appearance, then
They fell in line and set out trees,
Like wise and brainy men.
—Brinsford, in Los Angeles Times.

It is heartless to say it,
But the more you dislike it,
The more they will play it.

PENNSY'S RISING STAR

Either for center or left guard Pickerskile is considered one of the most promising men on the gridiron today. His work during signal practice recently brought out some new points which won him much praise.

Sunday afternoon will be a hard one for the two Oakland teams, for the Albion Rovers are scheduled to meet the victorious Thistles at Idora Park and the Oakland Hornets are to go up against the crack "amateurs" team on the Webster street grounds in Alameda. In San Francisco the Indians pickwicks. All three games are called for 3:30 p. m.

The Rovers have again to take to the field without Johns who is still far from recovery, and taking the friendly game between the two clubs as a guide, the Thistles should have a comparatively sure thing, for in that friendly game, 10 goals to 0 was the score in favor of the Scots. However, in a league game the Rovers may be relied upon to prevent any such record as that being repeated, and the game is on the Rovers' ground, which is decidedly in their favor. The rain also is a point for the Oakland men, for the ground is now in better condition because of it and the younger men will have a chance to show their speed.

Albion Rovers—Moran goal; Robertson, left back; Lancaster, right back; Bayne, left one-half; Orton, center one-half; Smith, right one-half; Churchill, outside left; E. Orton, inside left; Gilchrist, center; Eradley, inside right; Matheson, outside right; Thistles—Lowe, goal; Tierney, center; Forrest, right back; McGregor, left one-half; Rimbold, center one-half; Taylor, right one-half; Smith, outside left; Disher, inside left; T. Lydon, center; Disher, inside right; A. Disher, outside right.

Referee—H. Roberts.
In Alameda the contest promises to be an exceedingly pretty one from a football standpoint. In the Oakland Hornets' eleven are several of the Vampires' only equals of last year, the Rifles, and the feeling between the Hornets and the crack "amateurs" team is therefore pretty keen.

For the first time this season the Oakland Club will turn out with a really first-class team. The only risk they run is that of coquetry. The Vampires have had their best men playing since the season opened, while tomorrow will be Lackie's and Erskine's first time out.

If they can meet the heavy drafts likely to be made on their wind in such a game, the Oakland Hornets should win, for it is difficult to figure on any forward combination getting through such a back division as the Oaklanders have for tomorrow and it is equally difficult to imagine a back division, even in the Vampires, which could effectually check such men as Lackie, Erskine and Hunter, not to speak of Cowell, who is a crafty and irritating antagonist.

Referee—J. Casson.

On next Tuesday evening the Reliance Athletic Club will give its November boxing entertainment at the club gymnasium and Matchmaker Mahony has secured a very attractive program for the occasion. It will consist of a main event preceded by two lively preliminaries and the principals in all three are well-known fighters, who can and will fight fast and furious from beginning to end.

The program will open with a four-round curtain-raiser between George Root and Bud Wade. Both of them are lightweights and while they have no ring records to point to, they are both able to put up a stiff fight. Wade is a local colored boy, and those who have seen him in action say he is quite clever and has a wicked punch.

The next on the program will be a ten-round affair between Monte Attell, brother of the redoubtable Abe, and Jack Bennett. Both of these boys aspire to championship honors in the bantamweight class, to which they belong. They have both met and defeated a number of good ones in their class and their meeting next Tuesday evening should be a rattling good bout. They are both great mixers and like to fight hammer and tongs all the time. Many have expressed the opinion that this bout will be as good as the main event.

The event of the evening will be the fifteen-round contest between Jack Cordell and Aurelio Herrera. They will fight for 50 per cent of the gross receipts, of which 25 per cent will go to the winner and 25 per cent to the loser. Both of them have large forfeits up to guarantee their appearance in the ring and to make the weight limit of 135 pounds at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

In Herrera, Cordell is meeting a man who has had long experience in the prize ring and a man who is always a dangerous antagonist until he is taken down and out for keeps. He is a man with a punch that always commands respect when it lands. Cordell will have to use all the science he can command to prevent Herrera from taking his measure. On this fact his friends are banking their hopes. The Mexican can stand a great deal of punishment and is fairly fast and clever himself. He is suitably dressed in the style of fighting which looks awkward, but, nevertheless, it has had the effect of making him a dangerous fighter and from some of the best fighters in the business. His defeat of Broad and his victory over the champion of the world, Hererra got himself into splendid condition for his fight with Santy and kept himself in training until he was matched for the November date.

Herrera is a man who does not require any work to speak of to get into shape again. He is keeping his muscles limber at the Elks Club and is in the best of condition for his fight with Santy and kept himself in training until he was matched for the November date.

The tickets are now on sale, and from the advance orders as well as from the interest evinced in the contests, there should be a large crowd on hand to witness the bouts. The club will arrange to handle the crowd with the same orderly dispatch which has characterized all of its previous shows.

GOLF GOOD FOR WOMEN.

I think women golfers are, as a whole, the kindest and most considerate set of people I have ever met. They seem above the petty squabbles and jealousies which frequently mark the life of the average set of women. Being out of doors and occupied with their game, there is little time for anything else but strict attention to their favorite sport. One of the special advantages of golf is that it affords splendid exercise without that fatality of overdoing it so prevalent in other games, such as tennis and hockey. Another advantage of golf is that it can be played in all weathers and by all sorts and conditions of people, from a child of a few years up to almost any age. Probably the most valuable feature of the game does not make much difference. It's a bit disagreeable at first, but one soon learns to get accustomed to it and make the best of the situation.—Rhona K. Agair in the Illustrated Sporting News.

The Board of Police and Fire Commissioners transacted the following business at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon.

Approved requisitions $150 and $100 on the fire fund and $50 on the fire alarm and police telegraph fund.

Approved six demands, aggregating $19.15, against the police fund; ten demands, aggregating $20.50, against the fire fund; one demand amounting to $85 against the fire alarm and police telegraph fund.

A resolution was adopted granting permission to the Reliance Athletic Club to hold professional boxing contests in the club-rooms on the evening of December 8.

In voting for the resolution, Mayor Olney said he had been severely criticized because he voted to grant a license to an organization that was said to be a crowd of fakers. As far as he knew, all these fights were fakes and he would rather they should be.

Commissioner McElroy said it made no difference to him how much they faked if they had complied with the requirements of the ordinance. Aistic encounter was a fight, whether it occurred in a pavilion or a cage.

The report shows the amount of money and property taken from prisoners when arrested and restored when discharged was $160.15; number of warrants served, 66; number of subpoenas served, 22; average number of prisoners a day, 29; cost of provisions for City Prison, $120.38; number of meals furnished prisoners, 169, at a cost of 55 cents each; persons provided with lodgings during the month, 126. The patrol wagon made 120 runs on patrol service and traveled 374 miles. It ran 41 miles conveying 15 injured people to the Receiving Hospital, 5 insane to the County Jail, 1 injured to his own home and 15 prisoners to the County Jail. Six regular officers laid out during the month at various times on account of sickness.

At the last meeting of the Board the matter of substituting an appointment on the police force was referred to the Chief of Police for examination and report, none of the Commissioners having, at that time, to be anxious to make the selection of a man. The Chief passed it back to the Commissioners in the following:

"Regarding appointment of special police officers, I beg to report that there are three applications for the position; each has successfully passed the police examination and is on the eligible list. All three are anxious to receive the appointment, namely: Thorwald Brown, Charles E. Ford and William F. Kite."

The matter of appointment was laid over until next meeting of the Board.

PIEDMONT WHIST CLUB.

The Piedmont Whist Club will be entertained next Monday afternoon by Mrs. Harmon Bell of Piedmont.

With the first of the new year will come renewed activity in rowing circles about the bay and already plans are being made for a number of events. At a meeting held this week in San Francisco it was decided to have a single sculling event on January 3 for the Pacific Coast championship. This will awaken a great deal of interest among oarsmen.

It will be a matched race between A. W. Pape, holder of the championship for a number of years and F. W. Ayers of the Alameda Boating Club. It will take place on Lake Merritt in this city and will commence at 9:30 a. m. It will be over the regulation championship course of a mile and a half for a trophy, valued at $25 which is the greatest allowed by the Amateur Athletic Union.

The following officials have been selected: John J. Gleason of the Olympic Athletic Club, referee; Robert McArthur of the South End Rowing Club, starter; S. E. East of the Dolphin Boating Club, E. G. Lyons of the Alameda Boating Club, and T. J. Fitzpatrick of the South End Rowing Club, judges at the turn; W. A. Remensperger of the Dolphin Boating Club, Z. T. Thorning of the Alameda Boating Club, and J. A. Geddes of the Ariel Boating Club, judges at the finish; Sidney Cavill of the Olympic Club, Charles H. Smith of the Alameda Boating Club and A. P. Rothkopf of the Dolphin Boating Club, timekeepers.

It is intended to arrange for some large and outtrigged skiff races to take place on the same day.

OAKLAND TRIBUNE

Tribune Publishing Company.

William E. Dargie, President.

A FRIVOLOUS CONTENTION.

The Stockton Mail persists in "reading between the lines," to use its own expression, for pretexts on which to charge the Administration with bad faith in dealing with the revolution in Panama. It says:

"Of course there is no documentary evidence of the part played by our government in the Panama affair, but there can be no disputing the logic of events. Come now, dear TRIBUNE, do you honestly believe that Uncle Sam acted in that matter exactly as he would have done if the isthmus had belonged to a first-class power?"

Had Colombia been a first-class power there would have been no revolution in Panama, and no pretext for one. There would have been no complication over the canal concession.

It is precisely because Colombia is not a first-class power, but a country without a stable government or a settled policy, that the present conditions exist. It is a prey to frequent internal dissensions and sudden and radical changes in its organic law as the result of revolutions and military dictatorships. Its public men are ignorant, venal and treacherous, holding to narrow and reactionary political principles. They habitually break faith with other countries and their disregard for the canny of nations is proverbial.

It is idle to speculate on what the United States would have done had Colombia been a first-class power. Had she been a first-class power, or even a third-class power with a responsible government that keeps faith and observes the principles of international law, the United States would have had no cause to complain of the treatment she has received. Holland, Belgium and Portugal are not first-class powers, but no one dreams of placing them in the same category with Colombia and Venezuela, nor would any great nation deal with them as they are compelled to deal with Colombia and Venezuela.

"When I find the abnormal, I deal with it in an abnormal way," says Rudyard Kipling's school master. That is what civilized nations have to do in dealing with such countries as Colombia, Venezuela, Turkey and China. The social amenities cannot be observed with a road agent.

A canal to connect the Atlantic and Pacific oceans is a necessity to the civilized world. The isthmus of Panama affords the most feasible and advantageous route. A group of mongrel politicians in Colombia, with itching palms and no regard for civilization or national faith, set themselves to block the canal till their ridiculously exorbitant demands were complied with. They were inflicting injury on the inhabitants of Panama as well as breaking faith with the United States. Panama rebelled against the domination of the rapacious crew, and Uncle Sam gave his sympathy to the people who are asserting their rights and their independence, and at the same time promoting the cause of civilization in the Southern hemisphere. Their course is the cause of human progress.

Yet the Mail whines about our duty to Colombia, when we owe it no duty, and when to withhold recognition from Panama meant to play into the hands of a rascally set of political freebooters in Bogota, who may be out of power six months hence.

The point has been raised that George B. McClellan is not eligible to the Presidency because he was not born in the territorial limits of the United States, but there is nothing in the point as his parents were American citizens. In the eye of the law he is entitled, therefore, to all the privileges of a citizen born on the soil. McClellan was born in Dresden, Germany, while his parents were traveling abroad.

The Democratic papers are again running Senator Hanna for the Presidential nomination. But the Democratic papers are not good authorities on Republican politics. Senator Hanna himself says Roosevelt will be renominated without opposition and triumphantly elected.

The Democrats who are protesting against the recognition of the republic of Panama surely must forget the annexation of Texas. There was a time when the Democrats were in favor of annexing everything from the North Pole to Cape Horn. Now their political philosophy is summed up in ascribing prosperous seasons to Providence and laying the blame for bad harvests on the Republicans.

The people of Montana evidently object to Heinze's efforts to copper the copper trust. They want all the plays to go straight up.

Grover Cleveland expresses satisfaction, "as an old-fashioned Democrat," over the result of the recent election. He does not say which pleases him most—the victory of Tammany in New York or the defeat of Tom Johnson in Ohio. Perhaps, it's six of one and half a dozen of the other.

Mr. Bryan's great mistake seems to have been in not getting a lawyer to draw his client's will.

DEMOCRATIC PRESIDENTIAL TIMBER.

Who will be the Democratic standard bearer in the next Presidential election against Theodore Roosevelt? The choice must be made a few months hence, and the probabilities must be gauged in the light of the recent election.

From the present outlook there are only four possibilities—Ex-President Cleveland, Arthur Pue Gorman, Judge Albert B. Parker and William Randolph Hearst. Each represents certain elements of strength, which in a sense antagonize the strength of the others.

Mr. Cleveland, for instance, is strong with the financial and conservative classes, but is weak with the workingmen, especially the workingmen known collectively as organized labor.

Senator Gorman is a sectional and race candidate. He appeals to the South, which cannot elect a President, and comes forward with a policy of prescription, which must inevitably react on the industrial system that has made the Northern and Middle States rich and potent. He is opposed to the enlightened sentiment of the age and to the letter of the Constitution.

Judge Parker is a negative candidate. He supported Bryan, while believing his financial theories to be wrong. He stands for no political principle that anyone has been able to discover, and his chief merit as a candidate is a colorless record and a matter of geography. His strength as an aspirant and his weakness as a candidate lie in the fact that his chief organized support comes from Tammany Hall.

Mr. Hearst is outside the classes represented by his competitors. He is strong where Cleveland is weak and weak where Cleveland is strong. He undoubtedly has great popularity with organized labor, but he is obnoxious to the corporate element of the Democratic party. He would probably be as acceptable to the South as Gorman for he is of Southern ancestry of a type more pronounced than the Marylander; but the South will vote for anybody the Democratic convention names. It is not a question of carrying the South, but of carrying enough States in the North and West to make the Southern vote the deciding factor.

Mr. Hearst's availability lies in his great popularity with the industrial masses in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Indiana and Illinois. In those States he has bitter antagonisms, but they are counterbalanced by elements of strength.

We do not believe it is possible for anybody to defeat President Roosevelt before the people, but the selection of the candidate to oppose is a question of popular interest because it will, in a measure, indicate the future policy of the Democratic party. Judge Parker and Senator Gorman represent different schools of opportunists, while Hearst represents a new departure—a candidacy distinctively appealing to the laboring masses, but on the same broad principles that inspire the Social Democrats in Germany.

Which will the Democrats take?

Lewis Nixon's failure to rule Tammany is now explained. The hearing in the shipyard trust case reveals him in the light of a sucker. The only use Tammany has for suckers is to skin them.

It is stated on excellent authority that an extraordinary condition prevails in the transportation world. The volume of railway business shows no signs of diminution—on the contrary, it is apparently expanding. Freight cars are slow of delivery, and from every part of the country comes the complaint of a shortage of cars. New equipment is also hard to get. All the repair shops of the great trunk lines are filled with disabled cars, yet workmen are being laid off. Instead of being increased to meet the emergencies, the working force in nearly all the shops is being decreased. It is hard to understand why this is so. Railway traffic is impeded by this policy, which has undertaken to provide for a decline in business before it has come. From the present outlook traffic will be unusually heavy this winter. Yet the car shortage continues acute while the shops are full of crippled cars.

THE FIGHT ON SMOOT.

As was to have been expected, the impudent declaration of Apostle Grant that he is still living in polygamy in defiance of the Federal Statutes has caused the opposition to Apostle Smoot being allowed to take his seat in the Senate. The protest is being urged with great vigor and is being backed by men who would have taken little part in it but for Apostle Grant's declaration. Grant has fled from Utah to escape prosecution, but will probably be arrested before he gets out of the country.

There is really no Constitutional ground for denying Smoot the seat to which he was regularly elected, but the Senate is the sole judge of the qualifications of its members, and if it becomes convinced that Smoot, as one of the chief officers of the Mormon church, is encouraging a studied violation of the law of the land and the decrees of civilized society he may be cast out as one morally unfit to sit in the highest legislative body of the nation.

A precedent of that sort was set by the House when it refused to let Brigham H. Roberts be sworn in. Roberts had been convicted, however, of living in polygamy, whereas Smoot has not been convicted, and so far as is known, does not personally practice the plural marriage doctrine.

It is a grave question how far the Senate should go in depriving a State of its Constitutional representation, but if it can be established that a man is teaching defiance to morality and the laws as the leader of a religious body the Senate will be justified in refusing to admit him as a member. There is manifest danger, though, in a proceeding of this kind that sectarian prejudice will be permitted to cloud the judgment and sway the principles of justice.

William C. Whitney has drawn a nice distinction as to the relative value of learning and skill. He pays his lawyer $10,000 a year and gives his jockey a salary of $25,000.

It may mean nothing of course, but it has set people to talking that Senator Foraker went off into Indiana and got sick immediately after the Ohio election.

SOME PASSING JESTS.

"I want to introduce you to Professor Baton, one of our greatest conductors," said the host at an afternoon musicale.

"Indeed," said the woman who had recently buried into society. "Band or street-car?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Tess—He proposed to me today, and he was so impatient! He wanted me to marry him right away. But I was not to be hurried.

Jess—So you put him off, eh?

Tess—Yes, indeed. I told him he'd have to wait until tomorrow.—Philadelphia Press.

An Unusual Individual.

"He is positively unique; he is so unlike the average man."

"Why, what's the matter with him?"

"I don't know. I told him today that I was suffering from a bad cold and he didn't suggest a single remedy for it."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

Doctor of Industry.

In reply to the query as to what degree should be conferred upon the manager of a great dry goods business or the president of a steamship company, I would suggest the honorary degree of D. I.—doctor of industry. This would surely mean much more if rightly bestowed than the numerous Ph. D.'s scattered broadcast over the land.—New York Sun.

An Interesting Study.

"At last," said the old bachelor, as he glanced over his paper, "a school for young ladies has been discovered where something is taught that they will remember."

"Tell us about it," suggested the fair typewriter brander.

"It's a school in Kansas," continued the O. B., "where the pupils are taught how to go through the marriage ceremony."—Chicago News.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES.

Teacher—Johnny, why can't you lift yourself by your bootstraps?

Johnny (promptly)—Cause I wear shoes.

Little Marge—I have a new changeable silk dress to wear next Sunday.

Little Elsie—Pooh, that's nothing! All my dresses are changeable.

HINTS FOR THE LADIES

Drawn work and embroidery are being more used every day.

The smart girl is now wearing her initial embroidered on her stocking just over the instep.

Flowers cut from velvet and applied in thin materials such as chiffon and silk must be seen or wearers of fine frocks.

New umbrella handles are made of jade and gold, while others are in coral and gun metal.

What look to be small leather footballs prove on closer examination to be button boxes filled with sweets.

The puffed muslin curtain is being displaced from popular favor by that with a few tucks and a broad hem. The latter is not so pretty before, laundering, but it looks better afterward.

Unusually long bathing spoons of tin are to be had, having spiral handles, which, it is said, do not get as hot as the plain tin handles.

Books are being sold at bargain prices these days in order to give place to the incoming holiday books which will soon fill the counters.

The dainty Dolly Varden ribbons are now on sale for 25 cents a yard and some lovely Dresden all-silk ribbons are to be had for only 15 cents a yard.

One of the odd articles for house keepers' use is the bit of wax, which may be used for ironing or waxing thread, and which has a thimble stuck in the center.

A pretty white petticoat is shown having both a lace and an embroidery flourish. The upper part of the flounce is of Hamburg and set on this is a lace edge.

Brooches grow larger every day and are very beautiful in design. One brooch, made of coral, is perhaps two inches long and is in the design of a finely carved bunch of flowers.

A handsome belt buckle is in the form of a large butterfly, which, coming together in the center, leaves a richly enameled wing to spread out on each side of the center fastening.

One of the lovely gowns shown in the openings is of chiffon having an embroidered design of pale pink roses trailing over it. It is made over a white tulle skirt and is trimmed with thread-like lace.

There are great bargains offered in odds and ends of pretty china cups and saucers, cracked jars, olive dishes and other useful things, and to the foreboding woman it offers a suggestion for the coming holiday season.

Many odd candy boxes are shown for Halloween, perhaps the oddest being sheaves of wheat with a tiny rake. On looking close one sees in the center of these sheaves small red satin bags which are for holding the candy.

All sorts of dinner favors are shown for Halloween parties. There are big and small paper pumpkins that look like real ones, places of pumpkin pie that are not as digestive as they look, and funny little jack-o'-lantern heads.

As a love token the engagement ring will never lose its favor though just now there are several novelties in the way of engagement gifts that vie with the ring for popularity, one of which is a bracelet with a heart clasp in which one may repose the portrait of the giver.

Sink drains, which are three-cornered and made to fasten in the corner of the sink, are one of the devices that save housekeepers many steps and also save plumbing bills, as they are perforated, thus allowing refuse to become dry and at the same time saving particles of refuse matter from clogging pipe drains.

A SIMPLE REMEDY FOR CATARRH.

Just Breathe Hyomei Four Times a Day and be Cured.

If a few years ago someone had said you can cure catarrh by breathing air charged with a healing balsam, the idea would have been ridiculed and it remained for that eminent investigator R. T. Booth, to discover in Hyomei this method of cure.

Hyomei has performed almost miraculous cures of catarrh and is today recognized by leading members of the medical profession, as the only advertised remedy that can be relied upon to cure the worst case of catarrh. The complete outfit of Hyomei costs but $1.00 and consists of an inhaler, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei.

Breathe Hyomei through the inhaler for a few minutes four times a day and it will cure the worst case of catarrh. It soothes and heals the mucous membrane of the air passages, prevents irritation, and effects a complete and lasting cure.

In Oakland there are scores of well-known people who say they have been cured of catarrh by Hyomei. If it does not cure you, Osgood Brothers will return the money you paid for Hyomei. This is the strongest evidence that can be offered as to their faith in the remedy.

OLD AND NEW WAY

Hyomei the Latest Scientific Discovery of the Cure of Catarrh.

The discovery of Hyomei has wrought a wonderful change in the treatment of catarrh.

Prior to three years ago the medicines ordinarily employed in the cure of this disease were nauseating drugs and worthless tonics. In some instances they benefited, but the improvement was not lasting.

With Hyomei you take into the air passages of the throat and head a balsamic air that goes to the minutest cells, effectually killing all germs and microbes of catarrh. It enters the blood with the oxygen, killing the germs in the blood, and restores health to the whole system. A very astonishing testimony has been received from those who have been cured by Hyomei.

ISMAR'S TRIUMPH

Her Marvelous Skill as a Healer Again Demonstrated.

Here is a letter from a lady who suffered for years with what was pronounced an incurable disease, but who was healed by the skill of Ismar, the Great Gypsy:

DEAR MADAME: Six months ago I believed myself incurable. Two physicians pronounced my case cancer of the stomach. I heard of your skill in curing diseases from a friend whom you had cured. I placed myself in your hands and the result is that today I am a perfectly well woman. I owe my life and my happiness to you. Graciously yours, MRS. ELEANOR KIRKE, No. 30 Cheney street, city.

Ismar is a perpetual triumph as a healer as well as a clairvoyant. Her powers are as puzzling as they are positive in their effects.

Entire newspapers could easily be filled with testimonials written by those who have received the benefit of Ismar's great gifts of healing and clairvoyance. From all over America, and even from Germany, England and Australia, come testimonials attesting her great power. Her name is a household word all over this Coast, and thousands of grateful men and women testify to the great skill she possesses, both as a healer and clairvoyant.

Many of the cases cured by her were previously pronounced incurable or permanently chronic.

If you are sick, don't despair until you see Ismar. There is always hope. If you would know your future, Ismar will correctly delineate it to you.

Write her if you can't call. Three questions answered for $1. Full letter for $5. Send money by Wells-Fargo or Postoffice money order, or registered letter. Rooms 9 and 10, 1104 Market street, San Francisco. Phone South 1141. Office hours, 10 a. m. to 5 p. m.; Sundays, 10 a. m. to 12 m.

BEWARE of unscrupulous persons who are imitating Ismar's method of advertising and her personality. Remember that Ismar is a fixture in San Francisco, where she has lived for many years and is well known.

AN EARLY SOCIAL SEASON.

The winter promises to be exceedingly gay after all and the season is looking up on both sides of the bay. For a while it looked pretty dull but the cards that are now fluttering in on us have changed all that. Fortunately, there were not many large teas this week which was a blessing in the uncertain condition of the weather, for even if you have your coupe it is not good form to make calls in your most elegant frock when the rain is pouring. It looks "showy" or "dressy" dreadful words, and the last thing a woman who is good form wishes to be called. On this side of the bay the most important function was the Mr. W. R. Davis reception and upon the other side the Parrott ball on Wednesday evening. Ned Greenway gave a beautiful dinner on his birthday the week before, with sumptuous decorations, a fine menu and wines and dancing afterward.

It was given in the Palm Garden of the Palace Hotel—rather a public place it seems, but one in much favor this year. The belles and debutantes were all prettily dressed at Mr. Greenway's dinner, by far the handsomest dress being worn by Miss Kate Dillon, the richest girl in San Francisco Society, who has just returned from abroad and whose beautiful frock ranged from a rather deep green to the palest leaf shade. It was a Parisian creation and exceedingly becoming.

THE TIME TO CALL.

Fashionable women give up one or two weeks in the beginning of the season and one or two weeks toward the end to making formal calls and really as between this fashionable pastime and going to the dentist there is very little choice according to my judgment. The weather this week has been so bad that there has been little calling except on Tuesday which was bright and fair. Next week will probably see more of it. The end of the month has many big teas in prospect across the bay, but, woe is me, I've been asked to receive at one for each day which will tie me to one place all the afternoon and prevent me from seeing the gaiety at the other places.

On the twenty-first of November, which is Saturday, there are three big teas that I know of. Mrs. Tallant brings out her young daughter that day. The debutantes make their first bow at Mrs. Chesebrough's, Miss Helen Chesebrough, younger daughter of the house and Miss Virginia Newell Brown whose mother is too ill to permit her to come out at home, so she does what is being extensively done this season—she comes out with her bosom friend, under the downy wing of that friend's mother. Miss Chesebrough came out two years ago and was one of the most popular girls of the season. The present debutante cares but little for so-city and is very musical. Last year, Mrs. Chesebrough and Miss Dillon gave two beautiful teas and they are past grand mistresses at this difficult sort of entertainment.

Also on the twenty-first Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Casey and Miss Kate Dillon will be at home from four until seven to several hundred guests. The Caseys have a superb house out on Broadway and it is full of new and beautiful things brought from abroad. Their guests have been bidden to do honor to Mrs. Malcolm Henry of Washington, D. C., who is here on a visit to her parents and is, with her children, keeping house for her father while Mrs. Voorhies is in the South on business for the Daughters of the Confederacy.

On November 28, Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Livermore who used to live in Rockridge Park, will be at home to present their elder daughter, Miss Livermore is said to be a most charming girl. Her mother, as Miss Ellis, was noted for her charm and her vivacity which have merely increased with the years and this delightful debutante will have cleverness as well as family connections, social prestige and money to back her. The Livermore home on Russian hill has practically been rebuilt and doubled in size for this young girl's pleasure.

MISS LAUGHLIN'S INTERESTING SALT LAKE EXPERIENCES.

Miss Gail Laughlin, the interesting young Eastern woman, who has been speaking for several of the Oakland clubs as well as for the California Club and the Collegiate Alumnae, stopped for some time at Salt Lake on her way West and had some interesting experiences there. She was relating these the other day to a group of friends. Someone asked Miss Laughlin if the women of Utah voted according to their religious predilections. She replied that they did not—that a certain prominent Mormon woman would not vote for a Mormon candidate because he had opposed woman's suffrage and she thought it would be stultifying herself to cast for him the ballot which he had not wished her to have. A timid little woman, opposed to the suffrage, ventured to make to Miss Laughlin the well-known objection that woman suffrage would make no difference with the general result as each woman would vote as her husband or father does and so the general result would not be changed. Miss Laughlin looked very weary for a moment—the objection is so old that it is moss-grown. Then she said gently, "But you don't disfranchise a son for voting as his father does, do you?"

CHRISTENING PARTIES.

The Joseph Mastens whose twin sons eleven years ago, were quite the wonder of the neighborhood, have just christened a little daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pomeroy have also had a recent christening and have named their baby daughter. Mr. Pomeroy's sister, Mrs. William Gilman Thompson of New York, remained to be a godmother for the little girl. Mrs. Thompson and Miss Carter, Mr. Pomeroy's aunt, left for New York last week.

THE ABSENT-MINDED MAN.

One of the funniest stories I have heard recently is of a plump young woman who resides near Burlingame. Because of her plumpness she does not ride horseback like most of the dames thereabouts, but the other day she was persuaded by a young man of her acquaintance that horseback riding was just the exercise she needed. He was so persistent in his efforts to make her ride, even offering to bring a gentle but spirited mount, that the young lady hid herself to the nearest tailor and ordered a riding dress. The day came, the lady donned the new riding habit but the swain with the mount did not appear. All day she waited, then took off her tailored garments with some chagrin.

The next day the man called. He was overcome with vexation at his awful social faux pas but he admitted candidly that he had forgotten all about the engagement—it had simply slipped his mind. The maiden was sorry, too, but generously forgave him and another engagement was made for the following Saturday. Saturday came and again the lady waited in her tailored togs and again the swain came not. This was too much. This time the lady was angry thinking she had been made the victim of some sort of a practical joke. The truth was that the absent-minded man had forgotten again. But when he realized what had happened he did not try to explain. He never called on the young lady again but left hurriedly for the Orient, feeling that no explanation would make amends for such a pair of terrible blunders.

The lady does not ride.

MISS JULIET TOMPKINS' ROMANCE.

Quite a romance attaches to the marriage of Miss Juliet Tompkins which will take place in New York on November 23. Miss Tompkins will marry Mr. Bopples, the editor of the Criterion, to whom she was once engaged. The engagement was broken some time ago but not long ago was renewed. Mr. Bopples is said to be a charming man in spite of his name, and clever too. He occupies an enviable position among New York literary men. The marriage will not affect Miss Tompkins' literary future though it will probably result in her retirement from the staff of "Everybody's Magazine," on which she has been an assistant editor since the "Puritan," of which she was the editor, failed. Mrs. Tompkins is now in New York and will be present at the marriage of her daughter, Juliet Tompkins is a delightful girl and she ought to make an interesting wife.

MRS. LONG WILL RETURN.

Mrs. Oscar Long took a flying trip to Washington, D. C., where her husband was impatiently awaiting her. The plan was that she was to remain here in charge of Highlands and her little daughters until Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Requa returned from the Hawaiian Islands. The change of plan naturally did not appeal to General Long who said that he should certainly come to California to see his wife if she remained here over Christmas. As he has just been installed in his new duties, Mrs. Long felt that he ought not to do that and so she went on herself for a flying trip. She is expected back in Oakland by the fifteenth when the Requas plan to sail.

OAKLANDERS AT DEL MONTE.

Among the Oaklanders at Del Monte last week were Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hubbard, Sr., who ran down for a few days' stay, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deering, for we still count Mrs. Deering an Oaklander, and Mr. and Mrs. Meyerstein, who were returning from their wedding trip. Mrs. Meyerstein passed her girlhood in Oakland where she was well known as Miss Edith Wardwell Marion.

THE KING'S DAUGHTERS' FETE.

Invitations are out for the handkerchief sale and doll bazaar to be given by the King's Daughters, at their comfortable new home near Fabiola, later in the month. It will be a very delightful affair, no doubt, and prices are to be very reasonable. All the charity things so far this season have been uniformly successful. The King's Daughters, who gave some of the most successful rummage sales ever given in Oakland seem to have departed from that method of money-making. Last year their handkerchief sale, though on a smaller scale, was very successful.

THE EBELL LUNCHEON.

The Ebell luncheon of Tuesday was a very delightful one over thirty presidents of clubs being entertained. They were all in the city for the federation and they went away with delightful memories of Ebell.

DIVIDED OPINIONS OF BEN HUR.

How divided the opinions are on Ben Hur. Some people rave about it, others fear. I think I am one of those who agrees with Ashon Stevens—the horses are very spirited actors. The acting for the most part is very bad and the lines are abominable. As a play, it could scarcely have greater faults of construction. But several of the tableaux are fine, though I confess to great disappointment over the Sted of Bethlehem. The chariot race is thrilling but the best tableau of all shows the Mount of Olives and the multitude with palms. They face up the hill, all looking at some heavenly apparition. You see the light, you feel the thrill and a tear flows all unbidden, even if you are one of those of "little faith." It is this unseen presence of the Nazarene and the occasional suggestion of him in the music which makes Ben Hur worth seeing.

A SUCCESSFUL GOWN.

One of the prettiest gowns I have seen lately is of lavender chiffon over lavender satin. There are a few shirtings and the skirt is finished with three deep folds. The lining is cut low, but the chiffon covers the neck and the elbow sleeves are also transparent. The folds appear again in elbow ruffles and at the lower edge of the yoke. The only relief is in the skirt which is a wide white satin ribbon with a band of pink roses down the center. It is a lovely, artistic, simple gown. Most of the season's gowns are overloaded and most of the dressmakers are very guilty in this regard.

MRS. DAVIS' RECEPTION AT HER LARGE HOME.

When it comes to a history of the social round, one hardly knows where to begin. The most prominent affairs, however, have been the "at homes," the largest of which this week, was given at the residence of Mrs. William R. Davis on Prospect Heights.

The cards of invitation carried the address "Blackstone Hill," and that is now the permanent appellation of that special hill. It is named from the number of lawyers who have built permanent homes there—the Olveys, senior and junior, William R. Davis, Guy C. Earl, and there was formerly another lawyer home, that of the late J. C. Martin.

In spite of the rain, "Blackstone Hill" presented an animated picture on Thursday afternoon, with the many carriages bringing the guests to the tea. Happy the hostess who has a successful tea on a rainy day. Then indeed is she sure of her popularity! And Mrs. Davis can have no mistake about her successful "at home" of Thursday.

There have been tears, all of us can remember them, which have represented a cold frost in a social way. All of us can remember them, and one's heart goes out in sympathy for the hostesses who must entertain on a rainy day. Of course, luncheons and dinners are all right—you simply must go, but one looks at the warm fire and the latest new book, and it is so easy to indite the little visiting card, that marks the incident closed.

One remembers the very successful tea the Eversons gave last winter. It simply poured, but many people started just the same. And then to cap the climax of a wet day, the street cars stopped running for the two hours of the tea. But that did not keep away the crowd. After the American woman starts it is a question of getting there. You saw crowds of guests bravely tramping along under umbrellas; people picked up friends along the route till all the carriages were simply packed, and the informality of it all made everybody jolly, and ready for a good time.

The cars had stopped running and people couldn't come home, so they stayed, of course, and as the Eversons did not mind it, the refreshments for the "at home" served for dinner, and that rainy day tea was one of the successes of the winter.

Very much the same thing was true of the Davis "at home," for a great many people went, and the drawing-room was crowded with a gay throng of guests, during the hours of the "at home."

The rooms in the Davis residence are very attractive, and Mrs. Davis did not take away the home-like look with too many decorations, as so many people do now-a-days. A tea looks like anything but an "at home" in some cases. You might be in the woods, from the quantities of trailing vines dragged about everywhere, without any excuse for being. Tall vases, with long-stemmed yellow chrysanthemums, added the touch of extra decoration, and for the rest, the rooms showed a dignity that was very charming.

Mrs. William R. Davis, with her guest of honor, Mrs. George Clarke Davis, received the guests in the large drawing-room of the home. Mrs. Davis was beautifully gowned, in white crepe over silk, elaborately trimmed with lace. The gown was set off with a superb diamond brooch.

Mrs. George Clarke Davis wore her wedding gown of panne crepe, with rose point collar. She carried a dainty bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Noticeable in the receiving party was Mrs. James Moffitt, who wore one of the most elegant gowns in the room. It was of white silk, magnificently trimmed with an elaborate arrangement of rare rose point lace. Her ornaments were diamonds, and she looked like a very pretty picture, quite as if she might have stepped out of a frame.

In the receiving party was Mrs. Charles Cotton, who wore an imported gown of flowered silk, richly trimmed in lace.

Mrs. George Edwards was also in the receiving party, and she wore a calmly gown of silk in Dresden shades. Mrs. Lowden wore a gown in dark tones, lighted with lace.

Mrs. George Davis had invited some of her young girl friends to assist her in receiving the guests of the afternoon. Among them was Miss May Coogan, whose happy disposition and cheering ways make her most welcome on any receiving party. Mrs. Irving Burrell, herself a bride, looked happy, and she wore a pretty white lace gown. Ada Kenna was simply stunning in her bridesmaid gown of white point d'esprit.

Miss Edith Beck wore a gown of pink, elaborately trimmed with lace, and Miss Helen Chase, who has just returned from the East, wore a New York gown that attracted general attention. It was a gorgeous gown of ecru lace and pale blue silk. The skirt was finished off with a wide ruffle of net, and the bodice was trimmed with many bands of narrow blue velvet. It was one of the unique and original gowns seen here this winter.

Among the many guests, Mrs. George Wheaton looked unusually well, and as beautiful as ever, in a gown in black effects, the costume set off with a becoming hat in a French effect of black and white. Mrs. Kittredge came to the tea, from the luncheon at Mrs. Gould's, and she brought with her Mrs. de Fries, who is being extensively entertained just now. Mr. de Fries is a graduate of the University of California, and of Harvard, and is a most successful lawyer in London. Mrs. de Fries had on a London gown, elaborately trimmed in lace; it attracted much attention.

Mrs. Q. A. Chase wore a very pretty gown of silk, it was set off with a New York hat, very picturesquely trimmed in pink roses. In fact, one saw many foreign effects, and New York styles at the tea. Miss Evelyn Hussey has just returned from New York, and she looked very chic, altogether stunning, in a superb stole of ermine, with a big ermine muff to match. Mrs. Oscar Luning wore a French gown in tones of blue, elaborately trimmed with lace, and set off by a picture hat, trimmed in white ostrich plumes.

Mrs. Warren Olney wore a costume of black, elaborately trimmed in jet, and she was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Bartlett, formerly Miss Mary Olney, the latter wearing one of her trousseau gowns.

Among the immediate neighbors who helped Mrs. Davis to receive, were Mrs. Archie Norland, Mrs. von Adelung and Mrs. Hayward G. Thomas, the latter wearing a very pretty imported gown of gray crepe. Miss Christie Taft's costume was set off by a handsome coat, trimmed with brass buttons in military effect, and with her were Miss Alice and Miss Ruth Knowles, both very effectively gowned.

Mrs. Mark Regua were a handsome reception gown, in light tones, and handsome gowns were really the order of the afternoon, for all it was such a dark day. Notable among them were the effective costumes worn by Mrs. George Percy, Mrs. William Chickering, Mrs. S. T. Alexander, Mrs. H. E. Cooke, Mrs. Gordon Steup, Mrs. Everts, Miss Florine Brown, Mrs. Ida Gorrill, Miss Panny Smith, Mrs. T. C. Coogan, Mrs. George Hammer, Mrs. Hayward Thomas, Mrs. Hilderbrand, Mrs. J. T. ETHEL VALENTINE'S TEA.

It was a rainy day also for Miss Ethel Valentine's tea, but nevertheless her young friends braved the disagreeable weather, and were in evidence in the daintiest of gowns. Wet weather seems to follow all the teas at the Valentine home. It was the stormiest day of the whole winter, when Miss Valentine made her debut at the large reception at "Cedar Court," in East Oakland. The Valentines are for the present occupying the Derby home at Linda Vista, and it was very bright and pretty the other day in honor of the "at home" for Miss Jacqueline Moore, who is to be Miss Valentine's sister-in-law.

The Moores and Valentines have been old time friends and neighbors, so the engagement was very satisfactory to them all.

Miss Ethel Valentine's gown was very pretty indeed, a dainty point d'esprit; she has been in mourning so long that her friends were glad to see her in this lighter gown.

Miss Jacqueline Moore had on a gown of very French effect—her gowns are always striking. This one was of ecru lace, fashionably trimmed in green velvet.

Owing to the illness of Mrs. Valentine's father in Seattle, the family did not wish to give an elaborate "at home," and the tea by Mrs. Valentine was for the younger people, and a graceful little compliment to her new sister.

Some very pretty gowns were worn at the tea, and among the callers were the Misses Florence Hush, Grace Sanborn, the Misses Fore, Jane Rawlings, Carolyn Oliver, Marietta Favens, Mae Burdge, Marion Smith, Ethel Moore, Mrs. Wickham Havens, Mrs. Wm. Watt, Miss Mollie Connors, Miss Christie Taft, Mrs. George S. Wheaton, Miss Bessie Palmer, Miss Edith Selby, Miss Marwedel, Miss Edna Barry, Miss Ada Kenna, Miss Gertrude Allen, Mrs. Dan Belden, the Misses Knowles, Mrs. R. A. Bray, Miss Young, Miss Anita Oliver, Miss Fore recently returned from the South, and she was one of the most strikingly beautiful girls at Miss Valentine's tea. They are great friends and are much together.

TEA GIVEN BY MRS. GREGORY.

Many guests went first to the Davis tea, and then to San Francisco to the tea given by Mrs. Gregory and her daughter, Miss Elise Gregory. The Gregorys formerly lived in what is now the Schilling home in the Lakeside District, and so they have many old friends on this side of the bay. They have recently returned from abroad, and have taken a house on Vallejo street.

Mrs. Gregory and Miss Elise Gregory were assisted in receiving their guests by Mrs. Livermore, Miss Beaver, Mrs. A. A. Penoyer, Mrs. Bishop, Mrs. J. D. Spreckels, Miss Bessie Palmer, Miss Edith Selby, Miss Elizabeth Huntington and Miss Marie Louise Parrott.

Miss Gregory will be one of the debutantes of the coming San Francisco season, and bids fair to have an entree among its most exclusive set.

MRS. COSTIGAN TO GIVE DINNER.

Mrs. J. M. Costigan is to entertain at dinner in honor of Miss Gertrude Dutton, one of the very popular debutantes across the bay. There have been many luncheons and dinners given in her honor. Mrs. Dutton gave a dinner at which there were fifty guests, at the Bohemian club.

A large tea was given for her at the family residence last Saturday afternoon, but the pretty debutante made short work of it. She got out of it as quickly as she could, and sped away to the automobile races. "I can see my friends any time," she said, "but I can't see Barney Oldfield break a record," and the guests sympathized with her.

WILL GIVE FANCY DRESS DINNER.

Mrs. Edward Lacy Bray on is to give a fancy dress dinner, to which only her young girl friends are to be invited. It will be great fun, those masquerades always are. Once upon a time Miss Jane Rawlings gave one in honor of the engagement of her friend, Ethel Kellogg, now Mrs. Henry Nichols. The girls were all dressed in male attire, having borrowed the necessary apparel from some relative. "It was piles of fun," as one of them said. Of course there were no men, and the girls had the time of their lives.

It was a harmless bit of pastime, only it got into the papers, and the girls tried hard not to care. But all the Tuckers know how to make a good time for their friends. It is bred in them, no one who was there will ever forget "the children's party" given by Mrs. J. T. Tucker at the Golf Club house, in honor of her niece, Miss Havemeyer, now Mrs. A. L. Stone.

Such hearty shouts of laughter never since have echoed from the Golf Club house. There was Mrs. Tucker, the exact picture of Mother Goose—funny pointed cap—panniered skirt, and dear little high heeled slippers. Mrs. Albert Miller did not know a single one of children—least of all Harry East Miller, who was "Little Lord Fauntleroy." Edson Adams was "Little Boy Blue," and Doctor Dunn was "The Piper's Son." Mrs. Brayton was the dearest little French doll in the world, with short skirts, curls, and a cap. Miss Havemeyer was a funny Dutch doll in pantalettes the Moffitt girls were two little black pickinnies, and Kate Clement was a darkey girl, in a funny torn apron, and her hair done up in a thousand little kinky braids and tied with pieces of worsted. Such great fun as it all was! And now Mrs. Brayton is to give a masquerade dinner. I hope they will have as much fun as at Miss Rawlings' Dove Dance and Mrs. Tucker's famous Mother Goose party.

AN ENGAGEMENT TO BE ANNOUNCED.

An engagement about to be officially announced is that of Mr. George Chase, and Miss Mabel Donaldson.

(Photo Dorsaz.)

Mr. Chase is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Chase of this city. He is identified with the large business interests of his father in the Kohler, Chase Co. Mr. Chase is a Harvard man, and has spent much time abroad, but his permanent home has always been with the Chases in this city.

Miss Mabel Donaldson is a San Francisco girl, very pretty and popular. She has been a student of the University and is a "Kappa Kappa Gamma" girl—that famous fraternity from which so many brides have been chosen.

"Dear, dear, how they do go off!" sighed a poor matron the other day looking in vain despair at her brood of ugly ducklings. You couldn't help wishing one of them might turn out a swan. Miss Donaldson must be about the twelfth bride chosen in a few months from the Kappa Kappa Gamma girls.

Recent brides were Miss Rued, Miss Wenzelburger, and Miss Irene Hazard. The Chases are a well known and very prominent family on this side of the bay and the engagement of their son is a notable event.

NOT TAKEN TO SANATORIUM.

Orestes Pierce has not been taken to a sanatorium, as has been stated in nearly all of the papers. He is at his home on Vernon avenue, and he is being attended by physicians and two trained nurses. And while he is extremely ill, his relatives have not given up hope of his ultimate recovery.

WILL NOT RETURN TO OAKLAND.

The George McNeers, Jr., have finally decided not to return to Oakland this winter. They have taken the De Ruyter house in San Francisco, and will spend the next few months across the bay.

WHAT THEY ARE DOING AT PIEDMONT.

Piedmont news notes are interesting. Mrs. W. S. Sharon returned from the Islands on the Sonoma, much improved in health.

The pretty home of Mr. and Mrs. David Edwards is almost finished, and they will occupy it in the very near future. It is a shingled home, with picturesque lines of architecture, a welcome addition to the homes on the hill. Mr. and Mrs. David Edwards spent the autumn months with their sister, Mrs. R. A. Bray.

Mrs. Henry Butters returned to town this week, having placed her daughters at school in New York.

Mrs. Barraclough expects to return from the Orient early in the year, and to open her home at Piedmont. She made a long stay in Japan, and is now in Hong Kong.

Mrs. R. W. Gorrill entertained at luncheon this week in honor of Mrs. de Fries, of London. Her guests were for the most part members of the Cosmos Club.

RUMMAGE SALE FOR FABIOLA.

And the Rummage Sale for Fabiola goes on briskly, even though it is wet weather. It is always wet weather for Fabiola—the ladies have never been able to propitiate that scandalous old clerk of the weather.

Scientists may croak all they please about microbes, but nobody seems very much to mind. Everybody gives things away and everybody else buys them.

People buy just the things you would not expect them to. Sometimes it is a cracked vase, which has done duty a long time in some household. It is wants, and that he has not been able to buy for her. It is always found for him, and you can imagine his wife's joy when he brings it to their little home.

SOCIETY WOMEN AT RUMMAGE SALE.

And you do not know the society woman till you have seen her at a rummage sale. You may have met her often in the social treadmill, but you get a glimpse of the real woman at a rummage sale. You can see how it goes to her heart, how it tugs at her heart strings—this pathetic mother who looks for shoes for her baby, for a coat, perhaps, for her little ones. How helpful this society woman is to this other mother, who is trying to get the stockings and little warm underwear for the children, for the coming winter.

Fate may have placed them in widely different spheres, but the barriers go down before the womanhood, which makes one give, and the other take; but on an equal basis. You see, it is for the children, and that is the last analysis, the underlying element of the modern rummage sale.

SOCIETY GIRLS WHO WANT TO WORK.

Miss Winifred Burdge is to study nursing, and Miss Mae Burdge has always wanted to study medicine. She always said she would be "a doctor" when she grew up. It is only along the line of development which makes a girl want to stand for something besides a society life. The social round is a part of life, but it is not all of it, and the girl who is dependent on her father, likes to feel that she has some work for which she is fitted, if left upon her own resources.

Miss Florence Selby is in New York, and one hears that she is doing exceedingly fine work in the Pratt Institute. Miss Coralie Selby has astonished her family by sending some beautiful specimens of book-binding, her own work. She is going to finish the course in Rome, to which place her grandmother, Mrs. Selby, has returned to spend the winter.

Mrs. Chaffetz Taylor, one of the richest women in America, has her own book-binding shop in Chicago. It is really a studio, and after social duties are over, it is her greatest joy to work in it. She turns out rare and beautiful work. It was pointed out to her that there was a "book-binders' union," and she promptly applied for admission, and now she is a member of it.

Book-binding in Europe is carried to great lengths, and her friends are glad to know of Miss Coralie Selby's success in this new branch of industry.

AN INTERESTING WEDDING.

One of the very interesting weddings of the week was that of Mr. Frank Parcells, and Miss Shrave, of Alameda. It was a home wedding, but the details of it were very elaborate, the decorations being the finest seen in Alameda in many months. The home was beautifully decorated in a scheme of wood-wardia ferns and white chrysanthemums.

The bride's gown was of chiffon over white tulle, and with it was worn the long bridal veil of tulle. Miss Heller was the maid of honor, and she was gowned in white crepe de chine. Mrs. Parcells, the mother of the groom, wore a gown of black silk, elaborately trimmed in rose point lace.

Mrs. Charles E. Parcells wore an exquisite gown of lavender, beautifully trimmed in lace.

Miss Elsie Kimble wore a New York gown in velvet and lace effect. There were only a few guests from

MISS KATHRYN DILLON, ONE OF THE BEST DRESSED GIRLS AT NED GREENWAY'S DINNER AT THE PALACE

MISS FLORINETTE JULLIERET.

Oakland, and among them were:
Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Porcella,
Mr. and Mrs. J. K. McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kellogg, Mr. and Mrs.
H. Chamberlain, Russell Lukens, Mr.
and Mrs. J. R. Scupham, the Misses Scupham, Miss Elsie Kimble, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pheby, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walsh, Doctor and Mrs. Timmerman, Judge and Mrs. Melvin, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Olney, Roger Friend, Bernard Miller, Miss Pauline Collins, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Carleton.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parcells have gone East, and on their return will reside at the family home on Webster street.

LUNCHEON DATES
FOR NEXT WEEK.

Luncheon dates bid fair to be very interesting. Miss Pauline Fore has cards out for a luncheon in honor of her sister Mrs. Conde-Jones, formerly Miss Genevieve Fore. The latter has quite recovered from her illness at Bakersfield this summer, and has been spending some weeks at the Fore home on Franklin street. It does not seem very long ago, since many friends gathered at the family home for the wedding of Miss Genevieve Fore and Mr. Jones. There could never have been a more beautiful bride, for these sisters, all in dainty white costumes, made a picture altogether lovely.

The first luncheon will be on the nineteenth, and Mrs. Fore and Miss Fore will entertain guests. The second luncheon will be in honor of Mrs. Jones, and the guest list will include young married friends of the latter. Miss Pauline Fore is an exceedingly beautiful girl, and she comes back from Southern California, where she has been with Miss Ethel Valentine, very much improved in health.
Mrs. Hayward Thomas has cards out for a luncheon next Tuesday, and Mrs. James Tyson, of Alameda, will also entertain at luncheon next week.
Mrs. Tyson was formerly Miss Grace Hampton. She will entertain in honor of the Misses Dunphy, Mrs. Rosen-feld's sisters, who are visiting her from the East.

Mrs. Frank Watson entertained for them, and Mrs. De Golia gave a card party for them.

WHIST FOR THE DIGNIFIED SET.

Whist has been relegated to the dignified set, and will probably continue to be the game of the Whoeck and Cosmos clubs. As for the other clubs, everything is five hundred. And how you do buy and sell in it, and I was going to add, "beg, borrow and steal," but I won't.

Mrs. Roy Mauvais will entertain for the Misses Dunphy at cards, and five hundred will be the game of the afternoon.

Mrs. Edwin Goodall will also entertain at cards at her home on Jackson street in honor of Mrs. de Friesse of London.

LUNCHEON FOR MISS BARRY.

Among the interesting dates of the future will be a luncheon, given by Mrs. C. C. Clay at Levee Lea, in honor of the bride-elect, Miss Edna Barry.

BIRTHDAY DINNER
AT CLAREMONT.

A very large birthday dinner was given this week at Claremont, in honor of the birthday of Judge Garber. Intimate friends only were present at the dinner, which was in celebration of Judge Garber's seventeenth birthday. A large company gathered for the evening, and the big birthday cake was cut. It was surrounded by seventy lighted candles, to bring good luck, and to wish the judge "many happy returns of the day."

DANCING PARTY FOR DAUGHTER.

Mrs. Charles J. Woodbury has sent out invitations to a dancing party in honor of her daughter, Alyson Delight Woodbury. The party is to be given on the evening of the twenty-fourth the day before Thanksgiving. It will take place in the assembly room of Miss Horton's school. Ruth and Delight Woodbury are very popular girls, of course they are school girls, but among the very brightest girls in know. And I might add that this is an inheritance from both sides of the house.

The young people will hail with delight the party for they all dearly love to dance, and Thanksgiving brings vacation days, with a rest from study, to dancing will be in order.

PLANS FOR THANKSGIVING.

Many are the plans for Thanksgiving. Christmas finds the various family groups going from home to home, for the different Christmas trees. But Thanksgiving brings all the children to the old home if possible. Mrs. Albert Miller always wants her children, and their families on that day. Mrs.
J. N. Knowles has a large family gathering. The Henry Gordons, the Harry Knowles, the Harry Adams, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ellis. All the family clan—the Clays and their relatives—are guests of Mr. and Mrs.
Robert Stephenson. There is always a big family dinner at Alta Vista, and the Edison Adams always entertain the other members of their family on that day. Thanksgiving is always along old-fashioned lines, and that is one of its charms.

WOMAN WHO COULD BE STUPID.

An after luncheon party was talking the other day about "the woman who could be stupid." Really I did not imagine she could have so many phases. You heard of her, as she carelessly dropped a lighted match on the bureau, and set fire to her best hat.
And in the beginning of winter, too.
You heard of how she sent peddlers to her best friends, not to speak of book agents. Oh, there are any number of kinds of stupid women. But it was agreed that the worst of them all was the one who will not speak to you at a mutual friend's house, without being introduced. She is simply a fright, and if you try to be nice to her, when you see she is not having a good time, just by way of being helpful to your friend, she freezes the marrow in your bones. I haven't any use for her, and a long series of experiences has taught me to let her alone. If she wants to be a tortoise, and go on in her own stupid way, what is the use of trying to draw her out?

A GOLF
EPISODE.

It is seldom, I am sorry to say, that it is my good fortune to be one of as witty a crowd as happened the other night in one of our hospitable homes.
Late in the evening we had an impromptu spread, and the conversation took a personal turn. One experience, which had the Presidio for place, and two reverend gentlemen and two girls for the personnel, will interest you.
I am sure. The Rev. W. told it while carving a cold duck, apropos of being asked by one of those present if he had been long in Oakland.

A member of the San Francisco Golf Club invited a brother curate and myself to play, one warm day late in October. After the first game I decided to remain at the club house, while my host and friend went around the links again. While sitting reading,
I noticed two young ladies come in.
One was rather natty-looking, with red hair and freckles; the other was quite impossible—tall, lank and in-mourning. They were quite exhausted and terribly thirsty—plain lemonade seemed to satisfy, after talking of "high balls," "tin roofs" and "horses' necks." Then this conversation took place: Red said: "I wonder who those men were with L." "I'm sure I don't know," said Black; "let's look at the register."

Red, reading aloud, "Rev. S. Palo Alto. Oh, yes! I thought I recognized him." The tall, handsome one—"He's just too sweet for anything! No wonder his church is crowded!" (Reading again) "Rev. W., Oakland. I did not get a good look at him. You should know him, from Oakland." Black: "Never heard of him. He must be a new-comer!"

Just think of Dr. W. telling such a joke on himself, and he such a favorite with all the prospective brides and grooms.

A HINT TO BRIDES.

I wish the recent brides would take it in good part, when I advise them to write notes of thanks, or at least of acknowledgment, for the presents they received. A short time ago I was asked to inquire of a bride from the eastern part of our city, if she had received a certain present. In a roundabout way I did so, and upon finding that she had, I proceeded to set the mind of the donor at rest.

FASHION'S
FADS.

It may interest you to know that purple—the louder the better—is the very newest color, and if you find the weird and unaccountable fluctuations of fashion matters of moment, when you wear heavy gloves, you must not button them. The correct thing is to wear the wrists of them turned over and pulled down, Reggy Vanderbilt and Freddy Gebhardt, New York's beau Brummels, say red is the color for men's neckties.

BAD APPLES.

Ever since the automobile parade and meet of last week, I have watched the papers carefully, expecting to see embellished forth in great headlines,
"Automobile Riot," "Repetition of the Commune," or something equally as strong; but it remains for the little Meddler to let the world know of the danger of motoring in the streets of San Francisco.

The night of the parade some people were armed with sticks, on the ends of which nails were attached, and at every opportunity they would scratch or gouge the piano-polished tonneau of the passing auto. No arrests were made. The next day on the way out to Ingleside, decayed fruits and cobbles-tones were thrown in a perfect shower at the automobiles and their occupants for blocks, until the protection of the park was reached. The disturbance at the Goetz-Roxburghs wedding wasn't a circumstance. One chauffeur got a large bunch of grapes right between the eyes; and a lady in a Toledo touring car was struck by a rotten apple in the head. "Just missing her fine imported hat," as she said. In fact, by the time the track was reached people were so incensed and frightened at the treatment they received from the small boys and hoodlum element, that an indignation meeting was held, and it was decided to carry ammonia guns for protection.
I shall not be surprised to find in next year's models a seat behind for a "dger" with a gun.

SHE GOES TO A
CARD PARTY.

And indeed I must leave you, for it is time to go to the card party which Mrs. Parcells is giving for her stunning young sister, Elsie Kimble. I won't write about it beforehand—I don't get "literary atmosphere" that way. It will be "another story" and keep until next week. Likewise some phases of the big football game. Well, here goes—"Good luck to Berkeley—to the Blue and Gold!"

THE MEDDLER.
WILL GIVE CARD PARTY.

The card party to be given by Mrs.
Seth Mann Saturday, November 21, is one of the events to which society people are looking forward for next week.
The popular game "Five Hundred" has been chosen for the afternoon.
A few of Mrs. Mann's numerous friends will assist her in receiving on Saturday afternoon. They are the following: Mrs. W. E. Miles, Mrs. R. F.
Wheaton, Mrs. C. H. Taylor, Mrs.
Walter Starr, Miss Carolyn Ayres, Miss
Florence Hush, Mrs. Oscar Gowing,
Miss Jacqueline Moore, Miss Florence
White, Miss Ethel Valentine, Miss Be-
sie Palmer, Miss Christine Taft, Mrs.
Don Belgen, Miss Florence Starr,
Miss Grace Sperry, Miss Mae Burdge,
Miss Ellis, Miss Marion Smith and Miss Florence Nightingale.

PRETTY LUNCHEON.

One of the prettiest events for the coming week to be the luncheon planned by Miss Florence Nightingale.
The color scheme will be green, gar-lands of twining smilax and trailing, feathery ferns everywhere. The candles will be pink. Covers will be laid for the following: Mrs. George Wheaton, Jr., Mrs. Edmund Baker, Mrs.
Walter Starr, Miss Carolyn Ayres, Miss
Florence Hush, Mrs. Oscar Gowing,
Miss Jacqueline Moore, Miss Florence
White, Miss Ethel Valentine, Miss Be-
sie Palmer, Miss Christine Taft, Mrs.
Don Belgen, Miss Florence Starr,
Miss Grace Sperry, Miss Mae Burdge,
Miss Ellis, Miss Marion Smith and
Miss Florence Nightingale.

WHIST TOURNAMENT.

Loyal Temple Rathbone Sisters will give a prize whist tournament, Monday, November 16, at 2 p. m., at Foresters' Hall, Thirteenth and Clay streets.

TUESDAY WHIST CLUB.

The Tuesday Afternoon Whist Club was entertained this week at the residence of Mrs. M. F. Chloupek on Alice street. The prizes were won by Mrs.
Nesbitt, Mrs. Chloupek and Mrs. Henderson. The members are Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. Chase, Mrs. Terney, Mrs.
Coyne, Mrs. Case, Mrs. Henderson, Mrs.
Beaton, Mrs. Journal, Mrs. Samuels,
Mrs. McDaniel, Mrs. Irving, Mrs.
Chloupek, Mrs. Nesbitt, Mrs. Poole,
Mrs. Ruth and Mrs. Taylor.

JAPANESE PARTY.

A Japanese party was given this week at the home of Mrs. C. C. Westover, in honor of the fifteenth birthday of her daughter, Miss Merle Westover. The rooms were prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns, pictures and Oriental draperies. Among the guests were Miss Florence Quinn, Miss Edith Drake, Miss Eunice Currier, Miss Lizzie Williams, Miss Claire Drake, H. Arnold, E. La Fleur, H.
Pratt, W. Porter, A. La Fleur, K.
Westover, and Master Curtis Westover.

WOMEN'S IMPROVEMENT CLUB.

The next meeting of the Women's Civic Improvement Club will be held on Monday, November 16, at 3:30 p. m., in the Chabot Observatory building. As this club has recently deolded to hold its meetings every two weeks instead of every week, the meetings will be doubly interesting.

The various committees are now at work, and make full reports at the general meetings. An opportunity is given at each meeting for new members to align the roll, and for any departments of the club's work in which they are interested.

FAIR DEBUTANTE HONORED.

Miss Gertrude M. Dutton, one of the season's fairest debutantes, is being honored guest at a large number of social functions of late, among them being a dinner for fifty at the Bohemian Club, and at luncheons at the Palace Hotel,
San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Costigan are planning a dinner to be given at their home on Jackson street complimentary to Miss Dutton and her parents.

CARD PARTY.

Mrs. Roy Mauvais has sent out cards for a card party to be given Thursday, November 19, at her home on Webster street, in honor of the Misses Dunphy.
"Five Hundred" will be the game for the afternoon.

BIRTHDAY DINNER.

The dinner given this week at Judge Garber's home in Claremont in honor of the Judge's seventeenth birthday was a very successful event. Hallahan had charge of the dinner, and as the guests gathered about the head table, working for the best of property and long life of the genial host.
The dinner guests were: Mr. Polache
Sr., Mr. Polache Jr., E. E. Foster, Esq., Professor Gayley, Prof. or Leon Richardson, Warren Williams, Mr. Chayley, Mr. Wright, Admiral Kennett.
After the dinner the wives of the dinner guests arrived and the large birthday cake was cut.

OAKLAND C. U. B.

The ladies of the Oakland Club are planning a unique and delightful afternoon, for Wednesday, November 18.
They call the affair a "New England" luncheon but the musical program which will follow the luncheon with selected readings form very attractive features of the afternoon. The Oakland Club is always successful in its entertainment, the ladies have proven many times what delightful hostesses they are and so it is a certainty that this new affair for Wednesday afternoon will be in keeping with those gone before, interesting and enjoyable.
The following is the committee for that day: Mrs. B. F. Holbrook, Mrs.
W. H. Friend, Mrs. E. J. Gibson, Mrs.
W. E. Smith, Mrs. J. C. Tamm, Mrs.
W. F. Rudolph, and Mrs. L. W. Kelly.
Mrs. J. S. Emery and Miss M. A.
Horton have charge of the decorations.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. W. E. Sharon arrived this week on the Sonoma from the Hawaiian Islands. Her health is much improved as a result of her trip.
Mrs. Harry MacFarlane, formerly Miss Polly Dunn, will come from Honolulu to spend the Christmas holidays with her sister, Mrs. Henry Dutton.
Miss Ruth Adams and her friend, Miss Maude Fay, who are making an extensive tour of Europe, are now in Germany. They anticipate spending the winter in Southern Europe.
Mrs. Catherine Edwards, Mrs. Penney and mother, Mrs. Edwards, after an extended trip East, she will go first to Boston where she will visit friends she has not seen for over twenty years, and later on she will go to Virginia.

Mr. Edward Benjamin has been entertaining his relatives, Mrs. Benjamin Sr., and Miss Ruth Benjamin of Napa.
Mr. and Mrs. M. H. De Young of San Francisco are in New York. They attended the wedding of Miss Edith Goetz and the Duke of Roxburgh on the 10th inst.

Arthur Kales left this week for the East to enter into business with his uncles in New York City.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. De Young will leave in the near future for New York City where they will spend the holiday season.

Mr. and Mrs. George McNear Jr., have taken the De Ryck, a French motor car, and are at the Hotel Richelieu on Van Ness avenue.
Miss Mary Dunham, who has been the guest of Mrs. C. C. Miller during the week, returned to her home in Los Gatos, yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Buckbee leave next week for the East.
Miss Genevieve Carman and Henry
Poett are to be married next Tuesday.
Will Sanborn was one of the Oakland guests at E. M. Greenway's birthday dinner.

TODAY'S NEWS LETTER.

Those who have been guessing about the appointees under the coming administration of Mayor McCall, will find a plenty of information in today's issue of the San Francisco News Letter, in which the names of the appointees are given.
The "Looker-on" department is better than ever, and does not miss a bit of gossip about the prominent people of San Francisco and elsewhere. Some of the recent doings at Stanford are told of,
and in addition there are stories of well-known newspaper people, stage people, artists and others prominent in political,

THE CRAVING FOR DRINK RULES BRAIN AND DESTINY
When a man begins to drink he drinks moderately. He instinctively knows that Alcohol is injurious to his system. He sees enough drunkenness to realize that Liquor is an evil. He hears enough of the misery and crime it causes to recognize its insidiousness.
Still he does not fear it. Most men proud in the knowledge of powerful will-power imagine they are too strong to ever get in Whiskey's clutches. Every drunkard has thought that; every man who clinks his social glass with his comrades is certain of his mastery over the cheering poison. But when he tries to stop! This is the time that the Whiskey Bottle's fateful fascination exerts itself. Those daily drinks created the appetite that tipping has sown the seeds of desire, which is disease. The victim tortured will vainly struggle for mastery but he is fighting a disease which will-power won't heal nor promise cure, nor confinement eradicate. Nothing short of medical skill will triumph over Whiskey's hold on mankind, and DR. J. J. McKANNA has proved exclusively to 12,000 drinking men and the relatives and friends of these men that his cure for the Liquor Habit is absolutely safe and permanent. The Liquor Habit is treated at a private Sanitarium where patients are accorded every consideration and the strictest privacy. Dr. Mc-Kanna's treatment will cure the Drink Habit in all its stages. It has never failed to permanently cure a single case of In-ebriety.

NEWS FROM ALAMEDA

CLASSIFICATION OF UNIONS.

NEW CENTRAL LABOR COUNCIL HELD AN IMPORTANT MEETING

The classification committee of the new Central Labor Council held a meeting last night. A rough draft of the five different councils, the building trades, miscellaneous trades, transportation, iron trades and provision trades was drawn up, and the various local unions placed under one or another of these heads. Another meeting of the committee will be held before Monday night's session of the main body to perfect the list, which at present is yet in an embryo state. Some unions are named under more than one council, while others have not been classified at all. The committee is finding its task of classifying the widely divergent labor unions in homogeneous bodies a rather difficult one.

SHIP WRIGHTS.
The shipwrights tool in three new members at last night's meeting. A communication was received from the international union from which the Oakland local withdrew some weeks ago. At that time some employees of the Union Iron Works, who had been dropped from the San Francisco local because they worked for less than union wages, formed a local of their own at the works and were granted a charter from the international body. The Oakland local refused to longer affiliate itself with an organization that would grant a charter to an association of workers which they considered as scabs.

ELECTRICAL WORKERS.
The electrical workers' sub-local, No. 6 (male men), met last night and made further arrangements for the carnival and ball to be held in Mechanics Pavilion the latter part of the month. The electrical display at this affair will be one of the most elaborate ever seen in the State.

CARRIAGE AND SIGN PAINTERS.
One candidate was in slated into the Carriage and Sign Painters' Union last night and two applications were received. There was a heated discussion on the methods employed in the various paint shops in town.

BUILDING TRADES COUNCIL.
The executive committee of the Building Trades' Council held a short session in Kohler and Chase hall last evening. No important business was transacted.

MILLMEN.
Owing to the small attendance at the meeting of the Millmen's Union last night, very little business was transacted. One application for membership was received. A social meeting will be held on November 27 for the purpose of voting on the consolidating of the national organization of carpenters, viz., the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the American Society of Carpenters and Joiners.

MEETINGS TO NIGHT.
The laborers will hold a session this evening in Cooke and Walters' headquarters, Eighth street and Broadway; the Teamsters' local No. 70 at California hall, 1015 City street.

BOWLERS TO MEET.
The crack bowlers of the Plumbers' and Bricklayers' Unions will have a contest this evening at the Palace alley on Broadway.

TEAMSTERS' SMOKE.
The members of the Teamsters' Union, local No. 70, will enjoy themselves at a smoke this evening in California hall. A brief informal program will be carried out after which refreshments will be served.

TOMORROW'S MEETINGS.
The executive committee of the Newsboys' Union will meet tomorrow at the room of President Oberlies in the Chicago House, Ninth street, between Washington and Broadway; the musicians will meet at Cooke and Walters' headquarters, Eighth and Broadway; the State executive committee of the Building Trades' Council will meet at the same place.

TWO FIREMEN ASK THAT THEY BE ALLOWED TO SERVE FIVE YEARS.

ALAMEDA, November 14.—The Board of Trustees held a very short executive session last night. Chief Krauth of the Fire Department recommended that C. B. Foster and E. A. Hurley be allowed to complete their five-year terms as volunteer firemen, as they had only six and five more months, respectively, to serve. They would, if allowed to do this, become exempt from jury and military duty. Foster and Hurley were both members of the H. Cordes Volunteer Company, which disbanded several weeks ago. They desire to complete their terms with the regular paid Cordes Hose Company.

Bids from five electric concerns on 140 arc lamps were read, but no action was taken. Franchises were left untouched.

OF LOCAL INTEREST.
ALAMEDA, November 14.—President Joseph F. Forster of the Board of City Trustees, has returned to Alameda after a ten days' absence in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Rowe of San Antonio avenue left for Grass Valley last night to attend the funeral of her sister who died there Thursday.

The whist party given by Spruce Circle, Women of Woodcraft, on Tuesday evening last at Woodmen Hall, was a gratifying success. Mr. M. E. Hughes, well known in whist circles, managed the tournament.

Prizes were won by the following: Miss Alma Naber, Mrs. W. H. Foster, Miss Caro McFarland, L. A. Mock, Mr. Palmer, R. Eliezer, L. C. Jackson and J. H. Brooks.

EASTERN STAR ELECTION.
ALAMEDA, November 14.—The following officers have been elected by Carita Chapter No. 115, Order of the Eastern Star, for the ensuing year:

Worthy matron, Mrs. Mary J. Holtz; worthy patron, Mark Edward Gaines; treasurer, Mrs. Theresa Strong; secretary, Miss Ada N. Schmitt; associate matron, Mrs. Elizabeth Sheeran; conductress, Mrs. Laura McQuesten; associate conductress, Miss Amy McFarland. Mrs. Weber is the retiring matron and ex-Senator E. E. Taylor the retiring worthy patron. An open installation will be held on Wednesday evening, December 2 in Masonic Temple.

DEATH OF AGED CAPTAIN.

ALAMEDA, November 14.—Captain Albert Johnson, retired, one of the best known master mariners of this Coast, as well as one of the oldest, passed away at his residence, 2016 Pacific avenue, yesterday morning. Death was the result of cancer. Deceased was a native of Readfield, Maine. He was a member of a Masonic order of San Francisco, under the auspices of which the funeral will be held tomorrow. An aged widow survives him.

WANT PRISONERS PAROLED.

EFFORTS BEING MADE TO FREE PRISONERS DOBLE AND OGARA.

Application has been made to District Attorney Allen for certificates for parole to be presented to the Prison Directors in behalf of J. S. Dobie and Walter Ogara, both of whom are serving sentences from this county in the penitentiary. Friends have been at work and it is hoped that the release of the men may be obtained under the restriction of the parole law. Dobie was an intemperate preacher and was convicted of burglary for robbing a church in Alameda. While his calling was ostensibly that of spreading the truth, preached by the gentle Master of peace on earth and good will towards men, some of his deeds are even yet a matter of litigation in the courts. Besides the conviction of robbery Dobie had an automobile, which he sold several times to different persons and the quarrel over the machine has not reached an end. The matter was finally taken into the courts by the different claimants to dole who was the owner of the machine and the question has not yet been settled. Ogara was convicted of having run away with a motorman's daughter. She was under age and after living with her for a short time he deserted her. It was an offense against the statutes and he was convicted.

CHARITY ASSOCIATION MAKES PLANS FOR ITS ANNUAL AFFAIR.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 14.—The Alameda Women's Christian Charity Association will give their annual "pound party" Monday, November 23, in the Adelphi Club rooms. The pound party has been a feature of this society's charitable work for a number of years. Those attending are requested to bring a pound or more of provisions suitable for a Thanksgiving dinner and in this way many families in straightened circumstances are enabled to enjoy a holiday dinner.

Among the ladies interested in this year's affair are Mrs. S. A. O'Neill, Mrs. M. F. McGurn, Mrs. George E. Masick, Mrs. G. C. Hughes and Mrs. T. P. Winters.

A musical program will be presented.

RESTRICTIONS ON IMMIGRATION.

OAKLAND ORDER SENDS RESOLUTIONS TO SENATOR PERKINS.

The following communication has been sent to Senator George A. Perkins: "General George A. Perkins, Council No. 22, Junior Order United American Mechanics, Oakland, California. 'To Hon. George A. Perkins, professional organizer of discontent, promoter of all kinds of schemes, attack our government and seek to overthrow our constitution because they cannot stampede our rights for their own selfish ends; and 'Whereas, Respect for law and the rights it seeks to enforce, will increase when no longer new-fledged immigrants thus and otherwise exercise 'free speech' about laws they do not understand and about rights they cannot comprehend; and 'Whereas, This abuse of 'free speech' guaranteed only to citizens of the United States, is introduced into all discussions of profits, rents, interest and wages, while these problems in their maladjustment already tend to weaken the loyalty of sturdy, reliable men; and 'Whereas, Assault is being made upon the most economical means of maintaining the common defense, our militia system; and 'Whereas, Time is absolutely necessary to assimilate the new citizen material already here; and 'Whereas, The coming of adult skilled artisans as immigrants, has destroyed apprenticeship, is over-crowding the work of the crafts and tends to rob our children of their birthright, remunerative employment; and 'Whereas, Persons driven from their native land, tend to browbeat and lord it over those trained in our public schools; and 'Whereas, Industrial opportunity, the product of our people's thrifty obedience to the spirit of just laws, should be the inheritance of native-born citizens; and 'Whereas, Our children, our sons, need a chance to learn to obey the spirit of our laws from love of our Country, not from hate of others; and 'Whereas, Men need a chance to pause, get acquainted that shoulder to shoulder they may support American institutions freely, willingly, well; and 'Whereas, California, blessed by Congressional restriction of Chinese immigration, may well, in grateful testimony, urge this beneficial legislation for the above and many other reasons; 'Therefore, Be it by the one hundred seventy-one native-born citizens of the United States, who happen to constitute General George A. Perkins Council, No. 22, Jr. O. U. A. M., unanimously resolved, that we lay this memorial before the Senate and the House of Representatives of the United States petitioning for the most restricted immigration compatible with a reasonable presence in the United States, of students, travelers, merchants and learned men from other countries."

COMPLAIN MADE OF DISPOSAL OF WORNOUT FIRE HORSES.

ALAMEDA, November 14.—The action of the City Trustees in causing several of the old fire houses, which have become worn in the city's service to be sold to the highest bidder recently has caused no little unfavorable comment among members of the Alameda County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Chief Krauth has been informed by City Veterinary Carpenter, who is also a member of the association that one of the oldest horses sold some six weeks ago, "Old Tom," he was called, is now doing heavy draught work in Oakland. Dr. Carpenter is of the opinion that to avoid giving rise to a false impression as to the action of the Trustees, as well as in the interest of humane treatment of animals, these "veterans" of the service should be pensioned and permitted to spend their remaining days in peace.

CRESTS AND CRUSTS.

There Will Be a Lively Row Over Fight Bill.

The KNAVE

Cost a Pile to Keep a Scandal Quiet.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 14.—There is to be a very pretty fight at the next session of the Legislature over a bill fostered by ex-Speaker Arthur Fisk, prohibiting boxing contests in this State. The bill will have the support of John C. Lynch, the recognized head of the Republican party in California and Henry Ach, who was one of the members of the Crocker campaign committee.

Abraham Ruef and the political factions in sympathy with him will oppose the measure.

The fight, which is the outcome of Schmitz' election, will range all up and down the State. They have prize fights in Sacramento and so the statement from the Capital city who have the interests of the fight promoters at heart will be against the measure. While those who desire to get even on the promoters will favor it.

Now, that fighting is to be a regular thing at Colma, San Mateo County will be vitally interested. So will Alameda County. If the bill becomes a law, the Reliance Club of Oakland, one of the foremost athletic organizations in the West, will be forced to stop its boxing exhibitions. Aside from the Reliance Club, there are a few fight promoters in Oakland who frequently take a hand in politics. Los Angeles aspires to become a sporting center and the delegations south of Tehachapi will be compelled to take a definite stand and actively engage in the battle for or against the proposed law. Already they have a race track in Los Angeles that is looming up a bit, and from what I can learn, plans are under way to conduct a series of pretentious prize fights there during the winter.

The people behind the measure say that in order to beat it the prize fight promoters will have to spend a great deal of money. So they figure that even if they do not put the promoters out of business, they will at least temporarily embarrass them by placing a large crimp in their bank rolls.

A few nights before the selection Henry Ach met James Coffroth the most prominent prize fight promoter in San Francisco in a Market street saloon. Coffroth was out for Schmitz, tooth and nail. He contributed $1000 towards the re-election of the Mayor. Ach told him that unless he left the Schmitz camp and went over to Crocker that he would not be permitted to pull off another fight in San Francisco. He told Ach he didn't care, that he would stay with Schmitz. Ach replied that he thought he was foolish, because his man hadn't a chance to win.

"What will you bet Schmitz don't win," asked Coffroth.

"I'll bet a thousand dollars replied Ach."

Coffroth called the bet and Ach is out a thousand dollars as a result of the conference.

Tom Boyle is no longer business manager of the Bulletin. He announced that he would give up his job during the campaign. The election developed a very ridiculous situation in the Bulletin office. Mr. Older, the managing editor, was for Lane. So was the paper. Tom Boyle, the business manager, was a rabid Schmitz man and made his fight for the re-election of the fighter in and out of the Bulletin office. Mr. Carothers, the proprietor of the paper, wore a Crocker button.

The condition prevailed throughout the business district. In nearly all of the big houses the heads of the firm were equally divided between Lane and Crocker, while the foremen shouted loudly for Schmitz. Arrangements of that sort enabled the firm to be on good terms with the winner. The Holbrook, Merrill and Steison people are a glowing example of this new phase of municipal campaigning. But to get back to the Bulletin.

The new business manager is making all sorts of changes. I understand the head mailing clerk has been discharged and that a number of other dismissals are about to follow. Fred Stowell is no longer city editor. Orrin Black, the former husband of Annie Laurie, has been made Sunday editor of the paper.

Mr. Leach, business manager of the Chronicle, is about to give up his position and go East. He came here under a two years' contract with Mr. De Young about eight months ago. I understand he carried out what he promised to do and now he feels that he is at liberty to return to the other end of the continent.

There has been a lot of gossip to the effect that Fire Commissioner Parry is to be elevated to the head of the Fire Department and that Chief Sullivan is to be retired to private life. I can authoritatively deny this rumor, which is given credence in intelligent political circles. Mr. Parry will remain a member of the Board of Fire Commissioners and Chief Sullivan will retain his job. Sullivan has the reputation of being one of the greatest firemen in the world. The insurance companies would not tolerate his removal for a moment. Mr. Parry is by trade a pile driver. As Fire Commissioner he is a pile driver, and as Chief of the Fire Department he would be a pile driver. In fact, to whatever station in life he may be elevated or lowered by the fortunes of politics, he will remain a pile driver.

W. F. Herrin has retired from the political management of the Spring Valley Water Company and already there is talk of a number of bills to be introduced at the next Legislature that will affect the management and earnings of the corporation. So long as Mr. Herrin directed the political fate of Spring Valley there was little or no chance of pinch bills ever getting beyond the committee room at Sacramento, but with Mr. Herrin out the pinch bills may meet a different fate. The chances are there will be a very pretty fight over Spring Valley at the next session of the Legislature.

There is talk of Sam Leake going to take charge of the Call again. I must say that since Mr. Leake severed his connection with the Spreckels publication the newspaper has lost all the snap it ever possessed. I understand that during the last campaign John D. Spreckels was compelled to confer with Mr. Leake in order to get anything like definite information as to the outcome.

In the Call office, I am told, the positive information was to the effect that Crocker could not be beaten.

It took Mr. Leake but a very few minutes to show Mr. Spreckels that Schmitz was to be the next Mayor of San Francisco. He told him all the details of the combination which resulted in the Labor Party endorsement of Curtis for Sheriff. That combination gave Schmitz probably 3000 votes that he would not otherwise have had. He also showed Mr. Spreckels where one of the largest corporations in the State was doing everything in its power to help Schmitz. This corporation probably influences 2000 votes. These factors, with the votes of the workmen and the soldiers of fortune along the tenderloin, were about enough to let Schmitz succeed himself as Mayor. Sam Leake has always had accurate political information during the years he has figured in public life.

I heard a very good story on a prominent bookmaker and horseman who resides in Oakland. Notwithstanding the fact that he is apparently very happily married, this horseman is addicted to the habit of periodically disappearing with strange women. A few days ago he informed his wife that he was called out of town to look after matters pertaining to his stable. He did not think he would be gone more than a week. His wife drove him to the Sixteenth street station, where he boarded a train for the south.

The next evening the merry horseman turned up at the Hotel Van Nuys in Los Angeles with a very gayly attired young woman on his arm. Then on the hotel register was inscribed the legend, Mr. Nero — and wife. The next evening a plainly attired woman arrived at the Van Nuys, cast her eye over the register, took the elevator, and, with the aid of a little change and a bell boy, found the room for which she was looking. Without knocking she opened the door, entered the apartments, and discovered her husband at dinner with the other woman.

I understand it took nearly as much money as the Burns' Handicap is worth to prevent a public scandal.

THE KNAVE.

WILL FORCE THE BLOCKADE.

GENERAL JIMINEZ LEAVES PORT AU PRINCE FOR PUERTO PLATA.

CAPE HAYTIEN, Hayti, November 14.—The French steamer St. Simon, with General Jiminez, head of the Dominican revolution, on board, has left Port Au Prince, Hayti, with the intention, according to report, of forcing the blockade of Puerto Plata on the Northern Coast of Santo Domingo.

The Haytien authorities formally opposed the landing in Hayti of General Jiminez in spite of his strong insistence of being permitted to do so. It is said that if the St. Simon is interfered with, she will ask for the assistance of the German cruiser Gazelle or any other foreign warship which may be in Dominican waters.

Telegraphic communication with the interior of Santo Domingo was re-established but is now again interrupted and it is reported that severe fighting occurred before San Domingo.

The recent arrests of officials and heads of the National Bank of Port Au Prince on the charge of having been connected with the fraudulent issue of bonds early in the year has caused a great sensation here.

OPEN RELATIONS WITH PANAMA.

BERLIN, November 14.—Germany's consular representatives at Panama have opened business relations with the new Government, which action Germany subsequently sanctioned. The German consular officers on the issue have reported to the Foreign Office that the Cabinet of Panama is composed of men worthy of respect.

IMPROVEMENT IN SITUATION NOTED.

PARIS, November 14.—Official advice show there is a distinct improvement in the Russo-Japanese situation. It is understood that the recent prolonged decision was due to forwarding reports of the negotiations for the personal inspection of the Czar.

MOBWRECKED NEW BUILD NG.

TEMPERANCE PEOPLE EMPLOY HARSH METHODS AGAINST BREWER.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., November 14.—A mob of several hundred men, women and children at Coffa: organized this morning, and proceeded to a building just erected by F. D. Jadeska, a brewer of Kankakee, known as a "cold storage" plant, completely wrecked the structure. Threats had been made by the temperance element, but the contractor employed a large force of carpenters and planned to resist any attack. They were outnumbered, however.

EMPEROR ABLE TO SPEAK AGAIN.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—No bulletin regarding the health of Emperor William was issued today, but it is said that his wound continues to heal in a normal manner. The correspondent here of the Associated Press learns officially that the Emperor has already begun to speak in a low voice and that the irritation in the vocal organs is diminishing.

SIX SHIPS ARE WRECKED IN STORM

PORT ELIZABETH, Cape Colony, Nov. 14.—The British ship Arranmore, the British bark County of Pembroke, the Italian bark San Antonio, the Norwegian bark Two Brothers, and the Norwegian bark Wayfarer have been driven ashore and wrecked in a gale at Algoa Bay. The Russian bark Little was dismasted at the same time.

LETTER

W. R. Hearst Will Have the Delegation From This State

Abe Ruef's Program Across the Bay---Political Gossip

(Special to the Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO, November 14.—The efforts of W. R. Hearst through the Examiner and other agencies to bring about an amalgamation of the Labor and Democratic parties from the most interesting sequel to the campaign that has just closed here. While the municipal struggle was on, the Examiner was not in a position to do anything of this nature openly, for any support extended to Schmitz and his labor forces would have been considered antagonistic to Democratic interests as represented by Lane, the party nominee.

Now, however, that that complication is out of the way, the Hearst boomers are in a position to show their hands and they have not delayed in doing so as witness the editorials with which the Examiner is daily hammering away at the proposition. The arguments presented are plausible enough in type, for adding the Democratic and labor votes together, it is easy enough to produce a total that apparently sweeps everything before it.

But the people have not yet forgotten the outcome of the fusion between the Populists and Democrats. Upon that occasion as on this, the combined strength of the two parties on paper gave far more than enough to carry the country and those who shouted for the coalition felt so confident of success that they made premature arrangements for the distribution of the patronage prizes. And yet, what a horrible fizzle resulted. Here and there a few single-handed victories were recorded but taken as a whole the combined strength of the two forces was far less than the total of what they could have won separately. It is delving into ancient history to relate how the outcome was the dissolution of the Populist movement and how the Democratic party got such a wrenching that the party leaders have been vainly endeavoring ever since to straighten matters out.

The proposed Labor-Democratic combine is facing almost the same situation. While in cities like San Francisco certain classes of voters such as workmen will rally to the support of an individual, this by no means applies to the State and nation at large. The personality of Schmitz was about the main factor in achieving success for the labor party here and had any other individual headed the ticket he would not have won. No one knows better than Abe Ruef that the individuality of Schmitz is the principal stock in trade he possesses and that whenever anything goes wrong in that quarter the props are pulled from beneath the mushroom organization that has sprung up.

LABOR WILL SHY.

The point of all this is that while the workmen are willing to rally to Schmitz' standard whenever it is unfurled it must by no means be taken for granted that they have delivered themselves body and soul to a political organization to be used for the advancement of those desiring high places. When the attention of labor is called to what has been accomplished in its interests under Republican policies, the workman will do some hard thinking before he turns his hands against that party, especially so when the fact is brought to his attention that it is under Republican administrations that the country has grown prosperous enough to permit the paying of the largely advanced scale of wages that has resulted from unionism.

Hearst's attempt to apply sentiment on local issues to the broad plane of national politics, while a daring piece of work, is not likely to be stamped with success. While the rank and file of the Democracy may perhaps be in accord with a coalition with the labor forces, the master spirits of the party, those compromising the national committee, for example, will balk at such a proposition. The political advancement of labor is just as much dreaded by conservative-minded Democrats as by Republicans of the same ilk and when the leaders of the party meet it is more than likely that they will frown down the plan Hearst proposes.

Even here in California Hearst will find much Democratic opposition to his scheme. The element that rallied to Lane as against Schmitz will be against it in San Francisco and in the interior towns and cities as well as on the farms a cry will go up against the upbuilding of unionism by throwing it to the support of the Democracy. Those who are merely in politics as spoils-seekers will approve the plan as being the only one holding out any immediate hope of State or Federal positions but this is a comparatively small element when the party as a whole is taken into consideration.

THE LEAGUE AT WORK.

The action of the managers of the Republican League here in keeping alive their organization shows that there is no intention of allowing any of the fruits of last year's victory to slip through their fingers. Although the party nominee for Mayor was routed, the system by which the various district clubs were centralized will be continued so as to keep all the forces intact for the work that is coming next year.

This means that no chances are to be taken as regards having a Republican legislature. Although examination of existing conditions throughout the State shows almost conclusively that the Republicans will have a good working majority in both houses, it is as well to forestall the possibilities attending the Hearst movement for a Labor-Democratic coalition and every Republican district will be closely watched.

As San Francisco is good for at least fourteen Republican members of the legislature, the necessity of preserving the League becomes apparent. Especially is this so in view of the fact that all the factional elements are as dead "as door nails" for the followers of the Burns-Kelly schism put the finishing touches to their political standing when they lined up for Lane and did all they could for him as against their own party nominee. Had they, after deserting, gone to Schmitz and been with a winner, they might have had a foothold from which to operate next year but now they are without a political home and need not be considered in campaign calculations.

RUEF'S PROGRAM.

Ruef will of course not be in the League. His resignation in order to make Schmitz' fight and the subsequent summary action on his case by the League managers makes him an impossibility from a Republican standpoint. This does not mean his absence from the local arena next year, for he has planned a machine of his own and may possibly decide to contest the League organization for supremacy all over town.

The part to be played by Ruef in the approaching campaigns will be interesting and politicians are watching for indications of the course he intends to pursue. Despite the allurement of the Examiner and the bright picture painted by Hearst as to the possibilities of a Labor-Democratic combine, Ruef will unquestionably keep uppermost in his mind the fact that he is a Republican and that to go in on such a proposition would mean that he would have to change his politics.

What Ruef would like to figure out is a combination between the Republicans and the Union men but this is an extremely hard proposition to bring about in view of the prevailing conditions. With Hearst catering openly to the Labor Party with his newspapers, and the Republican press assuming an attitude of almost defiance to the political methods of the unions, the natural drift will be to the Democratic camp, that is, provided Hearst can succeed in inducing the Democratic leaders to approve his plans and hold out welcoming hands to the union forces.

THE MAY PRIMARY.

Where the first issue can come up is as regards the primary election for the selection of delegates to the national convention. The law regulating this primary is as follows:

In the year 1904 and every four years thereafter, a primary election shall be held on the first Tuesday in May for the purpose of choosing delegates to State and district conventions to select delegates to a national convention.

Whether or not Hearst's plans contemplate a national labor delegation from California, that will go to convention in his interests remains to be seen; if so, he has an enormous amount of work on hand, for save in spots, the Labor party is not organized here upon lines that permit proper representation in a national gathering. Then again, Ruef and Schmitz hold the reins that control the local Labor party and as they both make open and continuous denunciation of their Republicanism, they cannot afford to make any move that will give Hearst official endorsement by the union forces in California.

That Hearst will experience little or no difficulty in getting a solid Democratic delegation from this State is apparent. The concessions made everywhere his interests were clashing with the party leaders, have about straightened out all the rough places, and the newspaper he is about to start in the South will soon dispose of the antagonism that was at one time expressed by a few individuals in that section.

REPUBLICAN CONTESTS.

The Republicans are in fact more liable to have a fight over national delegates than the Democrats, for there are some rumors afloat as to prospective delegates that will set the fur flying. If they prove true. For example, it is said that General Otis and ex-Governor Gage are both desirous of representing their section of the State, and if this should become an issue at the polls, no more bitter fight could be planned than the one that will take place between their respective followers.

It is also whispered around town that Ruef is going to take a hand on the proposition of M. H. de Young going as a delegate from San Francisco. Ruef is extremely bitter over the part played by the Chronicle in the recent contest, and it is offering gall and wormwood to him to discuss the subject of what he expected in that quarter.

In the interior many names are being mentioned as candidates for the honor of voting for Roosevelt's nomination, it being a foregone conclusion that the delegates from California will be instructed that way. It will not be long therefore ere the politicians will be shedding their recently-donned coats for another fight, for May's primary will soon get around and will be quickly succeeded by the national campaign, into which will be dovetailed the Congressional fights and the legislative contests that lead up to the election of our other United States Senator.

SETTLEMENT OF NEVER RECOGNISE STRIKE.

MINES OF NORTHERN COLORADO TO RESUME MONDAY MORNING.

LOUISVILLE, Colo., November 14.—Representatives of the miners of the northern coal district and the operators reached a satisfactory conclusion at an early hour this morning after being in conference for nine hours, and in consequence the mines will, beyond doubt, resume operations Monday morning. The matter will have to be referred to the various unions of the district for a referendum vote tonight and the vote will be counted Monday. It is believed that the agreement will be ratified with practical unanimity.

President Struby, of the Northern Coal and Coke Company, acted as chairman of the meeting and made the following proposition: "To settle the existing strike in the Northern Lignite field, the operators on that field offer to resume work on an eight-hour basis, with the understanding that if the miners lose the present strike against the principal operators in the Southern Colorado field, or if said operators shall not accept an eight-hour basis, the miners go back to the hours prevailing before the strike."

He also announced the wage scale which the Northern Coal and Coke Company was willing to pay, and which was an increase of about 10 per cent. After a secret consultation the miners made a counter proposition, the principal difference being in the price for mining the coal in veins of different thickness.

The final result was the acceptance of the miners' proposition by the operators practically as presented. It is said that the change will necessitate an increase in the price of lignite coal.

FAILURE OF TOBACCO FIRM CAUSES EXCITEMENT.

NEW YORK, November 14.—As an outcome of the failure of Sutter Brothers, importers, packers and dealers in leaf tobacco in Chicago and this city, the wholesale tobacco district embracing several blocks in lower Manhattan, has been excited by the refusal of local banks and several out-of-town institutions to extend them credit.

As most of the Sutter liabilities, running close to $3,000,000 was in money due to local firms, tobacco raisers in the South and the colonies quickly asked that they accounts here be settled immediately.

When banks were visited in the hope of securing funds on promissory notes and accommodation paper to meet these demands, it is said the would-be borrowers found it a hard matter to negotiate loans. As a consequence, business in the tobacco district suddenly experienced a great contraction, but no serious results are yet apprehended.

STRIKE CAUSES SHUT-DOWN.

CHICAGO, November 14.—As a consequence of the general reduction of wages in the iron trades, the mills of the Inland Steel Company, the chief industry at Indiana Harbor, Ind., closed last night for an indefinite period. The immediate cause of the shut-down was the strike at midnight of 350 members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron Workers. The strike was ordered by the leaders of the union because the company sought to cut wages to the level recently established in most of the plants of the American Sheet Steel Company. The Inland Company employed 900 men.

SO SAYS COLOMBIA OF THE NEW GOVERNMENT OF PANAMA.

NEW YORK, November 14.—Cabling from Panama, the correspondent of the Herald says direct communication has been re-established with Bogota, capital of Colombia. He forwarded the following dispatch sent from that city under date of November 10:

"Acting President Jorge Holguin said today that Colombia never will recognize the independence of Panama. 'My government will exhaust its last drop of blood and its last cent in putting down the rebellion,' he said. 'I wish to make the announcement to the world that we will not submit to isthmian independence.'"

General Rafael Reyes, who has been appointed Generalissimo-in-Chief of Colombia's fighting force and who left today for the Coast, has a large and well equipped army. He announces that he had left behind a force of 100,000 men ready for any emergency.

All departments and parties have promised unconditional support and financial aid to the government. The people are furious over the revolution. Bogota continues in a state of siege, but the United States legation is well protected.

It is asserted in Bogota that the isthmian movement is not unanimous. The government declares that it has assurances from the interior provinces of Panama that they are not in sympathy with the rebellion and can be relied upon to assist in putting down the rebellion.

The Colombia government and the people are satisfied that patriotic sentiments will prevail and before long "the isthmus will realize the error of its course and will return to the mother country before Colombian blood shall flow in torrents."

From reports received here, the government is counting on the sincere sympathy of all the South and Central American republics.

ANOTHER RAIL WAY FOR CHINA.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The new Belgian concession for a railway from Kai Fong Foo to Ho Van, contracts for which have just been announced, provides for an issue of $5,000,000 of 5 per cent stock at 90, according to a Times dispatch from Shanghai. The amount can be increased hereafter to meet requirements. The Belgians acquire a railway traversing the region of the Yellow River, in which a British syndicate obtained in 1898 important mining rights, since persistently blocked by the obstructive tactics of the Chinese government.

Within a year, says the correspondent, Russian and Belgian have obtained two railway concessions in this region, which the Pekin syndicate continues its fruitless efforts to obtain the advantages demanded and secured by Great Britain five years ago as compensation for China's breach of faith in the Luan affair.

ENGAGEMENT. At an enjoyable dinner given this week at her home on Fourteenth street, Mrs. E. C. Farnham formally announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Elma C. Farnham to Clifton I. Roll, a successful young business man. Miss Farnham is beautiful and accomplished and very popular in social circles about the bay. She is a graduate of Miss Murlson's exclusive school in San Francisco.

POPE PIUS X IS IN GOOD HEALTH.

In spite of the mystery which usually obscures the truth concerning the health of those in high places, the above photograph, recently taken, of the supreme pontiff, seated on his throne of state in the Vatican, speaks eloquently of his complete recovery from the indisposition which so alarmed his friends.

CLAIMS HE WAS IN JAIL.

GEORGE CARTHEW WILL USE PRISON RECORDS FOR HIS ALIBI.

George Carthew, will depend on the prison records of the jails in the various interior towns of the State to prove an alibi for him in the matter of the charge made against him by his would-be nemesis, Ericson. Carthew is declared by Ericson to be a defaulting bank clerk, who by means of clever forgeries swindled a New York bank out of $100,000, which it is said he squandered on a noted beauty of the eastern city.

Carthew says that Ericson is wrong and in order to prove this stated this morning that he had done time in the Oakland jail where he is at present confined. In 1899, that same year he was in jail in Santa Cruz. The officers at Sacramento, he says, can swear that he was there. While he also claims that he was a trusty at Stockton and also at Modesto and that at Hollister he was the sole prisoner there at the time he was confined.

His hobo nom de plume is William Henry Davis and he says that it is under this name that he was sentenced to long and short terms in the different county institutions in which he has been incarcerated. Ericson is positive that Carthew is the man wanted in New York. Carthew says that at the time Ericson says he was in New York he was on this coast.

The prisoner hardly looks like a man who has squandered a fortune in the pursuit of a sentiment. He has an education, however, and uses unusual words that sound oddly coming from a professional tramp. His claim that he did time in the County Jail here in 1899, however, is not borne out by the record as no such name appears on the record at the time he says it should.

Ericson is very secretive about the affair. He says that there is a $5000 reward out for the man and that it is he is right he wants the money. He is now in communication with the State and hopes that before Carthew's thirty days' sentence is over there will be papers here to take him to New York.

WILL PROSECUTE ELECTION FRAUDS IN DENVER.

DENVER, Colo., November 14.—Attorney Lindsey will be waited upon by a committee of three from the Honest Election League and will be asked to deputize an attorney whom they will name to act with and for him in the prosecution of election frauds. The committee has cases against six persons involved in the frauds of the last two elections. A satisfactory answer will be asked. If it is not forthcoming it is understood that a committee of 100 citizens will call upon the District Attorney in a body and demand to know why he refused to take up the matter of election frauds.

HEAVY LIQUIDATION IN U. S. STEEL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The heavy liquidation in United States Steel stocks, followed by a similar movement in Pennsylvania, have been the dominating influences in the week's stock market. The selling of the steel is attributed to fears of a coming period of severe trade depression in that industry. The large interest of the Pennsylvania system in steel traffic has made that a contributing cause in the weakness of that stock so. Depression of the coal trade is an added assurance of security in the money outlook.

NEGRO ACQUITTED OF ASSAULT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Edward Green, a Mount Vernon negro, arrested a few days ago on the charge of having attempted to rob and assault a young white woman employed as secretary by former State Senator J. N. Miller, has been acquitted.

Green was threatened with lynching by the people of Bronxville Wednesday night after the girl had positively identified him as her assailant. Now, the citizens are thankful that they waited until the case was tried.

Mayor Pliske and members of his family testified that Green was at his house on a political mission at the hour the assault occurred.

TRAINS CAUSED INSANITY.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Mrs. Neszie Vassini, 40 years of age, who lived until four months ago in an interior town of Russia and had never seen anything propelled by steam or electricity, has become insane because of the noise made by elevated trains passing the home of her daughter with whom she lived. She began to complain a fortnight ago and finally covered her ears and screamed wildly when a train passed. At last, she attempted to leap from the window to escape the tormentors and was taken to a hospital.

GREAT PAINTER PISSARRO DEAD.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Camille Pissarro, the Impressionist painter, is dead after an operation necessitated by a complaint of the bladder, says a Herald dispatch from Paris. He was born at St. Thomas, D. V. I., seventy-three years ago and ranked high in his art.

NEWS FROM BERKELEY AND THE STATE UNIVERSITY

CHILD GAVE A WARNING BEFORE ACCIDENT. MANY MILES OF FIRE HOUSE WILL BE MODEL. UNITARIANS ARE PROSPEROUS. COLLEGE EDITOR MAY BE CALLED TO TIME.

Mrs. W. K. Weir Who Was Killed, Sought to Have Gerald Hampton Accompany Her

BERKELEY, November 14.—The tragic death of Mrs. William K. Weir, the wife of the representative of the Board of Education from the first ward, and prominent business man of Oakland, which occurred yesterday afternoon at the intersection of Center street and Shattuck avenue, when she was run down and killed by the Berkeley local train is still the topic of sorrowful discussion in the homes of the college town. The shocking accident was witnessed by hundreds of persons about Berkeley station who were waiting to take the train and many who witnessed the carrying of the dying woman to the vacant store at 2138 Center street where she received immediate medical attention of Dr. W. W. Allen. By a strange coincidence, Dr. Allen is president of the Board of which Mr. Weir is a member.

According to the story told by Gerald Hampton, the eleven-year-old son of Leo F. Hampton of 2005 Lincoln street, Mrs. Weir walked across the track although he entreated her not to. It seems that Mrs. Weir met the child as she came out of the Berkeley Public Library for the purpose of taking the train to her home in North Berkeley. They walked along the west side of Shattuck avenue, and as they neared Center street she said to him: "Come on."

The boy replied that the train was too close and shrunk back. Mrs. Weir then pressed forward and went to her death.

Expressions of condolence were heard last night at the regular meeting of Berkeley Lodge, No. 258, P. and A. M., of which Mrs. Weir is a member. After tributes had been paid to the memory of the deceased and words of sympathy spoken for the bereaved husband and children, the following resolution was passed: "That the secretary be requested to send written condolence to Brother William K. Weir and family, expressing the deep sympathy that the members of Berkeley Lodge feel both as a body and individuals."

Mr. Weir was notified of the death of his wife by members of his lodge who went to his place of business in Oakland. He was overcome with grief. Miss Weir heard at the High School where she is a student, that somebody had been killed, but did not learn that it was her mother until she had reached the office of Dr. J. A. D. Hutton where she was taken by her friends.

Robert Weir, the son, was located with a Southern Pacific surveying party between Pescadero and La Honda. A messenger was sent out from the former place today.

The remains were first taken to the branch morgue yesterday afternoon and then removed to the family residence, scenic avenue near Cedar street. The time of the funeral has not been set as yet.

ENGINEER HUGGINS HAS A MARKABLE REPORT FOR THE TOWN TRUSTEES.

BERKELEY, November 14.—A report that Town Engineer Charles Huggins is preparing to submit at the next meeting of the Town Board of Trustees will show that there are sixty-five miles of macadamized streets in Berkeley. This is considered to be remarkable for a city that has been incorporated for a comparatively short time, and especially so for a municipality with a population bordering on 20,000 inhabitants.

The report will be a detailed one, giving not only the number of miles of improved thoroughfares, but the total length of the sewers that have been laid. The clerical force of the engineer's office is now at work on the report, which will be quite exhaustive, containing a resume of the work that has been accomplished in civic improvement during the past few years.

WRITES FOOTBALL POEM ON WEATHER.

BERKELEY, November 14.—A clever football poem, entitled "To the Weather Gods," has been written by Arthur L. Price, editor of the "Oakland Tribune," and is as follows:

Oh, you flagrant, misanthropic coterie of careless gods, Because you have no football team you think it makes no odds If you spend the afternoon with the ladies While the rain destroys our prospects and our god of Victory nods.

There's a time for lunar sea fights and a time to earn one's pay, And the first alternative, it seems, comes after Saturday.

Yet you don't roar like tigers and tuckers like a set of trap-school muckers With gross contempt for goal-kicks and the end-run sort of play.

Oh, you row you had assuredly that Heaven's dam would hold, But suddenly the waters rose and quite destroyed the dam of old.

Well—if Heaven's dam is broken, we've the auditory taken Those earthly deities we've sent to you should clearly mend the old!

NORTH BERKELEY VOLUNTEERS ARE TO HAVE AN UP-TO-DATE STRUCTURE.

BERKELEY, November 14.—Work is to be commenced next week on the North Berkeley fire house, that is expected to be the finest structure of its kind in the city. The plans were drawn incorporating the best features of the finest fire houses about the bay states.

All the time saving devices that could be devised in the arrangement of the structure have been incorporated in the plans.

The building will cover practically all of the lot, which is 30x100 feet in dimensions. A hall will be built to the upper floor, which will also contain sleeping and bathing rooms for the firemen. Every comfort that can be thought of will be provided for the members of the company. While they are at a fire an ample hot water heater will all a huge boiler with hot water. There will be individual lockers in abundance that a supply of dry clothing may be kept by each member.

On the lower floor there will be four stalls for the horses at a spacious room for the hook and ladder and hose wagon of the company. The large alarm bell owned by the company will be erected on a tower to be built at the rear of the fire house. There is some talk of having the bell connected with a tower, but this is hardly probable now that a small tapper is to be placed in Squire's drug store. The bell was ordered to be placed on the site on account of the fact that there is no regular provision for maintaining a watch at the fire house.

REPORTS ARE RECEIVED AT THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CONGREGATION.

BERKELEY, November 14.—The annual meeting of the congregation of the First Unitarian Church, held last evening in the church parlors, showed the organization to be in an unusually prosperous condition both socially and financially. At 10 o'clock, after the business session had been adjourned, refreshments were served.

The election of trustees resulted in the selection of the following: William H. Payson, chairman; S. N. Wyckoff, Professor William Carey Jones, Professor Frank Soule, W. J. Trott, George W. Haight and Gifford, H. G. McGrew, secretary and treasurer.

Reports of the church work were given by Rev. E. L. Hosmer, the pastor; Mrs. W. B. Seabury, president of the Women's Auxiliary; W. C. Fyfe, Sunday School superintendent; Warner Brown, President of the Channing Club and G. H. G. McGrew, secretary and treasurer.

Scores Members of the University Faculty Who Did not Attend the Football Rally.

BERKELEY, November 14.—From present indications Editor Richard O'Connor, who directs the "Daily Californian," the student paper at the University of California, will have a good many explanations to make to the governing powers of the college before he receives his degree. His action in writing scathing editorials criticizing the faculty in several instances has been so vigorous that some of the collegians believe O'Connor has been very daring in paying his respects to the faculty of late, but as there is always a great portion of accuracy in his "raucous" he has always escaped punishment.

In this morning's issue of the paper O'Connor has a sarcastic editorial, scoring the faculty to attend the university meeting, Friday, as was their duty. There are two hundred men in the teaching staff of the University and only seventeen of them attended the meeting. This was the tip for O'Connor to pay his respects to the administration. He says under the caption of "High Horse."

"Not counting President Wheeler, there were just seventeen faculty men at the University meeting yesterday. There are nearly two hundred men in the faculty, so the sick list must be very high at present, in the academic ranks. A good many of the undergraduates had a higher fever yesterday, yet they were able to turn out to attend the meeting in large numbers."

HE DIDN'T ASK THE AUTHORITIES.

BERKELEY, November 14.—J. J. Sorenson has been arrested at the instance of Superintendent of Streets Turner who has charged him with violating the law prohibiting the laying of cement sidewalks without first securing permission of the town officials. Sorenson is said to have laid the walk on Harmon street near Sacramento.

NEW BAND IS NOW FULLY ORGANIZED.

BERKELEY, November 14.—The work of organizing a band that is to give a series of open-air concerts about Berkeley station next season has been accomplished. There is now a total of twenty-five members who are already practicing concert music.

The instrumentalists of the organization are E. C. Fiedler, E. L. Butler, J. S. Bachelor, Charles Calhoun, P. L. Dutton, A. De Renier, L. J. Furey, George Gelder, B. Isgrig, J. H. Irving, T. R. Landborough, M. Lincoln, A. Pindner, O. J. Preston, A. A. Seldner, E. Schwartz, E. C. Souder, King Sweeney, A. C. Shull, W. B. Wells, F. A. Marcebo, and Messrs. White, Alpers, Batten and H. Sweeney.

WHEELER WILL BE WITH THE ROOTERS.

BERKELEY, November 14.—The College Town is practically deserted today several thousands of people having left on the morning trains for the football game. A special train took the rooters to the foot of Market street.

NOTED EDUCATOR READY TO LECTURE.

BERKELEY, November 14.—The first lecture to be delivered at the University of California by Professor Joseph Jastrow, the celebrated psychologist of the University of Wisconsin, will be delivered next Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock in room 1 of the Philosophy building.

The topic of the address, which will be the first of a series of three discourses on "Illustrations of Psychology," will be "Acquisition and Expression."

STEAMER STILL UNREPORTED.

SEATTLE, Wash., November 14.—The Norse steamer Discovery is still unreported. Steamer City of Seattle arrived last night from Lynn Canal but she says nothing of the overdue vessel. The Discovery was last sighted October 28 off Yakutat. She has about forty passengers.

HAYWARDS, SAN LEANDRO, EMERYVILLE, FRUITVALE, GOLDEN GATE

TO HEAT HALL BY STEAM.

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT IS PLANNED AT EMERYVILLE.

EMERYVILLE, November 14.—Extensive improvements to the Town Hall are contemplated in the near future, the most important of which will be the installation of an up-to-date heating system. The committee of three appointed at the meeting of the Board of Trustees last Monday evening has investigated the feasibility of the project and has come to the conclusion that there should be a furnace set up in the basement of the hall and the building heated by means of steam. Full reports on their findings will be made by the committee at the Board meeting Monday evening.

The proposition is in line with other municipal improvements recently made in Emeryville, including the street repair work and additional electric light service.

THE STORK'S VISIT.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Magnusson are the proud parents of a baby boy. The new arrival came last Monday.

LOCAL SPORTS ARE GLAD.

There was no talk but race talk, and no news but horse news in Emeryville this forenoon. Extra cars were run by the Transit Company to accommodate the Oakland and San Francisco track followers, and Park avenue was busier than for many a long day. Local sports in spite of the inclement weather bore glad smiles on their faces on this "opening day."

RAN SPECIAL CARS.

To accommodate the three hundred odd rooters from the University of California, the transit company ran special cars to the fair grounds on Saturday to victory day, the San Francisco, Oakland and San Jose management put five extra coaches on to this morning's "football train."

"Well, M. L. and O. has dropped six points more—I've lost everything! But I'll have me a good time. Yes, I'll confound it! I can't afford you now," Brooklyn Life.

VISITED BOARD OF TRADE.

WORLD'S FAIR COMMISSIONERS ATTEND MEETING IN HAYWARDS.

HAYWARDS, November 14.—President Theodore Gier, Secretary W. J. Hopkins and Collector Craigie, Sharp, of the Alameda World's Fair Commission, were present at the last meeting of the local Board of Trade. They told what had been planned in regard to the county's exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition, and asked for the assistance of Haywards in the movement.

A letter was received from the State University asking the Board to plan a farmers' institute to be held in Haywards in the near future. A committee consisting of Thomas Russell, W. J. Ramage and O. M. Buch was appointed to arrange for the meeting.

The secretary said that he had not yet communicated with the proprietors of any straw board factories, and so was unable to report on the advisability or the chances of securing such a plant for Haywards.

George Oakes, editor and proprietor of the Haywards Journal, announced to the Board that he was preparing a special New Year's edition of his weekly paper. It would contain much interesting matter in regard to the fruit, flower, stock-raising and other industries of the township. The Board will probably purchase many copies to send East.

It was decided to give up the quarters on Castro street and to meet hereafter in the town hall.

CHURCH SERVICES.

Congregational church services on Sunday will be conducted by the pastor, who will preach on "The Making of a Christian," and in the evening on "Home Signs of the Times." All are cordially invited.

Rev. Dr. Dille of Oakland will lecture in the Methodist church November 27th on "London, the World's Metropolis."

The annual bazaar, which is to be given by the ladies of the Congregational church on Tuesday, December 1st, promises to be the most successful yet held. Next week will be published the program, which is to be rendered that evening.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church gave a pleasant reception in FRUITVALE WOODMEN START CAMPAIGN FOR NEW MEMBERS.

LADIES' GUILD TO MEET.

FRUITVALE, November 14.—The bad weather kept many away that otherwise might have attended the increase meeting held in the Masonic hall Thursday evening, by the Fruitvale lodge, Woodmen of the World. Camp Commander Jenkins acted as chairman of the evening and introduced the principal speaker, Commander Falkenberg of Denver, who delivered an address on the subject of "The Future of the Order." He urged the members to increase the roll of the lodge. Mr. Falkenberg is spending some time in Oakland with his wife, who is in poor health.

A brief program was carried out, including a piano solo by Miss Harwood and selections by the Boys' Mandolin Club. Refreshments were then served.

Clark E. Hunt was chairman of the general arrangements committee and H. Pennerman had charge of the refreshments.

LADIES' GUILD TO MEET.

The Ladies' Guild of the Congregational church will have a meeting on Monday afternoon in the chapel on Fruitvale avenue to make the final arrangements for the bazaar to be held next week.

THE NEW BOULEVARD.

The rights of way for the scenic boulevard from High street to Haywards are reported to be signed up for fourteen miles.

T. B. Parsons, of Castro Valley, A. Cary of San Leandro and E. C. Prather, county surveyor, the commissioners having the matter in charge, are nearly ready to make a report to the Board of Supervisors. They estimate that the boulevard will cost from $200,000 to $250,000, and will require three years' work. The bazaar, it is expected, will be made next spring.

Modern Girl and Her Evening Coiffure

Beauty and sentiment are both symbolized in the new fashionable garnitures of fruit and flowers with which the modern girl adorns her evening coiffure. All fruits and flowers are models for this purpose, and it is in easy matter to keep these garnitures within the limits of perfect taste and individual choice. The autumn clusters of the purple grape are wonderfully effective, both for hair and carriage. With the flowing effects now in vogue the wreath of vine and drooping fruit is particularly appropriate. A chaplet of plums with leaves and twigs may be the unconventional headpiece of a beautiful woman who likes to do something out of the ordinary. It must be stately beauty, however, with perfect features who attempts the odd conceits in garniture of fruit or flowers—the brunette with deep rose in her cheeks, brilliant eyes, and a crown of glistening tresses—the gorgeous dame of fashion. The pretty blonde with soft color and an oval face should wear a flat wreath of ivy or of autumnal leaves. Brilliant red berries and brownish leaves also make a charming decoration for gown, corsage and hair. Poppies magnify the charms of the dazzling brunette beauty, while her less favored sister may even make herself a picture if she wears a crown of white gown with a cluster of poppies in her hair and another in her bodice. The white poppy, with flowers and drooping buds, should be chosen by the golden-haired blonde, too much gorgeousness of color not being suited to this type of beauty. The "nut-brown mayde" cannot do better than choose the scarlet geranium for her floral scheme. The cream-skinned, red-lipped brunette may also use this flower. Other flowers for the brunette are the scarlet lobelia, the purple and lavender and golden browns of the pansy. Pansies show most effectively when fashioned into a wreath. The wreath best befits a stately beauty, and the cluster of flowers the maid who is petite. After setting contrast in color between the flowers, the hair and the complexion, the beauty seeker must study her own style before attempting floral garniture. In hairdressing a long face should have the hair over the ears, a flower in this case may be worn just back of the ears, or, if the wreath is preferred, it may be a small one around the back hair. With a wide face, a high and broad coiffure is desirable; therefore a bunch of flowers or a rose nestling among the fluffiness on the crown is better than a wreath. Flowers may be chosen with regard to their meaning and be made a matter of sentiment. A little dash of violet water will perfume the hair and not hurt it.

At Sandringham Chapel.

One of the queer customs in vogue at Sandringham, the favorite country house of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, has to do with Sunday church service. It is an understood thing that unlucky thirteen must be the minutes of the reverend gentleman's discourse. No preacher is expected to preach longer than thirteen minutes. The habits understand and rarely pass the limit. The men who from time to time step fresh into the greatness of sermonizing to King Edward are always duly informed of the restriction, and stop at near the thirteenth minute as they can.

Another point of etiquette in the king's home church is that the clergyman always speaks in the direction of the lower left hand corner of the TWO—DEPT PADS AND FANCIES little building. The acoustic properties of the church are such that owing to her deafness the queen can hear what is said only when the speaker looks neither to the right nor to the left, but into that particular corner.

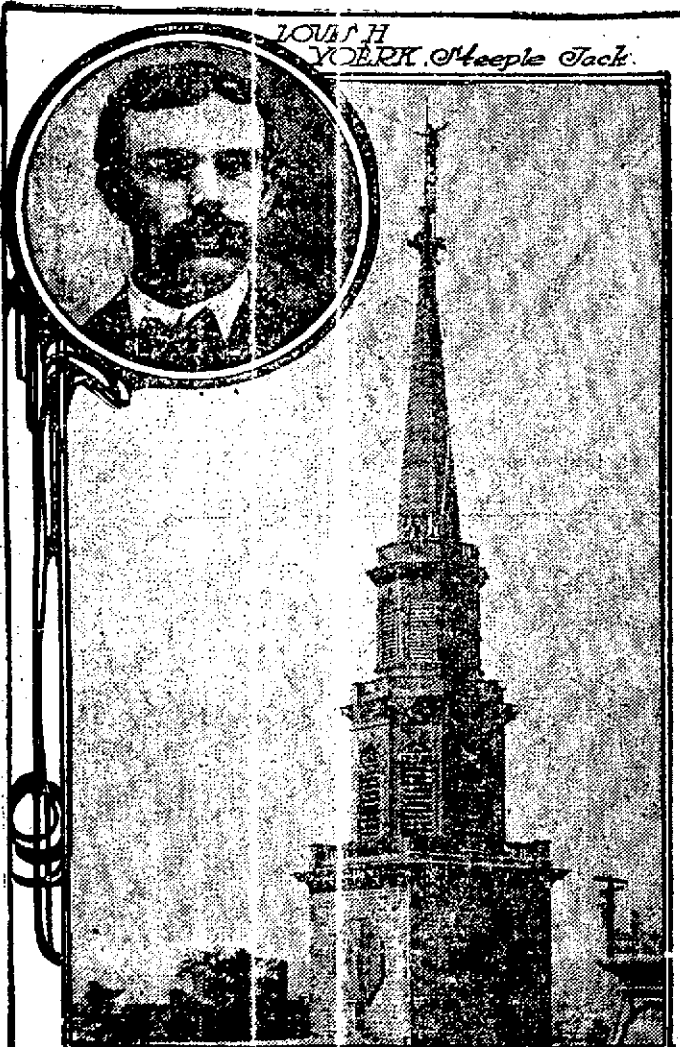

Yet another oddity connected with Sandringham house is that of the festivities attending the departure of guests. Every man and woman who has been invited down to Norfolk on a visit to the king and queen is weighed by either the King or Prince of Wales before leaving. This is the parting function on the morning of departure. Each guest's weight and a description of his or her dress is set down in a book kept for that special purpose. No one knows the origin of this queer custom, but the king began to practice it years ago as Prince of Wales, and keeps it up as King.

FOR THE TABLE.

Cut-glass, silver and fine china candlesticks and candelabra rival one another in beauty of design for use upon up-to-date tables, and in the new styles of old beaten silver they are particularly popular. The lights are shaded with red, pink or light green shades in preference to any other tints. The dainty flower or feathery shades must have beautiful fringes. One style has V-shaped pupils of strings of glass beads, shaded with red, pink or light green shades in preference to any other tints. Other popular table shades are empire designs painted on a stiff paper, and paneled with gold applied over the edges of the design and on the borders.

He Is Champion Climber

Yeerk Jack YEERK on top of Spire of St. Paul's Church, Newark.

Louis Yeerk, known as the most expert climber around New York, has nerves of steel. He scales steeples by means of a rope and a boatman's chair, but scorns scaffolding of any sort. In his mode of ascent he suggests the Indian fakir, who climbs up a cord after throwing the ball into the air. Yeerk has yet to meet with accident.

Lost Life Trying to Climb Rock.

It is the ambition of students at Yale, and of many others who visit the beautiful but dangerous West Rock, to try to climb it. Tendency such as cost young Sherman his life, a few days ago, has already resulted in a score of fatalities, exclusive of suicides. Mrs. Peck is the latest victim.

Professor Markham at Home.

The current number of Good Housekeeping contains an entertaining article regarding the home life of Edward Markham, which cannot fail to be especially interesting to Oakland people, who for so many years have the privilege of numbering the poet as one of themselves.

The writer of the article says that the Markham home at Westerleigh, Staten Island, is a most ground for wanderers from the far Pacific, who are always made to feel more than welcome.

The writer says in part: "Most of the poet's days are spent in hard work in his study, but on the first Sunday of each month, except during the summer vacation, whosever will may come and partake of his hospitality. These 'at homes' bring together not only a coterie of famous artists, writers and musicians, but also earnest men and women engaged in the world's humbler work. To think, to do, in some way for humanity, is the one requirement for entry here. Carlyle would never have lamented of these gatherings, as he did of the London soirees, that they were not of Persons, but of Cloth Figures. There is no suggestion of so-called Bohemianism in the Markham home, yet meaningless conventions are swept away, and it is 'man to man' in all sincerity and truth. From distant lands come men to worship at the Markham shrine: Syria, Japan, Russia, New Zealand, Mexico, England and Germany are often represented. This cosmopolitanism gives new viewpoints and stimulates conversation.

Guests roam at will all over the house. The library (though every room in the house disputes its right to that appellation, there is a so-called library) is a favorite corner, its quiet coziness, its bright airiness, making it a most inviting snugness. At place for the poet's dreaming. A large redaction of Savonarola, a Curran print of Shelly, in a dark oak frame, a rare engraving of Rembrandt's mother, a bust of St. John, Vedder's Dance of the Pleiades, help to create the atmosphere of beauty that Mr. Markham loves. Converse, gay or serious, according to mood, occupies the greater part of the afternoon. When it is pleasant, the outdoor lovers—some lines the whole company—go for a walk in the fields or the woods to gather flowers.

Then, presently, all assemble in the drawing room. It is Mr. Markham's plan to have some large subject discussed at these gatherings. But the hours never seem quite perfect to the company unless the master bard has given of his inspiration. It is only at urgent request that he consents to read something of his own, for Mr. Markham is modest, and dislikes to 'occupy the center of the stage,' as he expresses it. Nevertheless, he will yield to pressure. The Man with the Hoe, To Kyha, A Memory, and Lincoln, are perhaps most often called for. The poet's voice adds much to the beauty of his words, and his poems acquire a new meaning when one has heard him read them. Without being an elocutionist according to the schools, he nevertheless reads with a fire and passion, a feeling for the value of every word, to which his fine lionlike head and flashing eyes add emphasis, that thrill and inspire.

The refreshments served at the Markham receptions are of the simplest, consisting usually of coffee or lemonade and cakes, with sometimes the addition of sandwiches or hot buttered biscuit—old-fashioned American biscuit, 'such as your mother used to make.' It adds to the homeliness for the younger guests to assist the maid in the passing of the cups and plates."

Poetry That Will Please the Women

A HOUSEKEEPER'S CALLERS.

She oscillates from door to door—
You'd think 'twould make her dizzy
So many callers to receive
When she's so very busy.
First of the train the milkman comes
With noisy clang and clamor,
And while he waits the iceman bangs
The back door with his hammer.
The grocer's boy comes next, and While
She hunts the coal-oil can,
The door bell's twisted nearly off
By the crusty laundryman.
Now off again to kitchen door—
'Tis the ambulant mender,
And following closely in his wake,
The noisy scissors grinder.
At the side door stands an agent for The "Cocoon" skirt supporter—"Can't slip nor tear, nor bend nor break,
And only costs a quarter."
Once more she rushes to the front;
She hears the bread cart's gong,
And as she buys her daily loaf
The truckman comes along.
The hobo and the butcher's boy
Arrive a little later,
And at their heels the hustling, bustling Feather renovator,
Now the abandoned ironing
A lass she gets about;
The clothes are dry, the irons are cold,
The gasoline's burned out.

DISCOVERIES.

Little drops of knowledge,
Little grains of sense
Solve the mighty problem
Of the home expense.
Had the little leakage
Earlier been checked,
Then the mighty vessel
Never had been wrecked.
Thus the little trifles
Make the sum of life—
Making home an Eden
Or an endless strife.

THE CRADLE OF THE DEAD.

A mighty cradle, this world of ours,
That swings with the days and years,
With its sheets of snow and its pillow
Of flowers,
To the music of the spheres.
And it rocks the silent millions of dead
So softly they never move,
But sleep like children; and it is said
They dream a long dream of love.
—Tom Hall.

LIFE'S SEESAW.

When I first put my overcoat "in,"
And said, "I am a foolish young ass,
Old winter will bury
Let summer pass merry,
With gambols and golf on the grass.
But now I am cheerless and chill,
I am, so to speak, "up the spout."
I must, to my sorrow,
Beg, steal or borrow,
To get my warm overcoat "out."

REDEEMED.

God held a soul with in his hand one Day,
A fair young soul, with unfilled eyes
For sight,
With ears for sound attuned, with hands aching
For action, all alert to work her way.
The lips unchained, in the earth's deep speech Like bow that never shot an arrow out,
The virgin heart, thirst to be devout,
To any love that came within her reach,
God put that soul upon the world's highway—
The jostling crowd soon soiled her raiment fair;
The pious, with rude jesting, bade her play;
The unloved one of earth laughed at her prayer;
Till God, down reaching, saw her glance astray
And caught her back to rest within His care.
—Alice Cary.

AN INTERLUDE.

The band was madly playing
Some classic thing or other;
The brasses, with their braying,
The woodwinds, with their howling;
Trombone with drum disputed;
Cornets the air were rendering;
"Fortissimo," they too said,
And gave no thought to ending.

Then, all of a sudden,
With blif bang crash!
The music ceased!
And people who were telling
The news to people near them,
Discovered they were telling
The news to people near them;
While scandal most astounding
Which they had been revealing
And roasting and teasing Against the walls and ceiling.

Everyone heard it,
And coughed, blushed or sneezed
When the band stopped.
"He kissed her twice—I caught them!"
"The baron is a treat!"
"I've never seen her!"
"Since then they never speak!"
"But the old man has money!"
"The baron is a treat!"
"I've never seen her!"
"Since then they never speak!"
"But the old man has money!"
"The baron is a treat!"
"I've never seen her!"
"Since then they never speak!"
"But the old man has money!"

"He dropped it on the ice!"
"She checks at bridge, they say!"
"That fool ought to be hanged!"
"She never had a wa—"

"Why, man, she's over thirty!"
"She drinks it down like water!"
"He never pays a bill!"
"O, she's a grocer's daughter!"
"They hope to break the will!"
"Whew! isn't this a abber!"
"They're both at fault, I think!"
"I can't endure her go!"
"Come, let's get a drink!"

All in fortissimo,
And in fifty different ways,
They shouted it,
Then there was a hush,
And everybody wanted
To murder the leader,
And the band
Didn't get a hand.

—Towa Towles.

RED ROSE.

(To My Mother.)
The Lily sweeter than no living lover,
But listens for the loitering feet of Death;
The Iris has strange secrets to discover,
Rosemary some old grief remembereth,
Sir Humble-Bee has jittered Columbine, Forget-me-not's blue eyes are dim with passion, Lavender's an old maid, and out of fashion,
And Madam Tulip's gown is over fine.
Red Rose alone is royal in her giving,
And is no niggard, all her gold being spent;
She gives her color and her fragrance living,
And, being dead and dust, she gives her scent.
Red Rose, throned safe beyond all fear of treason,
Blenching no whit when rude hands
shake your tree.
In season, noble Rose, and out of season—
In life, in dreams, in death, be friend with me!
—Nora Hopper (Mrs. Chesson).

THE MORNING.

A red, red rose, the early sun
Came up, as glad as any guest;
A white, white rose whose bloom was done,
The moon did wane unto the west.
The waking fields breathed warm and stirred,
Small presences of song, half heard;
The wan stars closed against the day like flowers that fold them for their rest.
—Josephine Preston Peabody.

RAIN-DROPS.

Many sing of sunshine; I would sing of rain—
Hearken to its music here against the pane.
Hear, without, the fields shout with unfulfilled desire, Hear, within, the merry din of the open fire.
Much of good were never done
Did we always have the sun.
—Isabella Howe Fiske.

INDIAN SUMMER.

When the old dream returns
To the unnumbered hills,
When the summer's red fire burns
And shines through the mist and rain,
O heart, how comes once more
An old dream to thy door!

When for a little space
The sad world wakes again,
And golden summer's face
Smiles through the mist and rain,
O heart, how soon a song
Comes back, forgotten long!

When shines, through autumn's dark,
The vanished June's young fire,
And lighted is the spark
Of lost youth and desire,
O heart, 'tis Love come back Across the year's far track!
—Charles Hanson Towns.

A Woman Stands by Sam Parks

In the stirring labor fight now being waged in New York, Sam Parks, "happy-go-lucky" is a woman. Emma Schwartz, an East side girl, who is an admirer of the convict walking delegate, is all power and conviction among the rag sorters of New York. This girl has adopted the methods followed by Sam Parks, and now her word is law among her followers. She is aggressive, resourceful and does not know what it means to quit. She is only 18. But for her the rag sorters of New York—there are more than 3000 of them—would still be earning without protest 7 cents an hour for a working day of ten hours and a half. Emma Schwartz first came into prominence four days ago. A strike prevented the union from being formed, but she appeared among the employees by Emma Schwartz, and as walking delegate she appeared before members of the firm and protested against the rag sorters of New York. She also demanded that none but members of the Rag Sorters Union be employed. The firm would not agree to the terms laid down by the girl walking delegate, and she declared a strike three weeks ago. From that time until the present Emma Schwartz has been increasing her authority, until now she holds undivided power. The firm began filling the places of the strikers, and Emma Schwartz posted pickets around the shop to induce the new-comers to leave their work and join the union. Strikers and their friends formed in a crowd at Bowery and First street four days ago and when the new hands appeared to work they found it impossible to reach the shop. Emma Schwartz was directing affairs with the eye of a general.

Kyrle Bellew's "Raffles"

Kyrle Bellew has been very favorably received at the Princess Theatre, New York, in the new class of melodrama, which he has selected for his vehicle this season and a long run of "Raffles" is predicted.

Something New in Sheets A Skilled Horsewoman

Each season brings something new in the realm of bedding. There have been linen sheets, cambric sheets, sheets of silk and sheets embroidered and lace-trimmed. This year marks the introduction of cashmere sheets. Cashmere sheets are treasures that fill a woman's heart with delight. If she has her mono-rail worked on them in silk, there is little more to be desired. Bed linen has not been ousted, but cashmere holds a place of its own in household economy. The fastidious traveler is given to cashmere sheets, and they are used in stopping at hotels, where there is a possibility that the bedding may be damp. They are used on yachts, where they are welcome as a protection from cold as well as dampness. There are home-staying people who use them in winter, and still others who believe in them the year through. They have none of the objectionable qualities of flannel. There is a regular sheeting in cashmere costing from $2.50 a yard for the lowest priced in the natural color, to $4.50 for the finest white cashmere. The finest ready-made sheet cost $14.50 in the white, and $15 for the best in the natural color. They come in different sizes. The sheeting is in different widths.

Just before the late afternoon train from New York reached Morristown, N. J., last week, when the station was surrounded by carriages and automobiles of the fashionable residents, Miss Anna Elizabeth Kip, daughter of Charles A. Kip, a millionaire, had a narrow escape from serious injury in a runaway. She won much praise by stopping a team of spirited horses after the coachman had failed to do it. Her skill as a horsewoman had been established since she was a child, but Saturday's exhibition was remarkable.

Miss Kip was riding to the station to meet her father. As the train turned Pine street the horses were frightened by a whizzing automobile. They bolted and at once got beyond the control of the driver. The streets were filled with vehicles, and as the maddened horses approached a group of carriages in front of a house Miss Kip climbed to the driver's box and seized the reins. She pulled sharply to the right. The horses swerved into the curb and the shock of the sudden jerk brought them to a standstill. Many persons who had driven by ran in the direction taken by the runaway team were present to congratulate Miss Kip on her presence of mind and bravery.

IN RELIGIOUS FIELDS.

PULPIT ANNOUNCEMENTS MADE BY MINISTERS FOR TOMORROW.

One of our exchanges writes on what is called "The Mirimum Christian," and defines him as "the man who is going to heaven at the cheapest possible rate." But the writer forgets: for isn't the correct thing any more—in the minds of some—to write or talk about going to heaven. Heaven, we are told, is here, and if a man isn't in heaven here he never will be hereafter. There is truth in this of course. And there is truth also in the oft-heard statement nowadays that religion is to prepare us for life in this world, and that true religion is more concerned with relieving the needs and sufferings of men and women here below than with mansions on beyond. But there is danger in the great emphasis which is laid on this truth sometimes. There is a life beyond, and it is closely and inseparably linked with this life, notwithstanding the fact that some people live as if there were not; or, if there were, as if their condition hereafter is not to be determined by their lives here. It is well enough to say that Christ came to save the world, the wreck of the world, to save a few souls out of the wreck; but it should not be forgotten that the wreck is not saved yet, and that there are souls in it who if they are to be saved at all, must be saved out of it. The flood of years bears all swiftly on to those shores from whence non-return, and no one can have too much "other-worldliness."—The Pacific.

Hallowe'en has come to be an immovable feast on the calendar of student celebrations, and from the nature of the frolics affected in the majority of instances, noted by the papers, a pretty fair idea may be formed of the peculiar notions of propriety, not to say morality, that prevail in the institutions where moral culture is liberally eliminated as a useful branch of education. To pass over the "pajama party," in which the youth of our State University signified the festivities this year. Aside from the questionable taste of appearing in a mixed company arrayed in night apparel, the celebration at Berkeley seems to have been otherwise innocuous, as such performances go. Rowdiness of a very pronounced type is the predominant note of diverse other collegiate frolics brought to public notice through the press.

A sample of the sort of thing deemed appropriate to such occasions may be found in the description of an affair arranged by the "young lady students" of the University of Minnesota. It was told in a dispatch from Columbia that the co-eds of that institution "put conventionalities aside, and with winks that amazed the staid college authorities held 'discotheques' with all the usual concomitants except the Oriental dance." We are told also that the wives of the young professors participated, several appearing as freaks in the side-shows. The elevated scholastic entertainment are supplied with reflect greater credit on the ingenuity of the "young lady students" than on their conception of maidenly deportment.—The Monitor.

A good recipe for contentment in this day of overwork, great excitement and pharisaical exaction, on diet, is don't hurry. Don't worry, sleep well, and eat without thinking whether this or that will be hurtful, but rather that both alike may be conducive to health. Eat what is set before you and ask no questions, not for health, but conscience's sake.

At their recent joint meeting in St. Louis, the committees of the Northern Presbyterian and Cumberland Presbyterian churches made a fair start toward union. It was agreed that the revision of the Presbyterian Confession and the new creed remove all doctrinal difficulties, although the Cumberland Presbyterian will want assurance that adhesion to their own creed will not subject them to any charge of heresy.

The Hospital is the name of a high class practical monthly published in London. Recently, through commissioners, it has been investigating and comparing the lay nursing in Paris with the nursing carried on in England by the Sisters of Mercy.

In Paris, since 1878 there have been no nuns in the hospitals except at the Hotel Dieu—the mother home of the nursing establishments—and the great St. Louis hospital. "The Hospital" is convinced that the banishment of the nuns led to improvement. At present, it points out, the state of affairs is far from satisfactory. Certificates, it is true, are insisted upon by the municipality before the nurses can be promoted, but these are often granted at the end of a single year and can be earned by a nurse in the words of a woman who studies in the same house and has never seen a patient, their value is obviously small and their nursing a source of serious danger to the public. Contrasting this system with that which prevails in the Hospital of St. John, St. Elizabeth in London, the "Hospital" feels bound to acknowledge that the advantage lies with the nun who has received hospital training rather than with the half-trained but certificated French lay nurse. This is valuable testimony to the devoted service rendered by the nuns to the sick.—New York World.

WHAT THE THEATERS OFFER NEXT WEEK.

Florence Roberts at the Macdonough—
Idora Park and Dewey Offer
New Programmes.

"The Unwelcome Mrs. Hatch" which Florence Roberts will present at the Macdonough Theatre tonight is by far the strongest, most artistic and generally most acceptable play that this brilliant artist has ever produced. A drama better suited to her own style of work could hardly be imagined. Every chance is given her to portray very heavy emotional acting as well as picture all the noblest traits of womanhood. The artistic quality dominates the entire performance and there are no false climaxes or forced situations. It is just what the public wants, a clean, wholesome story, full of human interest, affording Miss Roberts and her splendid company full scope for their magnificent talents.

MUSICAL COMEDY AT THE MACDONOUGH.

Nowdays when musical comedy is all the rage, it is all the public care to see. But they demand that it shall be first class and up-to-date. In the farce, "Looking for a Wife," which will be seen tomorrow and Monday nights at the Macdonough, we will have a company of the first class. This pleasing comedy is said to be one of the hits of the season. It comes to our city with a company of twenty-five people, including some of the best comedians now on the stage. No expense has been spared by the management to make everything complete in every particular. All special scenery is carried, and each act is put on correct in every detail. The musical numbers are said to be far above the average and include the very latest metropolitan successes. The songs are new and the dances catchy and pleasing. Special Sunday prices prevail, the entire lower floor is 75c a seat and the entire balcony 50 cents a seat while the gallery remains as usual, 25 cents.

HAVERLY'S MINSTRELS BOOKED FOR OAKLAND.

Haverly's Mastodon Minstrels, which comes to the Macdonough Theatre next Saturday and Sunday, November 21 and 22 carries more scenery than any other similar organization on the road. The first part setting bids fair to eclipse anything of its kind ever attempted before with this kind of an organization, and is by Moses and Hamilton, the well-known New York artists. The scene is taken from the Louisiana Purchase Exposition to be held in St. Louis this fall, a new departure with mechanical lighting effects of an indescribable nature. When the drop curtain ascends, a picture of unique beauty strikes the eye; the auditor forgets the stage and only sees the effect in general. The color scheme has been so arranged in conjunction with the mechanical part of the setting as to do away with anything that looks like painted scenery; a work of art the promises to become the talk of the city.

SIS HOPKINS IS BOOKED FOR HERE.

"Sis Hopkins" is the attraction booked for the Macdonough Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, November 23 and 24 and again will be seen that delightful character actress, Miss Rose Melville in the title role, portraying the simple country girl of Fanny Coe in central Indiana whose eyes are opened to the double dealing of the world in a most dramatic manner. For five seasons "Sis Hopkins" has swept through the country from one end to the other and has been the most successful of all rural type plays presented in the past ten years.

UNDER TWO FLAGS AT THE NEW DEWEY THEATER.

This evening will see the last presentation of "Heart and Sword" by the James Keane Company at the New Dewey Theater and there should be a full house to greet it. Tomorrow, with the matinee performance, Mr. Keane and his company will commence the second week of their four weeks' engagement in Oakland, with the dramatization of Ouida's famous novel, "Under Two Flags." The company has a large lot of special scenery for this production and the Ellsler version will be played.

"Under Two Flags" has always been popular with theatergoers all over the land. It is a striking melodrama with plenty of action and stirring climaxes. The scene showing

HE PLAYS IN "LOOKING FOR A WIFE."

FLORENCE ROBERTS AT THE MACDONOUGH.

Cigarette's ride for life is an exciting one and as produced by the Keane Company is very realistic. The closing scene, depicting the death of Cigarette at the hands of her own soldiers, is a pathetic one and there is scarcely a dry eye to be found in the house.

The story of the play centers around Bertie Cecil, a gallant young British officer, who shoulders the blame for a crime that he never committed and is self-banished from his native land. He goes to Algiers where he enlists in the French army. He proves to be a model soldier but for some reason has incurred the enmity of his superior officer who finally tries to compass his death by ordering him to be shot. Cigarette, a child of the army, is in love with Cecil and makes a long mad ride to headquarters and secures pardon for him and returns just in time to jump in front of Cecil as the guard fires and she receives the death wound.

The crime which Cecil shouldered the blame for was committed by his brother and the latter, in company with Cecil's betrothed, finally find him there and the brother makes a confession to the world. Cecil is reunited with his own people and returns to the land of his birth.

Mr. Keane takes the part of Bertie Cecil and it gives this talented young actor a splendid chance to show his ability as a romantic actor. He has the right conception of the part and his audience won't body and soul from the start. Miss Broome plays Cigarette and this character of a peculiar wayward wife, who knows no home and no friends but the soldiers, is admirably sustained by this finished actress.

"Under Two Flags" will be the attraction for one week with the usual matinee on Sunday and Saturday. The box office is open from 9 in the morning until 10 at night and seats can always be secured for one week in advance.

IDORA PARK HAS AN EXCELLENT BILL.

New faces are seen at Idora Park this week. The program for tonight, tomorrow afternoon and evening is an excellent one. Among the artists booked are:

The La Kolas, American Japs, who are the dearest jugglers in this country. The Russells, Jack and Isabelle, who came well recommended, and who promise to become very popular.

Doris Louberger, a clever singer and dancer, who will make her first appearance in Oakland.

Sue Lehman, operatic vocalist, who is without doubt the best singer that the management has secured this season.

Her strong, well-cultivated voice can not fail to make her a general favorite at Idora Park.

An excellent comedy act and new moving pictures will conclude the performance.

There will be special outdoor attractions on Sunday.

The admission to the theater is 10c and 25c. Idora Park, located on Telegraph avenue, near Fifth-seventh street. Take Telegraph avenue car.

ALTERATIONS GOING ON AT THE NOVELTY.

Col. Lubelski, manager and proprietor of the Novelty Theatre, has closed his popular play-house until about December 1 in order to make many improvements.

The alterations are now under way and when completed will make the Novelty one of the best arranged, most comfortable and up-to-date vaudeville houses in the country. No expense is being spared to accomplish this end. The work of the grand re-opening will see an array of talent seldom seen at a vaudeville house on this coast. Every artist comes direct from the East to play an engagement on the Novelty circuit, making their initial bow to a California audience at the Oakland Novelty. When the new Novelty re-opens it will seat about twice the number of people as formerly. Opera chairs will be utilized, the single enlarged, galleries put in and altogether it will be transformed into the prettiest little theatre in this vicinity or, in fact, west of Chicago.

Prosperity perches upon the Alcazar, where the business, since the advent of the singularly versatile new stock company, has been the largest in the history of the coast family play-house. Quite a number of successful plays, entirely new in stock, are to be presented in rapid succession. Next week, offering "The Club's Baby," has both New York and London prestige, but it has never been seen in San Francisco.

NEW PLAY AT THE ALCAZAR THEATER.

The Central Theatre will eclipse all its former scenic and spectacular triumphs in the gorgeous production of the famous drama of the Arctic seas, "Under the Polar Star." Elaborate preparations have been in progress for weeks, and the theater is now ready for the grand opening.

ALL ON FIRE.

An Oakland Citizen Tells How Relief Came.

Ever have Eczema? Have any itching skin disease? Itching almost drives you crazy. You feel "all on fire." Doan's Ointment brings quick relief. Cures Eczema, Itching Piles and allitchiness of the skin.

George Hoffman, groceries and general merchandise, corner of Fifth avenue and East Sixteenth street says: "A case of hemorrhoids commonly called piles came under my observation some time ago. I knew from reading the Muscatine, Iowa, papers, that city being my old home, that Doan's Ointment has been used in the vicinity amongst some of the best citizens and that the results obtained were so undoubted that I advised its use in the case referred to above. Doan's Ointment at the time was asked for at a drug store but they did not have it in stock and they sent East for it. It did its work thoroughly and well. Since then Doan's Ointment has been brought permanently before the residents of Oakland and I might add to the claims made for it that it can be depended upon to act just as represented."

For sale by all dealers; price 50 cents. Foster-McBum Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

"FAR FROM GAY CITIES."

By Adelaide Sell Baker.

John Bradley stood in front of the post-office awaiting the incoming tri-weekly mail. A handsome, well-knit young man, with that about him proclaiming the student.

"There are some ugly customers here to-night," said Judge Harvey, in a lowered tone, glancing significantly over the heads of the gathering crowd.

John Bradley's eyes followed the direction indicated, on the outer edge of the sidewalk, where "Texas" nonchalantly loitered. "Texas" was a burly, red-faced bully, who walked with a swagger, and gambled for a livelihood. From the leather belt about his waist depended a brace of pistols, and a sheath on the left proclaimed the presence of a ready blade.

"Yes," assented Mr. Bradley, "but, somehow, this sight always has a fascination for me." He pointed to the distant hills. "Look at the miners trooping into town. The trails are thick with them. They're coming from the ravine, too."

The gathering crowd was momentarily augmented by men wearing the garb of the miner, with the bright, colored flannel shirts, slouch hats, and overalls tucked in their boots. Here and there among them a prospector, who had spent the day looking for "ore" could be seen, his pick and shovel over his shoulder.

Not a woman was among them. All were intent upon watching the incoming stage, which could be seen rounding a distant curve, where Jennie Murphy came out of a nearby store.

Texas was apparently gazing into space when Jennie attempted to pass. The others made way as she approached, but Texas, with a lowering expression on his ugly face, deliberately stepped in front of her, blocking her passage. He said something intended for her ears alone, at the same time endeavoring to take her arm.

"Quit that," cried Jennie sharply. "I want nothing to do with you."

"What do you mean, you ruffian?" It was John Bradley who spoke. "Let the woman alone."

Texas gave a vicious glance from under his bushy eyebrows. "Mind your own business," said he with an oath, making again toward Jennie, who had involuntarily stepped to her protector's side.

John Bradley, who had an iron grip in those slender white hands of his, set his teeth, and with a scornful look in his dark brown eyes, stepped forward, and with a suddenness that surprised the onlookers, administered a kick which sent him into the street.

Texas quickly recovered himself. "That's a— and that's a—," he muttered, pulling his revolver with quivering certainty as he backed toward a little broncho standing unhitched on the other side of the narrow street. The beast was the property of a Mexican, who had just ridden into town, but Texas unceremoniously leaped into the saddle before the bystanders quite understood his intentions.

He had aimed with certainty, and Bradley would have fallen to the ground had it not been for the strong arms of Judge Harvey, who supported him while the men hastily improvised a litter out of a wooden bench, and in the excitement Texas cleared the town and made for the wilderness, where he managed to escape his pursuers.

Jennie Murphy, whose home was near by, insisted that the wounded man be carried there, and after a hurried consultation, his friends decided that it would be the best thing to do, for Jennie was known to have skilled ways in times of sickness.

It turned out to be a very bad case indeed, but finally, after weeks of alternate hope and despair, life triumphed.

The doctor was making his last call. He had grown fond of his patient, and had remained longer than usual giving a few parting instructions. Finally he arose. "You may not find me, but I'll be back," he said, reaching for his hat.

"I know, doctor," replied Mr. Bradley, from the depths of a big rocking chair, which had four or five years ago been the property of the doctor. "I'm so comfortable here that I almost hate to go back to my old quarters. He and three of his friends bunked together at the other end of camp in a tiny house presided over by a Chinese cook."

"I don't doubt it, Jennie is a rare nurse, as well as a good housekeeper. Indeed, yes," returned Mr. Bradley with a sigh, as he thought of how bidden good-bye just six short months before.

The doctor turned abruptly, and laid his hand on the other's shoulder. "Bradley," said he, "do you know that you owe your life to Jennie Murphy? I gave you up. Not once—but twice. She never lost heart. What had you to do with her? You were too brave to die, and all that. Mr. Bradley, I tell you that Jennie has a heart of gold. With these words the doctor left the room."

He did so, Jennie, with a smile on her lips, entered. Her coal-black hair was loosely knotted at the nape of her neck. She was simply glowing in a manner which showed to advantage the perfect proportion of her rounded figure, and her hands and feet were small. In the latter she took evident pride for they were dressed in French kid slippers with dangerously high heels.

"Well, Jennie, the doctor says I'm a well man."

"Yes, Miether Bradley, so you are, glory be to God!" Her tip-tilted nose and gray-black eyes made evident the nationality her speech betrayed.

"And, Jennie, it is all your doing. If it hadn't been for you, I'd have been over there in the cemetery with those other poor fellows, far from home and comfort."

"Don't speak of it, Mr. Bradley."

"But it's true, Jennie, and I can never repay you for all that you've done for me."

"It was nothing, Mr. Bradley—nothing," said Jennie. "You got hurted for me, and I only done the best I could to make you well."

"And, Jennie, if ever I can serve you in any way, I want you to let me know."

"Yes, Miether Bradley," The words came faintly.

John Bradley did not notice. The joy of returning strength was upon him. "Do you know," continued he, "that a carriage is to come for me in a afternoon? My friends think I've been a burden on you long enough, and they've made up their minds to take me home to-day."

A cry escaped Jennie. She put out her hands with a quick gesture. "To-day? You'll not be ather goin' to-day."

"Yes, to-day," He went over to where she stood. "Aren't you glad to get rid of me? I must have been an awful nuisance around here."

Jennie raised her eyes, and through them John Bradley came to a realization of the truth.

A sensation ensued when the wedding was announced, and the universal sentiment was that John Bradley would leave Jennie before the year was out. The man himself gave the lie to all this, but he had to run a life of comment for the rest of his life.

"What did he marry her for, anyway?" growled Judge Harvey, when the news reached the group of legal lights seated in wooden arm-chairs before the tumble-down shanty which served as a court house.

"God knows," replied Henry Mills, impulsively. "Bradley's cooked his goose, fast enough. I hope none of the rest of us will be such fools." This last remark attracted attention.

"I wonder if he'll write home to his mother about it?" questioned Judge Harvey.

"About his marriage—yes. But he won't be overly explicit regarding Jennie," replied Jennie Potter, whose laugh was slightly tinged with bitterness.

Jimmie came from the same home place as John Bradley, and knew about him. They had been chums together, and Jimmie told the others that John Bradley had a mother to be proud of. He was an only child, too, and bound to come into a pot of money.

"That's his name," said John Bradley. "Nope! He's gone off on one of his secret trips, and me an Uncle Sam's man, a corker old time during his absence." With studied gravity the speaker arose. Slowly crossing the room, she took up a decanter and a glass which stood on a tray near the mantel, and said, "You look tired. Have one with me."

At the words, the elder woman reeled, and would have gone over, had not the other's indifference given way to alarm. Springing quickly forward, she put both arms about her sister.

"Are you the old woman, sure, what John talks about?" said the housewife. "Yes, as she spoke, Mrs. Bradley Jr. pressed a quivering hand on the other's lips. The nervous salutation left a taste of liquor in its wake, and Mrs. Bradley Jr. gave a shudder which her daughter-in-law, intent on her own observations, failed to notice.

"But you're a swell!" continued the latter, admiringly, as she perked her head critically to one side. "A lady, and no mistake. But of course you'd have to be, to be so good-looking. Your voice unconsciously took on a tender tone, 'an you John Bradley's mother?'"

A new idea took possession of her still clouded brain. "Silly woman! 23 years honest, reliable, thrifty, case, an' a tailor-made gown. Be gory, anybody'd be after comin' to see 'em, an' they'll have to see me, too!" The speech ended with a mysterious wink and a nod.

Then, catching the ends of her dress in both hands, Mrs. Bradley Jr. padded up and down the room, singing in a high, shrill, old-time melody.

The door opened, and John Bradley stood on the threshold, older, grayer, and more stately than of old. An ominous frown gathered on his face as he took in the import of the scene before him.

"Jennie!" The tone was compelling. Abruptly she stopped her song, and with abashed manner, made as if to bid him welcome. A glance held her back.

The elder woman turned quickly, and for the first time John Bradley saw her face.

"John, my boy!" There were no more words of joy in his voice, mingled with a something which she instinctively understood. He gathered her in his arms, and kissed her, and she stood there like a statue.

"You must be completely tired out with your long journey."

"Yes, John, I am tired, terribly tired," said she, clinging to him as if for protection.

He led her to a seat, and gently freeing himself, placed her belongings on a table near by. Then he crossed to the other woman, who sat wide-eyed, drinking in every movement with looks of jealous alarm.

"Jennie," said he, taking her by the hand and leading her forward in his most stately fashion, "my mother has honored us with a visit. Do you best to make her feel at home. This is my mother."

"What this introduction cost him to make, John Bradley alone knew."

The lips of the mother parted in an attempted reply, but Jennie, all eyes to please her husband, intervened.

"The old woman must be tired, John," she said. "I'll trot her upstairs to the front bedroom and show her where to put her things."

John Bradley's face remained impassive. "Thank you, Jennie," replied he, gravely. "I will see mother to her room myself. The front one, did you say?" Gathering up valises and umbrellas, he led the way to a large, well-furnished apartment on the floor above.

"Sit here awhile, mother," said he, drawing an easy chair to the window. Then, traveling slowly and quietly, he seated himself on the footstool by her side, and buried his face in her lap.

She smoothed his hair softly, as when he was a little fellow, come to recount the day's happenings.

"Mother," he said.

"Yes, John," she whispered.

Mrs. Bradley's visit to her son was nearing its close. The days had passed in slow torture since her arrival, and she found herself counting the hours of her return.

After that first evening, John had never even remotely broached the subject of his marriage, and she respected his silence by a reserve equalling his own.

She heard the whole story at last from the lips of Jimmie Potter, who had remained loyal to the friend of his boyhood. Jimmie early became enamored of California life, and refused to leave when Judge Harvey and Henry Mills went back home. He had never married, and it was his custom now and then to spend the evening with John.

It required considerable courage on Jimmie's part to do this telling, which was strictly unpremeditated. He had taken Mrs. Bradley Sr. out driving one moonlight night, and the horses were going at a slow trot when, suddenly on the outskirts of town, a man emerged from the shadow of a big boulder on the roadside. In spite of passing years, there was an involuntary recognition between the two men, and a stifled exclamation came from between Jimmie Potter's lips.

"What is the matter?" inquired Mrs. Bradley, solicitously.

"Oh, nothing," replied Jimmie, with an attempt at indifference, "only a fancied resemblance between that fellow out yonder and some one I once knew."

Mrs. Bradley seemed satisfied with this explanation, but Jimmie turned his head and looked earnestly at the man walking in the moon's path toward town.

It was "Texas," he knew to a certainty. Jimmie Potter was distrustful during the remainder of the drive, and finally, through sheer overpowering impulse which he could not stem, he told Mrs. Bradley the whole story.

She listened calmly enough, without making any comment, until he had finished, when she laid her hand impulsively on his, and in tones which he never forgot, said, "Thank you so much."

At the time, John Bradley was absent in San Francisco, a fact which, Texas, bearded and partially under the influence of liquor, dictated by dim outlines of distant mountains, gave vent to. Through the same agency, he made straight for the Bradley home.

Jennie was alone. Even Mary, the maid, had gone. It was in the full of the moon, and Jennie was on the veranda in the back of the house, when she heard a covert tread on the walk.

"Is that you, Mary?" she called without turning her head.

"No, Mrs. John Bradley. An old acquaintance is here to see you."

Jennie turned swiftly, she drew back at sight of the man confronting her. "Texas!"—the word came slowly, in a frightened whisper.

"I have a message for you," said Texas, and he advanced, he a disheveled, and she in every lineament of her face, "Did you think I had forgotten you?"

Fear tugged at Jennie's heart-strings, and she uttered every lineament of her face, "Did you think I had forgotten you?"

"Get some for me," said he, impulsively.

She shrank back as he came closer. "But where? How? I can't."

"I must have some. You must get it for me or I'll tell that grand husband and his mother the truth about you."

Jennie went white. "Oh, no, no, no!"

"Yes, that," threatened the man. "Time—I must have time," she faltered.

He delivered his ultimatum. "See here, I must have the gold, and no desperate stratagem. I will be here tomorrow at this same hour. If you fail me—remember! He shook his finger warningly at her and disappeared.

That night, as expected, John Bradley returned from the city. He met his mother and Jimmie Potter coming back from their drive, and together the three went to bed.

The lights were burning, and an unvoiced silence pervaded as they entered.

"Where can Jennie be? Jennie, Jennie!" cried Mrs. Bradley.

John Bradley went directly to the living room, and there, on the sofa, lay Jennie, unconscious.

Jimmie Potter, who had followed, went with all his might to the door, but as he passed the sideboard, his hand closed firmly over a tiny empty phial. This he thrust hastily into his inner coat pocket as he hurried out.

Whatever tricks of conscience were suggested by the doctor's declaration that Jennie had long been a sufferer from weakness of the heart, Jennie rallied enough to receive a consolation from the priest, and her last thoughts were of John. "Mother," she whispered, "you'll be after stayin' in, will you now, won't you?"

"Always,"

"Always, Jennie," continued she with evident anxiety, "that he likes his bread and butter."

Mrs. Bradley Sr. nodded.

"An' you'll put sugar in his coffee for him? Sometimes he forgets, you know."

Jennie was satisfied. "John," said she, while the lights about her mouth grew deeper. John Bradley knelt by her side. "John, I'm glad to go, but for I could never leave you."

THE CHILDREN ENJOY

Life out of doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make, comes the greater part of that healthful development which is so essential to their happiness when grown. When a laxative is needed the remedy which is given to them to cleanse and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts, should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from every objectionable quality. The one remedy which physicians and parents, well-informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is—Syrup of Figs—and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by fathers and mothers.

Syrup of Figs is the only remedy which acts gently, pleasantly and naturally without griping, irritating, or nauseating and which cleanses the system effectually without producing that constipated habit which results from the use of the old-time cathartics and modern imitations, and against which the children should be so carefully guarded. If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them medicines, when medicines are not needed, and when nature needs assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle—Syrup of Figs.

Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic syrups and juices, but also to our original method of manufacture and as you value the health of the little ones, do not accept any of the substitutes which unscrupulous dealers sometimes offer to increase their profits. The genuine article may be bought anywhere of all reliable druggists at fifty cents per bottle. Please to remember, the full name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.—is printed on the front of every package. In order to get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine only.

JACK THE GIANT KILLER UP TO DATE.

Objects from which to supply the missing words are all in the picture, four being hidden. Can you make the story complete from them?

Once upon a time there was a little boy named Jack. Now, Jack had been reading trashy literature, so he saved up his loose change, bought a repeating rifle and an electric battery and started out to kill a few giants who had been overlooked by Jack the Giant Killer of old. By and by, at the base of a mountain he came to a great entrance of which was guarded by two fierce giants. He climbed up the mountain till he was over the top of the mountain, then he let down the handles of his electric battery. The infuriated giants seized them, when Jack turned on the current, and the giants fell dead, he boldly entered the cavern, feeling sure that at last he had discovered the den of a giant.

The dense darkness at first appalled him, but hearing a wail of someone in distress, he bravely pushed forward. He soon came to a heavy oaken door, which he opened, and there before him sat an immense giant, with a neck like a tree. His cries were what Jack had heard in the darkness. Unslung his rifle, he was about to slay the monster. On seeing him, the giant's face beamed with joy, and, falling on his knees, he implored Jack to help him. Now, Jack had always been more or less tender-hearted, and he could not resist the giant's pitiful appeal, so he set his rifle down and listened to his tale of woe.

"When I was a little boy," he said, "I lived happily at home with my dear parents, and I was at peace with all the world till my tenth year. From that time on I grew so rapidly that nothing fit me either in or out of the house. I was jeered at and ridiculed by people, until life became a burden to me, and, in desperation, I sought the seclusion of this mountain. Here I have lived alone for sixty years, subsisting on roots and berries, and chestnuts. Fable and legend have woven around the giants of all ages hideous traits of character, which is a great injustice and utterly false. An all-wise Providence willed that I should be taller by several feet than my fellow-man, and thus, through no fault of my own, I am a giant, and hated by all little boys and girls who read fairy tales. Now I appeal to that chivalrous spirit within you. Is it just that I should be compelled to abide in this dismal cave, despised by my fellow man on this account?" Jack asked the giant if this was the reason he had wailed so pitifully, and he answered: "No, while I slept on my back with my mouth open, something dropped from the roof of the cave and lodged so tightly in my throat that I am unable to remove it, and it causes me great pain." Then Jack's heart softened, and, running his hand down the giant's long throat, he pulled out an immense ruby ten inches in diameter. With the giant's consent, he took it to the king, who gave him $7,000,000 for it, and with this money Jack bought the mountain where the giant lived and opened it up for settlement so that what was once a bleak wilderness became a beautiful city, Jack being chosen head ruler, made the giant his chief of police, and the people, being afraid to do wrong, lived happily and died in peace.

The King's wife was jealous of little Snow White, because, when she said to her mirror:

"Looking-glass upon the wall, who is fairest of us all?"

The looking-glass answered:

"Queen, you are fair, 'tis true."

But Snow White fairer is than you." Snow White fled and kept house for the seven little men of the woods; but the Queen, disguised as a peasant, found her and gave her a poisoned apple. They put her in a glass coffin, but the King's son saw her and Snow White returned to life.

Find two of the little men.

Answer to the first of last week's puzzle.

Solution of the puzzle of the Moon-Faced Bear:

The missing words of this fable are as follows: Head, Stream, Lobster, Animals, Stork and Beak.

With the picture in its natural position, an ape is found to left of the bear's face. By using the lower right corner as a base, another is found to the right of the elephant. With the right side of the picture used as base, an elephant is found in the upper right corner, formed in the foliage. By using the left side of the picture as base, a lion is found towards the upper left corner, also formed in the foliage, and a tiger in the lower part, a little to the left of the Moon-Faced Bear.

The names of the articles found around a railroad represented in last week's pictures are: No. 1, Bell; No. 2, Tender; No. 3, Whistle; No. 4, Air Brake; No. 5, Smokestack; No. 6, Rail; No. 7, Cross Tie; No. 8, Cow Catcher; No. 9, Switch; No. 10, Headlight.

A simple wood-cutter fed an old man in the forest and was rewarded by finding a golden goose, which the inn-keeper's three daughters tried to pluck and their hands became fastened. The Simpleton left, with them following. A parson, sexton and two peasants took hold to help the girls and each became fastened.

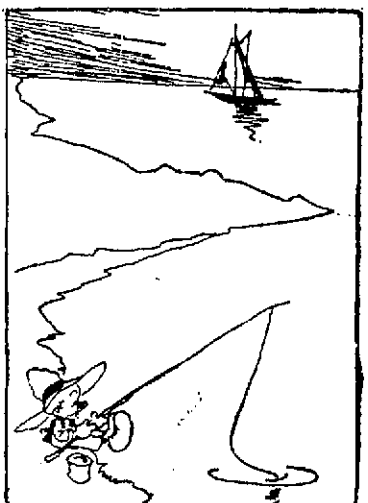

Where is the king? Answer to the second of last week's puzzle.
